Approval Indicated At Parley With House Backers of D. C. Rule Proposal

(Picture on Page 22)

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday gave a House subcommittee strong indication he will go along with the Auchincloss plan for home rule in Washington.

The President met with the subcommittee at the White House. Already on record as favoring District suffrage and local self-government here, Mr. Truman gave the group assurance of his sympathy for the home rule principle.

There was no discussion of the details of the Auchincloss plan during the conference, members said. But they predicted the President may later give specific indorsement to the subcommittee's home rule plan in principle.

Auchincloss Encouraged

Subcommittee Chairman James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) said he was greatly encouraged by the President's views.

Representative Charles B. Deane (D., N. C.), a subcommittee member who had arranged for the conference, said the meeting "gave us a real lift."

Deane said he had asked for the conference in the belief that the President should be kept in close touch with the home rule plan because of his important role in District affairs. The President appoints the top city officials, the three Commissioners, and some other local officials, subject to Senate confirmation.

Deane said the President had been "very receptive" to home rule, and that he told the subcommittee his record in the Senate showed he was entirely sympathetic to the idea of some type of self-government for the District.

Citizens' Wishes a Question

Auchincloss said the President recalled that as a member of the Senate he served on its District appropriations subcommittee.

Deane said the only "if" he detected in the meeting was the question whether the people of the District were really interested in the home rule program. He said he favored the idea, proposed in an editorial in The Washington Post, for setting up a citizens' committee of 100 to lead the campaign for the Auchincloss plan.

The Auchincloss plan calls for putting District affairs into the hands of an elected city council and a manager selected by the council. Council actions would be subject to final veto control by either House of Congress and by the President.

First Presidential Indorsement

President Truman two years ago became the first Chief Executive to indorse District suffrage in all the years Washington has lacked it. No other President had gone to bat for the suffrage idea here since the commission form of government was set up in 1874, ending the limited form of self-government then operating.

The President told his press conference on November 20, 1945, he believed every citizen of the United States, including those in Washington, should have the right to vote. He made the statement when asked for his views on The Washington Post Poll, the first issue of which showed an 84 per cent majority for District suffrage.

A year later, President Truman carried his interest in suffrage to the further point of indorsing specifically the idea of home rule for Washington.

Wreckers Dig Into Empire Debris Today

Workers May Find Bodies of 3 Missing Tenants in Rubble

The Arrow Wrecking Co. will begin clearing away the heap of debris left by the collapse of a section of the Empire Building, 9th st. and New York ave. nw., today at 7:30 a. m.

Belief that the huge pile of wreckage may contain the bodies of three missing tenants grew yesterday as relatives failed to receive any word from them. The three are:

Ernest Dorsey, 44, who lived in apartment 21.

Mrs. K. B. Van Sickler, 79, who lived in apartment 32.

Joseph Smith, who lived in apartment 33, and whose wife was critically hurt.

Dorsey's brother, Roland, silently watched the preparations for razing. His 80-year-old mother, Mrs. Ella F. Dorsey, who was injured, was reported in "good" condition, recovering from shock and bruises.

Mrs. Van Sickler's son, William, also stood by.

Mrs. Lena Smith, wife of Joseph Smith, is still in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital. The 49-year-old woman was reported as "improved" but not sufficiently to permit questioning about her husband. She sustained lacerations of the face and leg and a possible skull fracture.

Lieut. David McCutcheon of the 1st Police Precinct, who was in charge of a 23-man detail at the scene, said he had received no information on the whereabouts of the three missing and therefore considered it likely that they were buried in the debris.

The Tuesday night collapse which took the life of George Patterson, sent 12 to Emergency and Garfield Hospitals for treatment of injuries. By last night, eight were reported in fair to good condition, three were released and Mrs. Therese Mennell was in "serious, but not critical" condition.

The wrecking firm, after securing workmen's compensation and public liability insurance coverage, began making plans for removing the New York ave. street floor plate glass window of the

3d Man Beaten In Daylight Robbery Of Locksmith Shop

Two men were stabbed and a third beaten in a $5 holdup at the Louis Zeitz locksmith shop at 1004 1st st. nw., about 5:30 p. m. yesterday.

The two assailants, who slashed wildly at Abraham Weiner, 36, of 503 Carroll ave., Takoma Park, Md., as he attempted to stop them, fled and were being sought by homicide and robbery squad detectives last night.

Weiner, a butcher in the Everybody's Market around the corner from the locksmith shop, was the most seriously wounded. He was stabbed in the abdomen and slashed across the left temple.

The others injured were:

Zeitz, stabbed in the neck and head, and Albert Winer, 65, of 536 1st st. se., who was beaten.

Police radio broadcasts described the assailants as Negroes, both about 5 feet 6 inches tall. One, about 30, wore a checked brown cap, dark brown overcoat and green sun glasses. The second, about 27 years old, wore a dark gray overcoat and left a dark brown hat at the scene.

According to Weiner, who was pummeled about the head and thrown to the floor, the two men entered the shop and immediately lunged at Zeitz as he came around the counter to meet them.

A passerby ran to the market at 101 K st. nw. and told Weiner a holdup was in progress. As Weiner ran into the shop door, the bandits were coming out the door. One of them, knife still in hand, slashed at him twice.

Zeitz and Weiner were taken to Sibley Hospital.

Zeitz, his wounds dressed, said one of the men rifled one of his pockets as he lay on the floor.

Tax Cut Not Justified Now, Truman Says

Opinion Expressed Despite Forecast Of 7 Billions Surplus

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman was asked yesterday if he thought that a Treasury surplus of seven billion dollars would justify a reduction of taxes. His answer was an emphatic no.

The question came up at a White House news conference late in the day, four hours after Chairman Knutson (R., Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee introduced another tax-reduction bill. This one would cut income taxes by $5,600,000,000. But even as Knutson put it in the hopper, Republicans and Democrats joined in predicting that it faced a presidential veto.

In advance of yesterday's White House news conference, Government officials estimated that the Treasury surplus at the end of March might be as much as seven billion dollars. And they said there was a good chance that the same size surplus would remain when the 1948 fiscal year ended next June 30.

With this in mind, a reporter asked Mr. Truman:

"If there is a budget surplus of seven billion dollars, as reported, do you think that would justify a tax reduction?"

Mr. Truman, without hesitation, said he did not.

"Does that mean," he was asked,

Stopgap Aid Cut Restored By Senators

Committee Puts Back $61,000,000; $20,000,000 Voted For China Relief

BULLETIN

The Senate Appropriations Committee late last night voted to restore 61 million dollars of the amount cut from the interim aid bill, including 20 million dollars for China, and restored the full amount asked for occupation costs. It wrote in a provision that none of the money shall be used for dismantling of German plants.

Chairman Bridges (R., N. H.) called the Senate Appropriations Committee into session at 8 o'clock last night to hear last-minute pleas for emergency aid to France, Italy and Austria on the full scale asked by President Truman.

The meeting originally was scheduled for late afternoon but the pressure of end-of-session business caused its postponement.

The possibility that the Senators might restore 88 million dollars cut from the program by the House yesterday was the last hope that the full 597 million dollars asked by the President would be voted by adjournment time today.

Some committee members also were pressing to put aid for China, eliminated from the stopgap program by the House, back on the list.

Occupation Cost Issue

A third major question before the committee was whether to restore any of the 260 million dollars slashed by the House from the Army's request for 490 million dollars in occupation costs for Germany, Japan and Korea.

Senate committee deliberations came as both houses awaited with great interest President Truman's message outlining the four-year program he wants Congress to approve early next year for helping the economic recovery of 16 western European countries.

Indications were that the 9000-word message, reliably reported to envision a total expenditure of 17 billion dollars by the United States, would be read to Congress shortly after noon today.

While Congress is in recess until January 6, Secretary of State Marshall undoubtedly will take a leading role in the Administration's campaign to "sell" the European recovery program, commonly known as the Marshall Plan, to the public.

It was taken for granted in official circles that Marshall would describe United States aid to Europe as all the more necessary in the light of the London failure to reach agreement with Russia on the future of Germany.

Congressmen Split

Some members of Congress have flatly opposed in advance any further United States assistance, others have said they will consider only limited help and still others favor aid on a year-to-year basis rather than a four-year commitment.

Senate Passes GOP's Inflation Curbs, Votes To Name Speculators

Resolution Adopted After Truman Backs Anderson's Demand For Full Publicity

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Both President Truman and Republican leadership in Congress took steps late yesterday to make public the list of speculators in commodity markets.

At 6:30—less than two hours after Mr. Truman had asked such action—the Senate passed a joint resolution calling upon Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to furnish congressional committees upon request "the names and addresses of all traders" on commodity exchanges, and to "make public" the information simultaneously.

Before passage, the Senate adopted an amendment by Senator Barkley (D., Ky.) to permit Anderson to make such a list public at any time.

President Truman asked for such a resolution from Congress in a brief statement released at his press conference at 4 p. m.

"A resolution giving such authority to the Secretary of Agriculture has already been introduced and could be quickly adopted," the statement said.

"I would approve such a resolution immediately."

(Apparently President Truman was referring to such a resolution introduced in the Senate Wednesday by Senator Barkley (D., Ky.). Passage of Barkley's resolution was blocked at that time by Republican Leader Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio).

Would Publish List

The President also said that "I think that such list should be made public," and later added:

"I have already made my position clear with reference to speculation on the commodity exchanges and I hope that the Congress will act promptly so that the facts in this situation can be shown to all."

Less than an hour after Mr. Truman's statement, Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) introduced his resolution.

Speaker Martin (R., Mass.) told reporters after the Senate action was taken, that the House will consider the resolution today "if we can."

The Chief Executive's statement came five hours after Secretary Anderson offered to reveal the list to the Senate Appropriations Committee, if the committee took either of two actions:

1. Get a joint resolution from Congress revoking the secrecy provisions of the Commodity Exchange Act which provides for collecting the list, or

2. Order him to reveal the list to an open session of the committee with the list being made available at the same time to the press.

Anderson Against Secrecy

The committee refused the latter proposal by a vote of 11 to 8.

Anderson refused to give the list in secret to the committee.

Anderson expects some action to be taken to make the lists available soon. In preparation for such action, he revealed, agents for the Commodity Exchange Authority were ordered Wednesday night to fly to Washington from all sections of the country, with the records required.

During the jockeying with Anderson over revealing the names, the committee first adopted a resolution by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) that the committee recommend immediate passage of the proposed joint resolution.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) then insisted upon a vote on an earlier resolution of his. That asked Anderson to leave

Yule Turkey Costs Top Thanksgiving

Your Christmas turkey will cost you 5 to 10 cents more a pound than the one you bought for Thanksgiving—if you buy it now.

Poultry dealers, however, refuse to predict what will be the price Monday and Tuesday when many Washingtonians do their Christmas turkey shopping.

None held out any hope yesterday that there would be any price cuts. Many, on the other hand, expressed belief there would be an additional boost, dependant on housewives' demands and competition.

Christmas egg-nog also is up—89 cents a quart for top grade, compared to last Christmas' 79 and 80 cents.

In the milk market, however, consumer resistance here to the 1½-cents-a-quart price boost effected November 1 was having a noticeably depressing result on sales.

A check of 10 District dairies by The Washington Post brought reports of milk sales drops from 3 to 8 per cent since the new milk price went into effect.

The only dairy reporting no sales drop was one which increased its price in November but still kept the price under that of other dairies.

The current price of 21 cents a quart for Grade A and 22 cents

Gen. Marshall Reports to Nation Tonight

On Air at 10 P. M. To Tell of Failure Of Big Four Parley

Secretary of State Marshall will return today from the broken-down London Confepence of Foreign Ministers, and tonight will report to the Nation by radio on the conference and the resulting international situation.

His address will be carried by Stations WINX, WMAL, WRC, WOL, WWDC and WTOP at 10 p. m.

President Truman will drive to National Airport to greet the Secretary at about 9 a. m.

Later in the day Mr. Truman will send to Congress his long-awaited message submitting and asking approval of the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

Truman Willing To Meet Stalin —In Washington

President Truman yesterday turned thumbs down on another Big Three conference to resolve world differences, but said he would be happy to see Josef Stalin if the Russian Premier wants to come here.

Questioned at his weekly news conference on the world political situation, Mr. Truman said that he is not downhearted about the prospects for peace despite the breakup of the London Foreign Ministers Conference. The world will know peace eventually, he said.

But he brushed aside suggestions for another Big Three meeting unless the heads of Great Britain and Russia come to Washington.

Then, speaking firmly and seriously, he said he would be most happy to see Stalin in Washington if he wanted to come.

House Action On Control Plan Scheduled Today; Approval Seen

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

In a complete reversal of congressional expectations, the Senate yesterday passed inflation control legislation in time for the House to agree to consider it today.

The bill, containing what amounts to four points—relatively minor ones, however—of the President's 10-point program, will be taken up by the House under procedure permitting only two hours of debate and almost no possibility for amendment.

Its chances for passage appeared good, in that it is presented under majority party auspices. And in the Senate yesterday, most Democrats also found they could not vote against it.

Approved, 77 to 10

The bill, a modification of a measure presented by Senator Taft (R., Ohio), Senate GOP Policy Committee chairman, was passed by the Senate 77 to 10. Approval came after a series of closer votes in which Democrats tried unsuccessfully to insert powers for compulsory allocation and priority programs.

As it stands, the measure's chief emphasis is on an attack against inflation through "voluntary" methods—agreements, sponsored by the Government, with business groups to channel scarce supplies to essential users.

In addition, the legislation extends for one year controls over exports and rail transportation which would otherwise expire next February 29; and gives one power of compulsory allocation. This is authority for the Secretary of Agriculture to limit grain going to distillers until next February 1.

Efforts to win voluntary agreement from distillers for a continuation of the "whisky holiday" are now going on, but without favorable results.

Prospects at First Poor

When the Senate resumed discussion of the Taft bill yesterday noon, prospects for its enactment appeared definitely poor. Congressional leaders were less than hopeful that a series of anticipated amendments could be disposed of in time to transmit the measure to the House for the last day of the special session.

But the House Rules Committee waited around for the bill's passage in the late afternoon. Then, over the objections of Democratic members and other Representatives, it put through the gag rule under which the House will consider the measure today.

In the Senate, minority leader Barkley (D., Ky.) led a day-long drive to give President Truman powers to institute Federal allocation programs which would compel producers, processors and distributors of scare commodities to apportion them as ordered.

Two different amendments to this end were voted down, 32 to 47, and 35 to 48. The votes were almost entirely party line affairs, with only three Democrats, Byrd (Va.), Robertson (Va.) and O'Daniel (Tex.) and one Republican, Morse (Ore.) crossing over from their sides.

Finally, failing in other efforts, Barkley proposed to strike out the entire section of the bill dealing with voluntary agreements. His argument was that the relaxation of the antitrust laws involved was dangerous and unwise. The vote against his motion was close, 42 to 44.

Bill is Modified

As the bill emerged from the Senate it was a considerable modification from the form in which Taft had originally offered it. There were four principal changes:

1. An additional provision, offered by Barkley, permitting the Commodity Credit Corporation to stimulate the production of food in non-European countries. The devices contemplated were the offering of American technical aid, most important, the making of "adseed, fertilizer and equipment and, most important, the making of "advances and price guarantees."

These latter would provide inducements to foreign countries to grow more food, because there would be the assurance of a market at an agreed-upon price for the harvest.

2. A second Barkley addition, authorizing a one-million-dollar fund to the Department of Agriculture for an intensified program of food and feed conservation. It would be done by educational and propa-

Goes to General Assembly

2% Sales and Use Taxes Urged To Meet Va. School Problem

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (AP)—The Moses School Study Commission recommended today that a general retail sales and use tax not exceeding 2 per cent be adopted along with other levies to meet increased expenditures it urged should be made in the State's educational program—including higher teachers' salaries.

The long-awaited report of the commission headed by Senator Charles T. Moses of Appomattox, also recommended increased rates in individual income taxes, in corporation taxes, in rates of gross receipts taxes on public service corporations. It estimated a sales tax of 2 per cent would raise 23 million dollars and that revenues from the other sources would bring the total to $34,932,506.

The commission was created by a joint resolution of the 1947 extra session of the general assembly the report was released by Governor Tuck's office.

The Moses commission said it had considered adoption of a tax on tobacco along with a general sales and use tax and said it does not believe Virginia needs both. It added, however, that it strongly believes that one of the two should be adopted at the forthcoming session of the General Assembly.

"It is a choice between the two alternatives, and the commission recommends the general sales tax in preference to a tobacco tax," the report stated.

Air Force Fights Appointment Of Radford to No. 2 Navy Job

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Air Force opposition has blocked the appointment of the Navy's choice for Vice Chief of Naval Operations and is holding up an impending reshuffling of the naval high command, officials said yesterday.

Navy chiefs, it was said, had chosen Vice Admiral Arthur W. Radford, now commanding an Atlantic Fleet task force, for the No. 2 Navy job. Top Air Force officers, however, opposed his appointment and have carried their protests to President Truman.

Radford, an outstanding carrier task group commander during the war, is looked upon as naval aviation's "champion" in the high command. He was the logical choice for chief deputy to the new Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Louis E. Denfield, as the latter is a surface ship officer and Navy policy ... calls for a flier in one of the two top jobs. Denfeld and other Navy leaders urged his appointment.

Radford Reeves

Air Force Officers, however, did not like the choice, and cited Radford's opposition to unification of the armed services as a reason why he should be passed over for the key post.

This situation led to the suggestion of Rear Admiral John W. (Blackjack) Reeves, Naval Air Transport Service commander, as

Bevin Blasts Soviet 'Orders' To Neighbors

London, Dec. 18 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin charged today that Russia had "ordered" her neighboring nations to stay out of the Marshall Plan, thus violating "their independence and sovereignty."

His words—strong terms in discussing the affairs of another nation—were uttered in the House of Commons where he was the first of the Foreign Ministers to deliver a formal report to the public on the breakdown of the four-power council's deliberations on Germany.

He charged that Russia's "hostile propaganda" during the three weeks' conference had "made it impossible to get to grips with the fundamental principles involved."

Denies Soviet Charges

Firmly, he denied Soviet accusations the Western powers are attempting to divide Germany and Europe.

"We shall do our best to try to produce out of this difficult situation," he said, "what I still believe is necessary—the unity not only of Germany but the unity of Europe and the peace of world."

Bevin spoke as Secretary of State Marshall and American Ambassador to Britain Lewis Douglas, took off by plane for home. Bevin had lunch with the two American diplomats.

Douglas' departure revived reports he may be slated for a post in administration of the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

Only One Bright Spot

There was little to balance the sharp disappointment and pessimism reflected in Bevin's report to Commons. The single bright spot came in his discussion of Austria's future. He said there was an "indication" that a new Soviet proposal on Austria may be advanced soon, and expressed hope it would lead to a peace settlement.

This came only a few hours after Dr. Karl Gruber, Austrian Foreign Minister, told a news conference here that there appeared to be "real hope" for the first time that the Big Four would write an agreed peace pact for his country.

A British Foreign Office spokesman expressed the opinion at another news conference that yesterday's discussion between the Foreign Minister's deputies over East-West differences in Austria was "encouraging and helpful."

All three references—Bevin's, Gruber's and the Foreign Office spokesman's — apparently were based upon Russia's offer to submit counter-proposals to a French compromise plan for settling disposition of German assets in Austria, chief barrier to an agreement.

This was in line with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's announcement to the Council of Foreign Ministers that he was ready to study the French proposal as a basis for discussion. Previously, when the French compromise was presented at a four-power commission meeting in Austria, the Russians had refused even to discuss it.

The French formula would give Russia 100 million dollars worth of goods from Austrian production over the next 10 years, all Germany's former Danubian shipping interests, half of the output of the Zisterdorf oil fields and one-third share in prospected oil areas. All these properties had been taken over by the Germans although former owners included many foreign interests, including British and American.

The Soviet statement yesterday reserved a decision on the 100 million dollars worth of goods, and demanded a two-thirds share in the Zisterdorf oil fields and other prospected oil areas. Previously the Russians have demanded 100 per cent.

Forestalls Debate

Bevin forestalled a full dress debate at this time on the problems involved in the Council's breakdown and the pending moves by the western powers to link Germany's industrial machine into the European recovery program.

"His Majesty's government," he said, "would prefer to study the problem as it now is, in all its aspects. It really means taking a grave decision in the face of the world and the future."

"We have no desire to divide the world," he added.

Laborite William H. Warbey brought cries of "Oh—Oh!" from both sides of the house when he told Bevin he indorsed "a good deal" of the Foreign Secretary's criticism of Russia, but asked if Bevin did not "attach some blame to the American delegatoin."

Bevin replied: "I am not praising or blaming. What I have said is that we could not carry on."

Bevin made it plain Britain would not back down in the disputes between the western powers and Russia which brought the conference collapse. He made these points:

On reparations—Russia refused the Council any information on its activities in eastern Germany unless the western powers agreed to Soviet claims for 10 billion [illegible] in advance. "I could not make any blind commitments in [illegible] cumstances on behalf of the British people," Bevin added.

Wheat Drop Of 229 Million Bushels Seen

In spite of recent favorable weather in the winter wheat belt, next year's crop will be 229 million bushels below this year's record crop of 1067 million, the Government Crop Reporting Board forecast yesterday.

The terrific drop below this year's production comes as the second blow in two days to the Government's plans for export of grain to needy nations overseas.

On Wednesday, in its final report for 1947, the crop board found its previous estimates for wheat, corn and oats—a total already below 1946—were 105 million bushels too high.

The Government's goal for export of 500 million bushels of wheat this year would amount to almost half the entire winter wheat crop forecast yesterday for 1948.

The wide extent of the damage from drought this fall in the vast winter wheat belt of the Southwest was shown in the estimate.

Some States Planting More

The forecast for that five-State area, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado, is for only 383 million bushels, compared to a yield this year of 659 million.

A still more pessimistic forecast for wheat was avoided by reports from areas not ordinarily great winter wheat producers.

A "marked shift into winter wheat in the north central States, particularly Illinois, Missouri and Iowa, where wheat acreage in recent years has been quite low," was credited by the board for an improvement in prospects.

This shift, however, may come largely at the cost of meat, already predicted to be abnormally short next year. Many pastures have been plowed and seeded to wheat in those States—pastures in former years used for cattle production. Other land seeded for wheat in those States included fields that were idle this year because of spring floods.

Condition 24% Below Normal

A total of 58,648,000 acres will be seeded to wheat this year—half a million more than produced last year's much greater crop. But an average production of 14.3 bushels an acre is expected in place of this year's all-time high average of 18.4 bushels an acre.

The condition of the winter wheat today is 76 per cent of normal. Last year at this time it was 93 per cent. It is expected that 15 per cent will not be harvested for grain—against only 5.7 per cent this year.

Rye also is not so promising as this year. Although 3,736,000 acres was seeded as compared with 7,709,000 the condition on December 1 was only 86 per cent of normal. Last year at this time the condition was 92 per cent. On the enlarged acreage—much of it at the expense of other crops—the yield is not expected to exceed this year's harvest.

Winter Wheat Decrease Forecast in Area States

All three States near the District—Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia—have prospects of lower winter wheat crops next year, in spite of larger acreages sowed, the Crop Reporting Board said.

The forecast for Maryland is 6,704,000 bushels, compared with 7,770,00 this year, although it has 419,000 acres seeded, compared with 399,000 a year ago.

The Virginia forecast is for 8,085,000 bushels against 8,522,000 this year; although acreage is 539,000, compared with 528,000 last year.

The West Virginia forecast is for 1,313,000 bushels against 1,763,000 this year, although 101,000 acres are seeded, compared with 100,000 last year.

New Stratojet Bomber in Test . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

FAST AS A FIGHTER—The United States Air Force's new Stratojet bomber, the XB-47 passes its first flight test at Moses Lake, Wash. Bigger than a B-29, the plane is said to be faster than the new jet fighters. Swept-back wings are part of its radical design. In addition to six jet engines, the aircraft has two rocket boosters in the tail

Pilots Laud New Bomber's Performance

Moses Lake, Wash., Dec. 18 (U.P.).—Pilots who tested the radical new Boeing XB-47 bomber said today that it is "a wonderful airplane."

The big plane was designed to carry more than 10 tons of bombs, equaling the pay load of the B-29, at close to the speed of sound.

The stratojet made a 50-minute maiden flight yesterday.

The six-jet experimental bomber with sharply swept-back wing and tail surfaces covered the 145 miles from Seattle in 27 minutes.

Officers said the flight was not designed as a speed test. They said cautiously that the XB-47 was "in the 500-mile-per-hour class."

Pilot Robert Robbins and Copilot Scott Osler said engineers called the airplane's performance "right on the button all the way."

Gromyko Says U. S. Delays Atomic Pact

Lake Success, Dec. 18 (AP).—Andrei A. Gromyko charged "certain influential circles" in the United States today with preventing an agreement on atomic energy control, and demanded that the United Nations stop "killing time" on "useless" discussions.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister, in effect, served notice that the U. N. must agree unanimously on how to control the atom for peace before creating an involved machine to make such control work.

Speaking to the last meeting this year of the working committee of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission, Gromyko said it would be in the "interests" of the United States, as a nation, and of the United States people to reach agreement on fundamentals of atomic control.

He said that all other talk, such as plans for the delegates to write a report on the organization of an atomic development authority, was "useless" in the absence of fundamental agreement.

Frederick H. Osborn, United States deputy on the committee, promptly said the United States was ready to discuss Russia's plans for atomic control.

The upshot of the committee meeting is this:

1. The political committee of the Atomic Commission will take up a series of British questions and Russian answers dealing with Soviet proposals for setting up an international control commission.

2. The commission's controls committee will take up work on the organization, administration and financing of an atomic authority.

Far Apart as Ever

3. The majority of 10 nations and Soviet Russia are as far apart as ever on the big question of atomic control.

Zlotowski said he hoped the scientists could clear away as soon as possible "that terrible secrecy in atomic research."

In a farewell address to the committee, the Polish delegate, Professor Ignacy Zlotowski, former science teacher at Vassar College and Ohio State University, pleaded with his fellow scientists to make a real effort to "prevent scientific disaster in the future."

The working committee adjourned until January, with a definite date yet to be fixed for resumption of the atomic talks.

Judge Lovins to Run Against Sen. Revercomb

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Supreme Court Judge W. T. Lovins of Huntington today announced that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in 1948.

The post is now held by Republican Senator Chapman Revercomb of Charleston, who is expected to seek renomination.

House Votes 'Grey Market' Investigation

By The Associated Press

The House yesterday gave unanimous approval to an investigation of "gray market" operations to stamp out "conspiratorial practices which seriously undermine and threaten the national economy."

"Gray markets" which are not necessarily illegal, operate on a premimum price basis in the fields of scarce commodities.

The resolution, introduced by Representative Macy (R., N. Y.), authorizes the Public Works Committee to undertake the probe, and hold Nation-wide hearings, with the power to subpena witnesses and records. It will deal especially with conditions which Representative Brown (R., Ohio) told the House jeopardize the Nation's public works program and construction of new homes.

The Senate Banking Committee voted to hold hearings next month on a bill by Senator Capehart (R., Ind.) to "freeze" prices temporarily at levels that prevailed last Saturday. However, this date might be changed in view of the committee's decision to defer action on the legislation until the regular sesson in January.

Chairman Tobey (R., N. H.) told reporters the committee will give "all interested parties" a chance to testify on the bill.

As drafted, the measure would not affect prices for services, such as automobile repairs. But it does stipulate that no used car could be sold at more than the price of a new one of the same make.

In another development, Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers, said that Government and private industry are failing to halt inflation, and that labor will "have no other recourse" but to ask for more pay in the next few months.

Reuther told a National Press Club luncheon that "labor does not want to play the role of a competing pressure group," but that it will "have to take the initiative on the only front open to it—exerting its economic strength for wage increases."

"I pray God," he said, "that we will not have an economic Pearl Harbor before we wake up."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday that wholesale prices during the week ended December 13 rose to new postwar highs and approached the all-time peak of May, 1920.

Increases were recorded in most major commodity groups, sending the wholesale price index covering about 900 commodities to 161.4 per cent of the 1926 average. The weekly increase was 0.2 per cent. The May, 1920, index was 167.2. The bureau said the actual difference between that figure and today's index is less than 4 per cent.

Compared to a month ago, the index is 1.8 per cent higher and it is 1.5 per cent above a year ago.

The index is 98.4 per cent above the corresponding week of 1937 and 72.99 per cent above December, 1929.

Pope Expected to Last Out At Reds in Christmas Address

Vatican City, Dec. 18 (U.P.).—Pope Pius XII is working on a Christmas Eve world broadcast which probably will be an outspoken statement on international affairs growing out of the collapse of the London Foreign Ministers Conference, sources close to the papal household said today.

The speech is expected to center on the theme, "Freedom and Peace," and will review the year's highlights in international affairs. It will stress heavily the human problems of continued want and of displaced persons, spokesmen said.

The address, before the Scared College of Cardinals, will be broadcast to the world at 4 a. m. (EST), Wednesday.

A prelate argued that the Pope could not remain indifferent to the spreading of objectionable aspects of the Communist ideology in such former Catholic strongholds as Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Romania and Bulgaria.

He said the Church was most worried about "methods presently being used to bolshevize Poland, which always has been considered as a budwark of the church." He added that the same could be said of Italy, whose Communist Party strength is second only to that in Russia.

Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee went over Chairman Knutson's bill just before it was introduced, and were reported to be in general agreement on the principles.

However, Speaker Martin (R., Mass.), said that Knutson was introducing "his own" bill. This appeared to indicate that the Republican leadership had not yet taken a stand on the measure.

Representative Crawford (R., Mich.), told reporters that it was his guess that "it will never get past the White House." He said first attention should be given to building up the Nation's defenses.

Representative Gore (D., Tenn.), made this comment: "Under the circumstances we face, I don't see how any President could sign such a bill from the standpoint of justice or sound fiscal policy."

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.), chairman of the House Veterans Committee, thought that the tax-cut figure in Knutson's bill was "perhaps a little high." She said she would oppose any cuts in veterans or national defense appropriations to make room for tax cuts.

Present Taxes Compared to Cut

Florida Stamp Issue Annoys Californians

Santa Monica, Calif., (AP).—Those new Everglades National Park commemorative stamps are making no hit here.

Postmaster Philip T. Hill laid in 100,000 of the new 3-centers. But ever since he's been taking a lot of joshing by customers asking why they should help publicize Florida.

A woman who had bought 200 of them called up and demanded her money back.

"Why, there's a map of Florida on these stamps," she declared. "Do you think I'm going to send Christmas cards advertising Florida all over the country?"

Hill told her to bring 'em back and he would exchange them for the regular kind.

a compromise candidate. A week ago, naval circles heard that Reeves' appointment was settled. Many ranking Navy men, however, took exception at what they considered "Air Force pressure" and fought for Radford. Yesterday it appeared that the latter had a good chance of being named.

These Navy leaders urged that failure to name Radford would be construed as a blow at naval aviation and lower Navy fliers' morale.

The name of Vice Admiral John Dale Price, commander of the Pacific Fleet Air Force, also has been mentioned as a possible alternate for the job.

Meanwhile, the entire Navy high command "slate," which will send many top officials to new posts, is held up. Admiral DeWitt Ramsay, present Vice Chief of Naval Operations, who has been chosen as the new commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet and Pacific theater chief, still is holding on here.

So is Vice Admiral Forrest Sherman, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations. Sherman has been selected to replace Admiral Richard Conolly as commander of United States naval forces in Europe.

He Came to Stay

Boston (U.P.).—In 1907 the late Dr. George B. Magrath asked William E. Patten to fill in for a few days as clerk in the medical examiner's office. Patten stayed for 40 years and in that time recorded the deaths of some 32,800 greater Boston residents.

RIVER TERRACE SUPER MARKET BRINGS YOU ANOTHER
"FIRST IN WASHINGTON!"

THE First Self-Service MEAT DEPARTMENT with all these advantages

1 QUICK, SPEEDY SERVICE: No waiting for your number to be called; no standing in line to be waited upon; you just look, see, buy what you want.
2 GREATER SELECTIVITY AND VARIETY AT ALL TIMES: You just pass down the open, clear-view showcases and, before your eyes, at any hour, is a full selection of all cuts of meats.
3 THERE'S NO SALESMAN TO "SELL YOU": You select your choice of meat —LAMB, VEAL, BEEF, PORK—the cut you want, at the price you want, in the amount you want.
4 BUY WHAT YOU WANT—AT THE PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD TO PAY: It's all "before your eyes"; different cuts of the meat you want, and in different sizes or weights. You're "the boss" of your selection.
5 EACH PIECE OF MEAT IS WRAPPED IN SPECIAL CELLOPHANE: Each cut of any meat you choose is pre-cut then carefully weighed, low-priced and then wrapped in "special cellophane"—which is "the first" in new, modern, sanitary packaging.
6 ALL THIS MEANS LOWER COSTS TO YOU—YOU SAVE ON EVERY PURCHASE: Fewer clerks, less sales expense, less overhead, means River Terrace gives YOU the benefits of all these savings.

2% Sales and Use Taxes Urged To Meet Va. School Problem and suggested a "bracket system" for adding and collecting the sales tax as follows:

1. On each sale where the price is from 15 cents to 50 cents, both inclusive, 1 cent.

2. On each sale where the price is from 51 cents to $1, both inclusive, 2 cents.

3. On each 50 cents of price or fraction thereof in excess of $1 dollar, 1 cent.

It also recommended that the retailer should be allowed a reasonable amount as payment for services in the collection of the sales and use tax.

A portion of the receipts from a sales tax should be returned to the counties and cities with the basis of distribution on population. The commission recommended that the counties and cities should receive 20 per cent of the net revenue derived, or in lieu of this, a fixed amount of five million dollars.

The commission recalled, in concluding its report, that five public hearings were held jointly by the Moses group and a committee of the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council also studying the school situation and "a special effort was made to ascertain the attitude of the people of Virginia toward increased expenditures for public schools."

The commission recommended that the State provide funds for a base salary of about $1600 for 10 months employment per teacher and that supplements to this amount should be added by each county and city in accordance with the localities ability to set up a satisfactory schedule of teachers' salaries.

It also recommended that the State Board of Education make "a careful survey of the teacher salary situation in the schools of the State" and then establish a minimum salary schedule which every county or city will be required to meet in order to be eligible to receive reimbursements from the State salary aid fund for teachers.

Taft-Hartley Act Hearing Deferred

A hearing on the constitutionality of the Taft-Hartley Communist oath has been put off by the District Court until February 2.

Three judges were to hear the issue today.

The National Maritime Union and its President Joseph Curran told the court the Taft-Hartley Act violated the Constitution, with its requirement that unions lose their standing before the National Labor Relations Board unless their officers swore they were not Communists.

NO PLACE TO LIVE—Mrs. Sophia Varellos, 67, who survived the collapse of the Empire apartment-hotel, sits homeless with the belongings she recovered

Wreckers to Start Clearing Empire Building Rubble Today

City Finance Co. through which workers will haul out the debris.

The next step will be to remove the roof and raze the interior to the fourth-floor level. George Papanicolas, brother of Nick Papanicolas, told reporters. The building will later be remodeled to house three floors of commercial offices over the street-level stores, he explained.

The secretary of the wrecking firm, Edward J. Rohter, said a winch truck may be employed to haul out heavy pieces of wreckage such as concrete floors.

Estimates Loss at $250,000

George Papanicolas, an attorney, estimated the building loss at $250,000. His brother, Nick, disclosed that while he had about $150,000 worth of fire, explosion, storm and bomb insurance, his general liability coverage was limited to about $20,000.

Occupants of the 36 apartments, which were vacated by order of the Fire Department Tuesday night, returned to the scene yesterday seeking various necessities which were brought out in sacks by firemen.

One woman, Miss Mary Hose, returned to reclaim her year-old cat, "Baby," which firemen found in a fifth floor window. Miss Hose, who was absent from her apartment at the time of the collapse, said the gray and white feline "was starving."

While police halted pedestrian and vehicle traffic for a block on each side of the structure, crowds still lined nearby sidewalks. Business in the vicinity was at a standstill.

Streetcars continued along New York ave., at a reduced rate of speed. Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young and Building Inspector Robert H. Davis said the movement of the vehicles would not endanger the remaining building shell.

The ban on pedestrian and vehicle traffic will be continued until the structure is considered "safe," Davis said. George Papanicolas estimated the clearing of debris and razing of top stories would take about four weeks.

He said that personal belongings removed from the structure would be placed in a warehouse for release upon proper identification. James M. Congwer, consulting engineer, has been retained to advise on the wrecking and new construction projects, Papanicolas said.

General Young, Davis and Battalion Fire Chief W. J. Kay, answering queries on why the search for bodies was halted, agreed that any further probing of the wreckage would seriously endanger the lives of many firemen and that further work was handicapped by a lack of proper equipment and machinery.

General Young declared last night after receiving reports that a contractural agreement between Nick Papanicolas and the Arrow Wrecking Co. had bogged down, said that if necessary the District would hire the firm, but that work would begin today "one way or another."

"If there are persons beneath the debris, it is a shocking thing not to get at them right away, but we must get skilled persons to do the job," he explained.

Plan to Work at Night

He said the wrecking crew would consist of two shifts, working a 16-hour day, if possible. He said fire trucks might be requisitioned to supply light for after-dark operations.

The Engineer Commissioner said R. D. Kinney of the inspector's office had been assigned to remain on the scene and check debris as removed for possible clews in the "detective job" of finding the cause of the accident.

Representative Walt Horan (R., Wash.), chairman of the District Subcommittee on Appropriations, said his group would cooperate with District officials in any recommendations to "eliminate dangerous things like this in the future."

An inspector's report on recent remodeling of the structure's street floor exterior was still missing yesterday. General Young said, however, that "while embarrassing," it was "completely immaterial" to the accident. He said the inspection had been made and a facsimile of the original report would be prepared by Oscar Estep, the inspector, for the files.

Meanwhile, Fire Chief Clement Murphy was asked to explain the presence of his sedan at the accident scene Tuesday night with no occupant other than the driver, Pvt. B. H. Statz. He said Statz had informed him of the accident and he had dispatched him to see if his presence were needed. When Statz called to say it was not, he remained at home, Chief Murphy said.

3 Annapolis Citizens Receive Navy Awards

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 18 (AP).—Three Annapolis citizens were awarded Navy citations for services to the U. S. Naval Reserve today. They were Mayor William U. McCready, Richard Lankford and Judge William J. McWilliams. The certificates were signed by former Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal and Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., Naval Academy superintendent.

Senate Votes Republican's Anti-Inflation Bill

Taft Accepts Additions

Both of these additions were accepted by Taft. He took the position that the Government already had these powers, but if Barkley wanted to spell them out, he had no objection.

Both items were points in the President's 10-point anti-inflation program, but they are of relatively minor weight.

3. A substitution of Administration language relating to exemption from antitrust prosecutions in connection with businessmen's participation in voluntary allocation agreements.

Taft himself offered the substitute. His original version of the antitrust law waiver had been repeatedly condemned by the Democrats. They said it was entirely too broad an exemption, and secondly, that it put the President in an embarassing hole. Businessmen were to submit the agreements to him, giving him no choice as to the terms, but only the right to approve or veto the agreements.

Harrigan Bill Utilized

The substitute language was lifted from an Administration bill originally offered to the Congress by Secretary of Commerce Harriman. Narrower in its exemptions, it provides for Justice Department review of all agreements. It also appeared to give the President more initiate in prescribing the terms in the first place.

Last week a White House official said Mr. Truman had no objection to the provision in the Harriman bill. He implied, however, that the original Taft bill language constituted so great a relaxation of the antitrust laws that the President would not accept it.

4. An amendment, sponsored by Senators Flanders (R., Vt.) and Baldwin (R., Conn.), instructing the President to report to Congress any situation involving a scarce commodity where he felt a compulsory conservation program should be instituted.

It instructed Mr. Truman to present measures to solve the situation, and prescribed that the Joint Economic Committee should hold hearings within 15 days to make recommendations for legislation.

Criticized as Superfluous

The amendment was criticized as superfluous, since the President already has such power and could be presumed to recommend legislation whenever he thought it was needed. In fact, he has, in his 10-point plan presented to the opening of the special session.

But the Flanders-Baldwin proposal was accepted by Taft and approved by a voice vote.

Senator Morse condemned it, and the rest of the bill in general, as an "empty gesture." Putting the Democrats' case more forcefully than they themselves did Morse argued that it was painfully clear that compulsory methods are needed now to stop inflation.

Instead of granting them, he argued, the Congress was "wasting precious weeks" on the "voluntary" approach. He deplored what he said was the primarily "political" nature of the whole debate and procedure.

Both sides, he added, were jockeying for position in the presidential elections next year. The present bill was only an attempt by leaders of the party to pass to the White House a responsibility which belonged to Congress, he said.

Buck-Passing Charge

On Wednesday Morse had termed the bill a device to "pass the political buck" to the President. Asked about the bill at his press conference yesterday, Mr. Truman said the matter had been well commented on by Morse.

At the end, Barkley, speaking for the Democrats, said he felt the bill had more good in it than bad.

Anti-Inflation Vote in Senate

The roll call by which the Senate yesterday approved, 77-10, the Republican anti-inflation bill:

FOR THE BILL (77)

Republicans (45)

AIKEN (Vt.), BALDWIN (Conn.), BALL (Minn.), BRICKER (Ohio), BRIDGES (N. H.), BROOKS (Ill.), BUCK (Del.), BUSHFIELD (S. Dak.), BUTLER (Nebr.), CAIN (Wash.), CAPEHEART (Ind.), CAPPER (Kans.), COOPER (Ky.), CORDON (Oreg.), DONNELL (Mo.), DWORSHAK (Idaho), ECTON (Mont.), FERGUSON (Mich.), FLANDERS (Vt.), GURNEY (S. Dak.), HAWKES (N. J.), HICKENLOOPER (Iowa), IVES (N. Y.), JENNER (Ind.), KEM (Mo.), KNOWLAND (Calif.), LODGE (Mass.), MALONE (Nev.), MARTIN (Pa.), McCARTHY (Wis.), MILLIKIN (Colo.), MOORE (Okla.), REED (Kans.), REVERCOMB (W. Va.), ROBERTSON (Wyo.), SALTONSTALL (Mass.), SMITH (N. J.), TAFT (Ohio), TOBEY (N. H.), VANDENBERG (Mich.), WATKINS (Utah), WHITE (Me.), WILEY (Wis.), WILLIAMS (Del.), YOUNG (N. Dak.)

Democrats (32)

BARKLEY (Ky.), BYRD (Va.), DOWNEY (Calif.), EASTLAND (Miss.), ELLENDER (La.), FULBRIGHT (Ark.), GREEN (R. I.), HATCH (N. Mex.), HAYDEN (Ariz.), HOEY (N. C.), HOLLAND (Fla.), JOHNSON (Colo.), JOHNSTON (S. C.), KILGORE (W. Va.), MAYBANK (S. C.), McCARRAN (Nev.), McCLELLAN (Ark.), McFARLAND (Ariz.), McGRATH (R. I.), McKELLAR (Tenn.), McMAHON (Conn.), MYERS (Pa.), O'CONOR (Md.), O'MAHONEY (Wyo.), OVERTON (La.), ROBERTSON (Va.), RUSSELL (Ga.), SPARKMAN (Ala.), STENNIS (Miss.), TAYLOR (Idaho), TYDINGS (Md.), UNDERWOOD (N. C.)

AGAINST THE BILL (10)

Republicans (3)

LANGER (N. Dak.), MORSE (Oreg.), WILSON (Iowa)

Democrats (7)

CHAVEZ (N. Mex.), DONNALLY (Tex.), HILL (Ala.), MAGNUSON (Wash.), MURRAY (Mont.), O'DANIEL (Tex.), THOMAS (Utah)

He declared that the Congress and the people would "soon discover the inadequacy and utter incompetence of the bill" to deal with the situation.

Nevertheless, he said, he would take "an optimistic view" that it might do some good, and would therefore vote for it. Three Republicans and seven Democrats disagreed to the extent of voting against the measure.

When the bill comes up in the House today, Democrats can scarcely repeat the trouncing they delivered the GOP on Monday, when a similar bill was before them. Under procedure at that time, a two-thirds vote was necessary to pass the measure, and the Republicans could not obtain it.

The circumstances are different today, with only a simple majority necessary. Furthermore, the bill is considerably improved, from the point of view of the Democrats. It contains some of the points requested by the President and little that is in itself downright objectionable to his program.

Estimates Of Distillery Jobless Hit

By The Associated Press

Estimates that the temporary shutdown in the distilling industry would throw from 50,000 to 100,000 people out of work were described by President Truman yesterday as "hysterical."

Actually, the President told his news conference, only 414 employes are now jobless as a result of the closedown, which was designed to save grain.

(John E. McKiernan, vice president and international representative of the AFL-Distillery, Rectifying and Wine Workers Union of America, who said in an interview at Frankfort, Ky., on October 9 that the plan would mean the loss of jobs for 100,000 persons in the Nation, was not available today for comment on the President's statement.)

In a statement praising the "effective work" of the Citizens Food Committee, headed by Charles Luckman, Mr. Truman said:

"I have received today the final report of the Citizens Food Committee, headed by Mr. Charles Luckman, and I wish again to thank the committee for its effective work in the emergency phase of our food conservation program. The report will be released for publication shortly. I think you will find it extremely interesting.

"I wish to call your attention particularly to the statement about the number of men thrown out of work by the temporary shutdown of the distilleries. I believe you will find a good story there.

"You will recall the estimates that 50 to 100 thousand employes would be thrown out of their jobs. Later it appeared that a maximum of some 3000 workers might be affected. The report now shows that 965 workers were actually let off because of the shut-down and that the United States Employment Service was able to place 551 of these in new jobs. The result is that only 414 of the distillery workers are now out of work—414 as contrasted with the hysterical estimate of more than 50,000."

Sen. Davis' Children Share $25,000 Bequest

Pittsburgh, Dec. 18 (AP).—The will of Senator James J. Davis, which was probated today, divides $25,000 in personal property equally among five children.

They are: Jean, Joan, Jewell, Jane and James J., jr., all of Washington. The former Cabinet member died November 22 in the Capital.

Silver Spring Groups Fight Zone Change

Silver Spring residents fought commercial encroachment on their residential community yesterday at a zoning hearing held by the Montgomery Commissioners.

A total of 29 zoning petitions were heard at the day-long session held in the Silver Spring Police Court.

Of the 29 petitions, 16 were commercial zoning requests for property now zoned residential on Cedar st., Pershing dr. and Ellsworth dr.

The opponents argued the present northern boundary line of the Silver Spring commercial district at Fenton st. should not be extended.

All of the petitions were taken under advisemnt.

Judge Refuses To Extradite Negro to Georgia

Pittsburgh, Dec. 18 (U.P.)—Judge Samuel Weiss today refused to extradite a Negro fugitive to face "Georgia justice" because to do so would be "signing his death warrant."

Judge Weiss, of Allegheny County Common Pleas Court, freed James Moreland, 26, of Butts County, Ga., who fled a prison hospital after serving three years of a 12-term for a $20 burglary.

Butts County authorities reported that Pennsylvania could keep Moreland because he was "the damnedest, sorriest Negro we ever had and a one-man crime wave."

The judge said the court does not intend to make Pennsylvania a haven for fugitives, and he would not apply the "same yardstick" if the request for extradition had come from New York, Ohio, Virginia, Michigan, Illinois or other States.

Official Denies Horses Booty

Joseph A. Todd of the State Department told a Senate Armed Services subcommittee yesterday that the Hungarian horses in this country should not be considered war booty because they were not being used in military operations.

Todd, in charge of German reparations and restitutions, said if the horses which the Army shipped to this country had been left in Europe they would probably already have been returned to Hungary as has been done with other horses which the Germans took from Hungary.

Army officials have contended the Hungarian horses sent to this country are war booty, taken by the Third Army during military operations.

Subcommittee Chairman Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) ordered the hearing to continue at 10 a. m. today.

Todd testified that there was no evidence the Hungarians or Germans used or intended to use the captured horses in military operations.

Study Urges Pay Raises In Arlington

Pay increases totaling $67,286 annually for all Arlington County employes will be recommended to the County Board in its meeting tomorrow by the Public Administration Service, a survey group.

The PAS, with offices in Chicago, San Francisco and Washington, has just completed a six-month study of Arlington pay scales and job classification with $3500 appropriated for the job by the board.

Its report covers 115 different job classifications held by 746 county employes. The $67,286 figure represents the survey estimate of the difference between old and proposed minimum salaries.

The study includes the recommendation that an additional $21,992 be paid employes annually in the Sanitation Division, $13,666 more for the Highway, and $6956 for the Equipment divisions.

Largest increase recommended for any one class of workers would go to the Class I laborers with a recommended minimum pay jump of from $1518 to $1788 annually for a total cost of $24,964.

The plan provides for similar pay raises for all positions of a single class of employes. Wages recommended the "comparable to that prevailing in private and other public employment and reflecting present economic conditions."

Included in the proposal are provisions for adjustment to meet changing employment and economic conditions.

Out of 115 different job classifications, 58 received no increase under the new suggested minimums, and many minimums were lowered. But maximum salaries suggested in nearly all classifications were higher than the present scale.

In its classification of jobs, the survey said it had grouped together into classes all positions with the same level of difficulty and responsibility and requiring similar experience and training.

Farm Federation Asks Increased Price Support

Chicago, Dec. 18 (U.P.)—The American Farm Bureau Federation asked Congress today to increase peacetime price support for farm products.

The resolution, with others urging international cooperation and opposing reestablishing price controls and rationing, was passed at the federation's twenty-ninth annual meeting.

Allan B. Kline, Des Moines, Iowa, was elected president to succeed Edward O'Neal. Kline, 52, was the representative of the American Farm Bureau at the International Agricultural Producers Conference in London.

The price support resolution, adopted unanimously, proposed that the support range be increased 60 to 90 per cent, higher than before the war.

New Pollution Study by Va. Towns Asked

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (A.P.)—Anti-pollution activities of 12 Virginia municipalities have been declared unsatsfactory by the State Water Control Board, which today asked additional studies of the problems of thos communities.

The additional information is sought concerning Charlottesville, South Boston, Petersburg, South Hill, Fredericksburg, Appalachia, Radford, Lawrenceville, Chilhowie, Honaker, Cleveland and New Market. Progress reports from those localities were held by the board to indicate that little progress is being made in cleaning up nearby streams of pollution.

Other reports are sought on sewage disposal at Norton, Hot Springs, Martinsville and Waynesboro with the results of the studies to be used as a basis for future action by the board.

Board Chairman E. Blackburn Moore said no action had been taken regarding the proposed biological survey of the south fork of the Shenandoah River, but that the matter was "under study."

Rocket-Device Makers Jailed In Germany

Berlin, Dec. 18 (A.P.)—A United States military court sentenced six officials of the Berlin Askania Works to prison terms today and ordered the firm dissolved and confiscated.

The men were accused of manufacturing and storing war materials in the American sector of Berlin, specifically kino theodolites used for studying trajectory and velocity of flying objects such as rocket missiles.

Testimony showed that the Russians obtained a number of kino theodolites and that both United States and French authorities attempted to get them for research.

The United States effort to obtain the instruments, the court record indicated, was made in July, 1946, before the Allied Control Council adopted the law under which the men were prosecuted.

Senate Votes To List Traders

the list, in secret, with the committee, pending congressional action on the joint resolution.

When Knowland's resolution was adopted, Anderson refused point blank to provide the list unless in open session with newsmen present.

Charges "Evidence to Law"

In spite of its expressed anxiety to reveal the names, the committee voted 8 to 11 against receiving it in open session with the press present. On the latter resolution, presented by Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) those voting for were Bridges, Brooks, Reed, Ball, Ferguson, Young, Knowland and Dworshak. The resolution was defeated by Gurney, Saltonstall, McKellar, Hayden, Thomas, Tydings, Russell, McCarran, Overton, O'Mahoney and Green.

In agreeing to furnish the names if the committee so ordered, Anderson declared the committee must take the responsibility for forcing him "to do violence to existing law."

"If your decision to demand the names remains unchanged," he said, "you and the public will have them as rapidly as we can gather them."

Truman Backs Anderson

Mr. Truman's statement reviewed the morning's developments and approved Anderson's position in the following words:

"At the hearing this morning before the Senate Appropriations Committee, the Secretary further stated that he would furnish the list to the committee, if it so directed, provided the meeting was held in public and the list was made available to the public.

"The committee refused to take this course of action. Instead, the committee adopted a resolution that the list should be furnished to it in secret at a closed session.

"The Secretary properly rejected this proposal.

Committee Nervous

The maneuvering of the committee at its hearing indicated a sharp division among its members, and extreme nervousness as to how the matter should be approached.

The hearing was originally scheduled as an open session, but when newsmen arrived at 9:30 they were informed the committee at the last moment had decided to exclude everyone but members and witnesses.

After two hours and 35 minutes, the doors opened, and Chairman Bridges announced that the committee had decided the meeting should have been open after all. It had voted, he said, to have the official reporters read all that had transpired.

When O'Mahoney interrupted to suggest that the chairman reveal at once the matters voted on and the results of the voting, Saltonstall objected, and demanded that the record be read in full without revealing in advance actions taken.

As the reading droned on, one Senator after another left, until only Bridges and a few Democrats were left. As they left several told newsmen outside what had transpired, so that they learned the final decisions reached long before those in the meeting.

When reporters protested to Bridges, the latter interrupted the reading to say that several Senators had "leaked" but that he was bound not to reveal the committee's decisions until they were disclosed by the shorthand reporter's notes.

The official record revealed that Anderson had argued for two hours that he would violate the law if he released the list without specific legislative action. He declared that the public had a right to view the list if Congress was entitled to it.

Anderson at first gave the committee a flat "no" when asked if he would turn over the list of major speculators.

Later he offered to turn it over if it was made public at the same time. The committee turned down the proposition.

Anderson pointed out there was no law to force him to give a congressional committee information and at the same time withhold it from the public.

Anderson read a long statement in which he contended the Commodity Exchange Act "forbids indiscriminate publication of transactions and the names of persons engaging in them."

Cautions Against Consequences

He declared there was nothing illegal in speculation. He cautioned against "harmful consequences" that "may attend the disclosure of intimate details" about private business.

He asserted that he and President Truman would "not have the slightest objection" to revealing the names if doing so could be done "without the shadow of legal doubt."

He asserted that Congress should not use its subpena power in "doubtful cases" when it could "easily pass a law to get what it wants."

Ferguson was plainly disgusted with the committee's vote to reject Anderson's proposal to reveal the list to both the committee and the press.

"There he was, ready to turn over the list, and the committee voted against it," Ferguson told reporters as he left the meeting.

House Sets Up Special Probe

The vote followed an angry partisan debate, in which the Democrats called the investigation a "muck-raking expedition," while Republicans insisted that dealings by Congressmen also be checked.

The Ferguson resolution was drawn, Bridges asserted, because Republican leaders felt that the resolution already introduced by Democratic Leader Barkley was "entirely inadequate."

Thus far Edwin W. Pauley, special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall, is the only official named in connection with market operations.

Pauley admitted large operations, after his name was mentioned as a heavy speculator by Harold E. Stassen, candidate for Republican nomination for President, in a Pennsylvania speech.

While Anderson was before the Appropriations Committee, Senator Jenner (R., Ind.) issued a statement urging an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation of "leaks" from the Department of Agriculture as to Government programs.

"Reports that individuals with inside information have reaped huge profits in commodity trading have been so persistent as to suggest the need for greatly improved security measures within the department's crop reporting section and its purchasing agencies," Jenner said.

Truman Names Management and Labor Panel

A 12-member national labor-management panel to work with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service was appointed yesterday by President Truman.

He named these six management members:

James Black, president of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co.; Benjamin F. Fairless, president, United States Steel Corp.; Paul G. Hoffman, president, Studebaker Corp.; George M. Humphrye, president, M. A. Hannah Co.; Lewis Lapham, president, American - Hawaiian Steamship Co.; Charles E. Wilson, president, General Electric Co.

From labor the President appointed Harvey W. Brown, president of the International Machinists Union; Clinton S. Golden, chief of the labor division of the American Mission for Aid to Greece; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Philip Murray, president, Congress of Industrial Organizations; Allan S. Haywood, CIO vice president; William L. Hutcheson, president of the AFL Carpenters Union.

The panel was set up under the Labor-Management Relations Act to help avoid industrial controversies.

Army Retires Gen. J. C. H. Lee For Disability

Army orders published yesterday directed the retirement of Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, former American commander in Italy, on grounds of physical disability.

Lee

The Army announced some time ago that Lee had applied for retirement but did not disclose what type of retirement was contemplated. Lee, it was said, had put in his request to retire before recent newspaper attacks were made on his administration in Italy.

Robert Ruark, Scripps-Howard columnist, sharply criticized Lee for alleged mistreatment of enlisted men in Italy. The Army inspector general investigated the situation and branded the charges unfounded.

Lee will receive a pension of $500 a month and the sum will be tax-free. He is also eligible to retire for length of service, and would receive the same payment if retired on that ground. However, his pay then would be taxable.

An Army spokesman said that Lee appeared before Army medical and retiring boards at the Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco, and was found unqualified physically for further active duty. The order said that the disability was incurred while Lee served in the rank of lieutenant general.

Following custom, the Army would not disclose the nature of Lee's disability. His retirement is effective December 31.

British Budget Leak Called Unintentional

London, Dec. 18 (AP).—A committee of the House of Commons reported today, without censure of either principal, on the leak of budget information to a newsman which led to the resignation of Hugh Dalton as Chancellor of the Exchequer last month.

The committe said Dalton made a "premature and unpremeditated" disclosure of new tax recommendations to the newspaperman, then added:

"Mr. Dalton did not make his disclosure for premature publication and believed there was no possibility of such publication."

Neither did the committee condemn the actions of the newsman, the London Star's lobby correspondent.

The correspondent made "an error of judgment," the report said, but "that error of judgment was made in all good faith."

Usilton Heads Arlington YMCA

E. L. Usilton, 3200 S 3d st., Arlington, has been re-elected chairman of the Arlington YMCA.

Other officers re-elected are Dr. Victor Meyers, Judge Harry Reid and Lawrence Michael, vice chairmen; Donald Heyne, treasurer; Mrs. Florence Arnheim, secretary, and Judge Harry Thomas, counsel.

Elwood Clements, Harwood Meyers, B. M. Smith and Gordon Hall were re-elected to the committee of management.

Also elected were Mrs. Katharine Arnheim and Frank Palmer, ley delegates to the Area Council of the YMCA; Frank Ball, jr., and the Rev. Headley J. Williams, representatives to the Arlington Community Chest; Fred Abel and Michael, representatives to the Community Council, and Colin McPherson, Judge Thomas and Heyne, members of the board of trustees. Livingstone T. Goodman, executive secretary, will be an ex-officio delegate to the Area Council.

House Votes Full Dress Probe Into Dismantling of War Plants in Reich

By The Associated Press

The House voted unanimously yesterday to ask the State Department and the Army for a full explanation of their policies on dismantling war plants in Germany.

Representative Francis Case (R., S. Dak.), sponsored the resolution which was approved on a voice vote after 20 minutes discussion with no opposition. Case said he expects the net result of the move "will be to stop this country from shipping further dismantled plants to the Soviet Union."

Specifically, the resolution asks:

1. Has the Government tried to delay further dismantling temporarily until the entire subject can be studied by Congress?

2. How many plants remaining to be dismantled could be converted to peacetime production?

3. How many of the plants could not required, since it is a House make "a substantial contribution to a German export trade in order to reduce food imports into Germany?

4. How have German plants been determined to be surplus and eligible for dismantling?

5. How much goods has the United States had to ship to replace the production of plants already dismantled and removed?

Senate approval of the request is resolution of inquiry.

Case told the House 682 German industrial plants have been announced as surplus and available for reparations.

It appears, he said, that removal of some might impair the ability of Germany to recover economically, "and might aid the economies of countries not now cooperating toward world recovery."

"If this program goes on," Case added, "it is indicated that Russia will have gained access to 55 per cent of the industrial potential of old Germany. Russia has put into her economy, or into the economy of the satellite countries approximately 30 per cent of the industrial potential of old Germany already.

"This is independent of the question involved in dismantling within remnants of Germany now occupied by the four powers, Russia, Great Britain, France and the United States."

How to make Good Coffee
by Good Housekeeping Institute

Reprinted From Good Housekeeping Magazine

Coffee, whether in the bean or ground, must be freshly roasted. Buy a brand of coffee with a flavor you like and one that is fresh. Measure the water and coffee accurately. A universal grind is satisfactory for any type of coffee maker. If the blend you prefer does not have such a grind, buy a percolator grind for a percolator, and a drip grind for a drip-coffee maker.

Be sure your coffee-making utensil is scrupulously clean. Thorough washing in warm soapsuds and thorough rinsing in clear hot water after each use will remove the traces of coffee oil. . . The amount of coffee to use depends on individual taste. However, for a brew that suits many people, use two level standard measuring tablespoonfuls of coffee for each half pint measuring cupful of water. These proportions hold good for all ways of coffee making.

No matter how you make it you'll enjoy the FLAVOR of

Decorations, Electric Toys Principal Christmas Hazards

Special holiday caution is the best insurance for that merry Christmas and the happy New Year to follow.

The National Bureau of Standards yesterday put the finger on the two principal hazards producing Christmas home accidents, and listed precautions to be taken. Principal dangers, said NBS, come from electrical toys and inflammable Christmas materials.

Outside the home, holiday traffic was picked as the menace by the Keystone Automobile Club, who urged a holiday curb on impatience by drivers and pedestrians.

For those who wish to make their Christmas tree more resistant to fire, the Department of Agriculture proposes nursing it with a chemical solution of cheap ingredients.

Purchase a quantity of ammonium sulphate equal to one-fourth the weight of the tree, says the department. Put the chemical in a small-mouth jar, and add 1½ pints of water for each pound of ammonium sulphate.

Then, while the tree is still fresh, saw the butt in a V shape and set that end in the solution. Keep in a cool spot, away from sunlight, and leave there till the tree has absorbed the solution. The more solution absorbed, the less danger of tree fire, said the department.

Fire is probably the most serious hazard connected with Christmas, said the Bureau of Standards. It recommended sawing off the Christmas tree butt at an angle at least 1 inch above the original cut and standing the tree in water over the top of the cut surface.

The tree itself should be set well away from the fireplace, radiator, or other heating device, and firmly attached so it will not topple over. Trimmings of celluloid, cotton, paper or other inflammable material should be avoided.

Flake asbestos and powdered mica make an "extremely natural" snow and will not burn spontaneously, advised the bureau.

The bureau also recommended tree lighting units of well-insulated wire, pointing out that some tree-lighting sets are sold suitable only for use with low voltage batteries and not ordinary house current.

Jury May Act Today on Meyers

Government to Call Last Witness In Effort to Support Perjury Charge

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

A District grand jury may make a special return today of indictments charging Maj. Gen. Bennet E. Meyers, retired, with perjury and subornation of perjury, it was learned last night.

The Government will present its last witness today in completing evidence concerning the testimony the former AAF procurement officer gave before the Senate War Investigating Committee. The evidence has related to possible charges of perjury and subornation of perjury.

Today's witness will be a member of counsel for the Senate group which held sensational hearings into the procurement officer's wartime profits from an aviation accessory firm, and his holdings in aviation stocks and his wartime speculations in Government bonds.

Perjury is punishable under District law by a maximum 10-year sentence and under the Federal code by a 5-year jail term.

Subornation of perjury, the act of trying to get someone else to lie under oath, is punishable by a five-year jail term.

The grand jury has heard Bleriot H. Lamarre, "dummy" president of the Aviation Electric Co., testify that the books of the company carried two salaries for him—one an "executive "salary of $18,000 a year and the other a real salary of $51.50 a week.

The executive salary, Lamarre said, was "kicked back" to Meyers.

Lamarre's brother-in-law, T. E. Readnower, "dummy" treasurer of the corporation, likewise told the grand jury how he "kicked back" his executive salary to the general, second ranking procurement officer in the Army Air Forces during the war.

Meyers, under oath before the committee, denied he received the profits from the company.

He admitted he had established the company but said he did it all because Mrs. Mildred Lamarre, the beautiful brunette wife of the youthful company "president" was his "girl friend."

Mrs. Lamarre, who has threatened suit for slander, appeared before the grand jury early this this month to testify that Meyers sought her help and that of her husband to concoct a false story to mislead the Senate committee.

Lamarre told the grand jury the same story, and said the general had promised him he would really make some money if he would agree to the false story.

District Attorney George Morres Foy and Assistant District Attorney Edward Molenof are presenting the Government's case.

U. S. to Spend Over Billion In Germany

By The Associated Press

Undersecretary of the Army William Draper yesterday estimated the United States will spend around $1,200,000,000 in occupying Germany for 14 months.

Draper made the estimate at a news conference, in explaining how the new financial agreements with the British on German occupation expenses will increase American dollar contributions.

Under the accord, the United States agrees to take over about 400 million dollars of Britain's occupation expense for the 14-month period beginning last November 1.

U. S. to Have More Say

In exchange, Britain surrenders to the United States a dominant voice in deciding the policies of two key British-American economic agencies in the combined zones.

To carry out the agreement, the State Department must go to Congress for funds, with the possibility the amount asked may encounter opposition there.

The text of the agreement, signed yesterday after 10 weeks of discussion, was made public at the news conference, attended by Draper, Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorp, and Sir William Strang, top British negotiator.

Draper said he estimates the United States will have to pay about 700 million dollars to 800 million dollars for food imports into Germany, and from 500 million dollars to 600 million dollars for American occupation troops and to meet other expenses.

Southern to Drop Two Trains On Manassas Run January 4

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today granted the Southern Railway permission to discontinue passenger trains 11 and 12 operating round trip between Manassas and Harrisonburg, effective at midnight January 4.

The SCC's decision was announced after a hearing of an hour. There was no opposition to the application for discontinuance of train 11 running from Manassas to Harrisonburg and train from 12 from Harrisonburg to Manassas.

William H. Luckett of Washington, general auditor of the Southern, explained exhibits which showed that operations of the two trains was being maintained at an estimated annual loss of $83,000. Other figures showed declining numbers of passengers.

7 of 8 B-29 Crash Survivors Recovering

Seven of the eight survivors of a B-29 Superfort crash in which 12 men died last night appeared to be recovering today and may be able to tell what happened to the plane.

The four-engine plane plunged to earth just after it took off on a flight to Jamaica. It carried a 20-man crew.

One of the injured, Sergt. Thomas E. Leonard of Baltimore, Md., was reported in critical condition.

'No More Records Ever,' Petrillo Says

New York, Dec. 18 (NYHT).—Musicians will refuse to make new records after December 31 even if the Taft-Hartley Law is repealed and recording companies offer to continue or increase royalty payments to the American Federation of Musicians, James C. Petrillo, union president, asserted today.

With the ban on recordings only two weeks off, Petrillo, in the strongest statement he has made on the subject, told the Herald-Tribune:

You always know SANDEMAN

You always know Sandeman Sherries and Ports—by the unique Sandeman figure on the label—by the magnificent Sandeman quality. A type for every taste and occasion. Some are frankly expensive, but many are quite modestly priced.

Rise in City Wages Voted By Frederick

Frederick, Md., Dec. 18.—A general wage boost for municipal employes, effective January 1, was voted by the mayor and Board of Aldermen here last night. Officials said they hoped to avoid any increase in the city tax rate in spite of the increase, which totals about $30,000, and larger requests of municipal departments for the coming year.

The resignations of George H. Finck, director, and Mrs. Naomi D. Remsberg, member of the Frederick County Welfare Board, were announced today by Charles S. Lane, chairman of the board. Finck's resignation becomes effective January 23 when he leaves to become an associate professor of sociology at Texas State College for Women, Denton. Mrs. Remsberg recently was appointed clerk to the supervisors of assessments, and is prohibited by law from holding both offices.

A critical shortage of pig iron may cause drastic curtailment of operations at the Frederick Iron & Steel Co. plant here, according to Jacob Goldberg, president.

He said the company, which employs 300 men, has a "sizable backlog" of orders but cannot meet production needs without metal. He urged employes to write Maryland congressional Representatives about the shortage.

Man Beats Up Grocer, Then Waits on Trade

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP).—Groceryman George Lehr remained near death in West Baltimore General Hospital today and police reported little progress in the search for a young man who apparently beat him severely and then waited on several customers while rounding up the store's receipts.

Lehr is 77 and has at least a compound fracture of the skull, believed to have been caused by blows on the head with a hatchet.

Several persons waited on by the "stranger" said they believe they can identify him. Many of them though it strange that he was working in place of Lehr, who was somewhat of a public figure in the northwest neighborhood and had run the store almost as a hobby for 25 years.

All the time, Lehr apparently was lying badly wounded behind a pile of crates. He was not found for almost five hours after the attack on him, and then only by a curious chain of events.

Two schoolboys found Lehr's keys in a vacant lot. The mother of one of them saw to whom the keys belonged and sent the boys to the store. They found it locked. The woman then sent them to give the keys to Leonard Zerhusen. She knew he was Lehr's close friend.

Zerhusen went into the store four times before he chanced upon the owner lying behind the crates. A patrolman later found a blood-stained hatchet and Lehr's coat in the some vacant lot where the boys found the keys.

Police are canvassing the neighborhood in an attempt to round up every customer that was waited upon by the "stranger."

County Pay Raises Voted By County

Fairfax County employes whose salaries are set by the board of supervisors will receive pay raises next year ranging from $120 to $600.

Increases totaling $18,580, effective January 1, were voted by the supervisors at their regular meeting Wednesday.

The board, on motion of outgoing member, Herbert Blunt, also recommended a raise in supervisors' salaries from $1000 to $1200. This was sent on to Circuit Court Judge Paul E. Brown for approval.

Three employes received $600 raises: Mrs. Edna Bicksler, secretary to the executive secretary of the county, from $3000 to $3600; F. P. Sagendorf, electrical inspector, from $3000 to $3600; and Joseph E. Beard, county agent, whose county salary was raised from $1800 to $2400.

All members of the police department received $300 annual increases, bringing the chief's pay to $4500. Rookie patrolmen now start at $1800.

Murder Added To Arson Charge Against Farmer

Monroe, Ga., Dec. 18 (AP).—An additional charge of murder was filed today against a 27-year-old Negro farmer held in jail here on arson charges in the destruction of two Negro churches and a Negro school in nearby Logansville.

Walton County Solicitor General Marshall Pollock said that Isiah Grimes has been accused of the death of his step-father, Fluke Catlin. He previously had been charged with arson, after making a statement, Pollock said, that he burned the Negro structures.

Pollock said Grimes told of throwing a lighted lamp at his step-father, setting fire to his clothes. Catlin later died. $180 insurance policy on Catlin was then paid to an adopted daughter, Pollock said, rather than to Grimes' mother.

Record Budget Boosts Taxes In Virginia City

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 18—A record-breaking 1948 budget of $583,940 was adopted by City Council here last night.

Property taxes were boosted from $1.50 to $1.60 per $100 of assessed valuation, and a new license tax schedule adopted. The budget provides for salary increases of $10 a month for all city employes except elected officials, and a $500 raise for city manager L. J. Houston jr.

The public school appropriation was set at $158,703, an increase of $17,395 over the previous year. No provision was made for war memorial recreation centers proposed by civic groups on a long-range development plan.

Temporary repairs on Deep Run Creek bridge on Route 17 have been completed by the state highway department. Traffic between Fredericksburg and Warrenton was routed through Culpeper after the bridge collapsed Monday night and a car and heavy truck plunged into the creek injuring three persons.

Bill Asks Repeal Of Margarine Tax

Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.) yesterday introduced a bill to repeal all Federal taxes on oleomargarine on grounds that they the "directly opposed to the spirit of free enterprise."

He said the taxes and license fees on margarine are the only case where a Federal tax "is levied on one domestic product for the benefit of a competing product."

Area Sewer, Water Jobs Awarded

The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission yesterday announced award of contracts for over $125,000 for construction of sewers and water mains in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

The construction is part of 60 miles of mains and sewers which have been added in the past year to serve new homes in the 198-square-mile area served by the commission.

Leo D. Butler Co. of Silver Spring was low bidder on three projects for water and sewage lines in the Queenstown apartment subdivision near Mount Rainier High School, Montgomery Knolls, and Daniels Park.

Contracts Awarded

The Intercounty Construction Co. of Hyattsville was awarded contracts for work on New Hampshire ave., New Hampshire Highlands, and Williams & Williams of Brookeville, Md., will handle work in the Shady Rest subdivision.

Water and sewer lines will be built in Windham place, Plyers Mill rd. and Bucknell dr., Glenview, by Francis O. Day of Bethesda. A Pittsburgh firm, Eastern Maintenance Co., will paint exteriors of the standpipes at Bradley Hills and Greenbelt.

The Sanitary Commission also announced authorization of a number of additional projects on which bids will be sought at a later date. Largest of these is at the R. E. Latimer apartment development near Powder Mill and Cherry rds., Beltsville.

Other Projects Authorized

Other large projects authorized include:

Water and sewer for an apartment development at Templeton Manor; 2 miles of water and sewer in Carroll Knolls, near Kensington; 2 miles of water and sewer in Argyle Forest; a mile of water mains and sewers in Anne st., Carroll, Looney and Wildwood aves., New Hampshire Gardens; a mile of water and sewer to serve 26 houses in the Bannockburn Golf Club development at MacArthur blvd. and Wilson lane, Montgomery County.

Water mains and sewers in Sachem dr., Poxway, Woodland dr. and Huron dr., Forest Heights; water and sewer in Nicholson and Oglethorpe sts., Riverdal Park; water in Warsaw ave., Kensington; water and sewer in Grove st., Chevy Chase; water in Belleview ave., Cheverly; sewer in Forest Glen rd., Kensington district; water and sewer in 40th ave., Locust Spring, Berwyn District; water in Odell rd. and Garret ave., Beltsville; water in Essex ave., Somerset Heights; sewer in Forsyth ave., Forest Glen Park; sewer in Utah, Brentwood; water and sewer in Rhode-West hwy., Silver Spring; sewer in 58th ave., Riverdale Heights; water in Dale dr., Woodside Park, Silver Spring; water in 54th pl., Youngs Addition, Hyattsville, and water and sewer in Warner ave., Oakland Terrace, Kensington.

Maryland U. Survey Shows Building Drop

Four of five key Maryland cities have shown a decline in the annual rate of building construction in the last 11 years, the University of Maryland's Business Research Bureau reported yesterday.

The report, based on a survey of the State's cities and the Washington suburban area, said there are "no indications" of a quick end to the current housing shortage, "which has merely rendered acute a situation extending to some degree over the last 40 years."

Despite the declined, the general building picture in the Maryland area is "somewhat more favorable" than elsewhere in the Nation, according to Dr. John H. Cover of the College of Business and Public Administration.

The report said Baltimore is the only exception to the "overall picture" of annual building rates in the State, having shown a 1:5 per cent increase in construction volume over an 11-year period.

Cumberland, according to the report, showed a decrease of nearly 10 per cent; Frederick, 9.5 per cent; Hagerstown, one-fourth of 1 per cent, and Salisbury, .06 per cent.

The report also analyzed the Washington metropolitan area with respect to changing emphasis on building in the city and adjoining Maryland and Virginia counties. The District last year had only 22.1 per cent of the total construction in the area, in contrast to the peak figure of 60.8 per cent reported in 1945.

Figures for last year also show that Prince Georges County had 26 per cent of the new building in the area; Montgomery County, 21.7 per cent, and neraby Virginia—including Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax—about 30 per cent.

Law Snarls Romances of Brides 14, 16

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Two teen-age brides and their husbands whose 13 days of married life have been studded with legal complications, were reunited today—but the complications continued.

Circuit Court Judge Clyde H. Jacob dismissed habeas corpus petitions filed by Milton Tyndall and Floyd Swanner seeking the return of Pauline Anderson Tyndall, 14, and Frances Anderson Swanner, 16, but said the girls could apply for bail in juvenile court, where the bridegrooms had been charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors by marrying the girls. Charges had been brought by the girls' mother, Mrs. Callie Anderson.

"And if bond is refused there, you may come back to this court," Judge Jacob said.

The girls, who had been ordered by Juvenile Court Judge Herbert Cochran to return to their parents pending hearing of the delinquency charges in January, were paroled in custody of their husbands' attorney, Robert F. McMurran, pending their appearance in juvenile court to apply for bond.

January 23 has been fixed as the date for the juvenile court hearing of the mother's charges of delinquency against her daughters, and her charges of contributing to the delinquency of her daughters against the young husbands. Juvenile court attaches explained that should the girls' application for bond be granted, there would be no legal bar against the girls remaining with their husbands until the January 23 hearing.

The habeas corpus proceedings dismissed today charged the girls were being illegally imprisoned.

'Fear' Ruled Back of Thefts By Student

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP). — A young GI student at Johns Hopkins University, charged with three burglaries, was put on probation today after a court psychiatrist reported he was driven to steal by an "unconscious fear" he might commit another offense.

Judge Michael Manley agreed not to enter a verdict against 21-year-old Morris Leonard Renshaw, former Navy airman from Centreville, Md., because he made $781 worth of restitution and agreed to enter a Veterans' Administration hospital for mental treatment.

Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher, nationally known psychiatrist who is medical adviser to the Baltimore Supreme Bench, corroborated Renshaw's story that he was "fighting a battle with himself" because of neurotic friends he had acquired.

"A fascinating, complicated case," the specialist said. "Criminal literature has many instances of individuals who will commit a crime in order to keep from committing another.

"He is not basically a criminal."

Dr. Guttmacher said society deserves that he have a prolonged period of observation in a mental institution before he is released.

Renshaw was accused of breaking into two stores last month

Farmer Sets Trap For Chicken Thief —Shoots Own Hens

Madison, Neb., Dec. 18 (AP).—A farmer who suspected someone was stealing his chickens rigged up a home-made burglar alarm with washtubs and other noisemakers.

When something touched off the alarm, the farmer, clad in underwear and shoes, grabbed his shotgun and ran for the chicken-house. He didn't notice his dog followed him.

As the farmer reached the chicken house the dog pressed its cold nose against the farmer's bare skin. He let go with both barrels of the shotgun—and brought down 13 of his own hens.

Burton to Seek Va. Senate Post

Stuart, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Frank P. Burton, Commonwealth's attorney of Patrick County, announced tonight that he would be a candidate for election to the Virginia State Senate from the Thirteenth District to succeed Maitland H. Bustard of Danville who has resigned.

Senator Bustard's resignation was placed in the mail at Danville Wednesday and Gov. William M. Tuck is expected to call a special election probably for February 3 to fill the vacancy. The Governor's office disclosed at Richmond that the call likely would be issued Friday.

Moscow Bans Use of Old Rubles

Moscow, Dec. 18 (U.P.). — The Council of Ministers today canceled all old money effective immediately and only new rubles will be accepted in trade transactions. Old rubles will still be exchanged at banks at the 10 to 1 rate until Monday but are no longer valuable in trade.

The new regulation was issued, it was said, because of the "toilers' wishes" and to speed up the work of store cashiers who have been hampered by handling two kinds of currency.

The new rubles, ordered by a Soviet decree last Sunday, were put into circulation Tuesday.

St. Petersburg Paper To Create Yule Snow

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 18 (AP).—The Evening Independent, St. Petersburg newspaper, announced today it will attempt to produce a Christmas holiday snowfall for the benefit of winter visitors.

Bob Leon, wartime pilot, will scatter 100 pounds of dry ice among cumulus clouds over the downtown waterfront Wednesday. With reasonably low temperatures, Leon thinks there is a good chance that St. Petersburg will experience the first snowfall in its history.

Missing Warrenton Boy Lands In Eire With English Father

The disappearance of 6-year-old Robin Montgomerie-Charrington from his Warrenton, Va., home Monday was explained yesterday when the boy and his father arrived at Shannon, Eire, in a plane en route to England.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Marsyl Stokes Charrington, of Washington and Warrenton society, said she was "very much upset" to learn that her estranged husband, Robert Montgomerie-Charrington, had spirited their son to England.

Mrs. Charrington, who asked Virginia authorities to search for her son Tuesday, has charged that her husband "abducted" the boy in violation of a "Christmas truce."

Yesterday she promised a court fight to regain his custody. She said she had instructed her attorney to contact a London lawyer to see if she cannot regain the boy through legal means, on the basis that his removal from his classes at the Calvert School in Warrenton was illegal.

The Associated Press quoted the father, a former British army officer, as saying after his arrival at Shannon with his son: "I will go to any extreme to maintain custody of my son."

Bad weather grounded the British Overseas Airways plane carrying father and son to England at Shannon last night, but it was expected the flight could be resumed today.

Montgomerie-Charrington would not disclose their destination. However, the Associated Press said from London that a West End London hotel had reported receiving cabled reservations from Montreal in the name of "Montgomerie-Charrington."

A cable also was received yesterday at the home of Montgomerie-Charrington's grandmother in Hunsdon, Hertfordshire, and a member of the household said, "Apart from saying that Mr. Montgomerie-Charrington is coming to London and staying at a hotel there, the cablegram told us nothing."

Opposition Leaders Face Arrest in Paraguay

Asuncion, Paraguay, Dec. 18 (AP).—A judge investigating the recent civil war ordered today the arrest of leaders of all opposition parties and signed a ruling freezing their property.

Those named were all members of the national executive committees of the Liberal, Fefrerista and Communist Parties. Most already have left Paraguay or are in hiding.

Cakes Fatal to Brothers

Lebanon, Ohio, Dec. 18 (AP).—Two brothers who ate some cakes they found in the yard of their new home died last night from rat poison. Coroner H. M. Williams identified the brothers as Harry, 7, and Clifford McVay, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McVay. He said the poison probably was left by tenants who occupied the home until the McVays moved in last week.

Wirt to Head Public Service

Wirt

Wirt, who has been serving as County Sanitary Engineer since 1935, lives at 1712 N. Hartford st., Arlington. A graduate of West Virginia University with a degree in civil engineering, he worked with the Pennsylvania Highway Department before coming to Arlington in 1927.

As public service chief, Wirt will coordinate the water, sanitation, highway, planning, surveys, public buildings, and equipment divisions in the county government.

In a second appointment yesterday, County Manager Lundberg named W. I. Jefferies as chief engineer of the county's Water Department.

Jefferies, who lives at 16 W. Glendale ave., Alexandria, had served as an Alexandria Health Department sanitary engineer before becoming assistant engineer in the Arlington Water Department in May of 1946.

Meantime, Commonwealth Attorney-elect Denman T. Rucker announced the appointment of Thomas Gilmer, 25, of 1608 N. Queen st., Arlington, to the post of Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney.

Gilmer, who got his law degree from the University of Virginia, was admitted to the Virginia Bar in 1945 and worked as an associate in the law firm of Jesse, Phillips, Klinge and Kedrick in Arlington.

Communist Party Outlawed in Syria

THE WINES OF CALIFORNIA
cost so little . . . and add so much

When you want dinner to be extra nice: Good wine adds glamour—a warm welcome that compliments your guests. It also adds a zest that pleases appetites. Wines like California red Claret or California white Sauterne are grown especially to go with main course dishes. Try serving both with your turkey—today's low wine prices make it practical to offer guests a choice

For entertaining that's easy and enjoyable: Appetizer wines like California Sherry and Port are more popular now than ever before. They require no fussing, no icing or mixing. You simply pour guests a small glassful to enjoy with appetizers or light refreshments. By keeping California Sherry and Port on hand, you can entertain well, and inexpensively, too, at any time

For gifts that people like getting: It's nice to remember a hostess . . . or a special friend . . . or someone who has done you a favor . . . with a bottle or two of good California wine. And you'll find it gives pleasure far greater than its cost. Wine Advisory Board, 717 Market St., San Francisco 3

Va. Phone Firm's Pension Fund Source Hit

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Counsel for the State Corporation Commission today attacked the propriety of a system whereby the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. recovers nearly $1,400,000 annually in accruals to its pension fund from the rates it charges for telephone service.

The point was raised in some highly technical cross-examination of R. W. Michie, vice president of the four C. & P. companies.

Cross-examination of telephone company witnesses opened yesterday, and was ended late today when Michie left the stand. He devoted most of his testimony today to a revie wof changes made since 1913 in the financing of the telephone company's pension system to place it on an actuarillly sound basis.

Further cross-examination is expected in January, when counsel for the company and for the commission plan an effort to end the taking of evidence. The case, already in its third month, is based on the company's application for approval of rate increases which would produce $1,400,000 annually in new revenues.

Bills Ask ransport For 21,000 Displaced

Two House members introduced identical resolutions yesterday calling for transport to Palestine by October 1 of the 210,000 Jews in American displaced persons camps in Europe.

The resolutions by Representative Hugh D. Scott, jr. (R., Pa.), and Representative Andrew L. Somers (D. N. Y.) call upon President Truman to "direct the proper authorities in the American zones of occupation to undertake immediately the program of repatriation of such Hebrew displaced persons."

Wallace a 'Lost Soul', Says Reuther on '48

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers (CIO), said yesterday that former Vice President Henry A. Wallace is "a lost soul" who will be unable to get labor's support if he runs on a third party presidential ticket in 1948.

"Henry is a lost soul—a great disappointment to a lot of decent people in America," Reuther told a National Press Club luncheon.

Expectant Mother Found Slain

MRS. LORETTA OSINSKI, 21, of Toledo, Ohio, is one of three persons found dead of gunshot wounds in a house where her two children, suffering from hunger and exposure, huddled near the bodies. Dead also were Mrs. Osinski's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ditmyer. The death early yesterday of one of the children, John Osinski, 1, brought the total to four dead as authorities sought a former convict for questioning in the slayings

Ship-Food Pact Signed

Buenos Aires, Dec. 18 (U.P.).—Argentina and the Netherlands have concluded an agreement to trade 30 Dutch ships for Argentine foodstuffs and raw materials, it was announced today. The ships will be built during the next five years, at the rate of six per year.

2 Who Sold Beer to Minor Get Light Fines, Heavy Warning

Two Riverdale, Md., men escaped with light fines and stern warnings in Hyattsville Juvenile Court yesterday, after pleading guilty to selling beer to a minor.

R. S. Pohlen, 37, of 4304 Claggett rd., owner of a Riverdale tavern, and Earl C. Sheton, 24, of 6802 Baltimore blvd., employed by Pohlen as a bartender, were fined $25 apiece after hearing Judge Arthur P. Owens warn of "far stiffer penalties" in the event of future violations.

The two men were charged specifically with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The law permits maximum fines of $500 in such cases.

In warning of stiffer penalties in the future, Judge Owens declared that the only way the county can "get to the root of its juvenile evils" is to charge adults, instead of juveniles, for juvenile depredations.

Pohlen and Sheton were arrested last month by Prince Georges County Detective Richard Pearson, who testified they sold beer to a 16-year-old boy and permitted him to drink it on the premises. The boy, according to probation officials, previously had been arrested for intoxication.

St. Petersburg Paper To Create Yule Snow

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 18 (AP).—The Evening Independent, St. Petersburg newspaper, announced today it will attempt to produce a Christmas holiday snowfall for the benefit of winter visitors.

Bob Leon, wartime pilot, will scatter 100 pounds of dry ice among cumulus clouds over the downtown waterfront Wednesday. With reasonably low temperatures, Leon thinks there is a good chance that St. Petersburg will experience the first snowfall in its history.

Missing Warrenton Boy Lands In Eire With English Father

The disappearance of 6-year-old Robin Montgomerie-Charrington from his Warrenton, Va., home Monday was explained yesterday when the boy and his father arrived at Shannon, Eire, in a plane en route to England.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Marsyl Stokes Charrington, of Washington and Warrenton society, said she was "very much upset" to learn that her estranged husband, Robert Montgomerie-Charrington, had spirited their son to England.

Mrs. Charrington, who asked Virginia authorities to search for her son Tuesday, has charged that her husband "abducted" the boy in violation of a "Christmas truce."

Yesterday she promised a court fight to regain his custody. She said she had instructed her attorney to contact a London lawyer to see if she cannot regain the boy through legal means, on the basis that his removal from his classes at the Calvert School in Warrenton was illegal.

The Associated Press quoted the father, a former British army officer, as saying after his arrival at Shannon with his son: "I will go to any extreme to maintain custody of my son."

Bad weather grounded the British Overseas Airways plane carrying father and son to England at Shannon last night, but it was expected the flight could be resumed today.

Montgomerie-Charrington would not disclose their destination. However, the Associated Press said from London that a West End London hotel had reported receiving cabled reservations from Montreal in the name of "Montgomerie-Charrington."

A cable also was received yesterday at the home of Montgomerie-Charrington's grandmother in Hunsdon, Hertfordshire, and a member of the household said, "Apart from saying that Mr. Montgomerie-Charrington is coming to London and staying at a hotel there, the cablegram told us nothing."

Opposition Leaders Face Arrest in Paraguay

Asuncion, Paraguay, Dec. 18 (AP).—A judge investigating the recent civil war ordered today the arrest of leaders of all opposition parties and signed a ruling freezing their property.

Those named were all members of the national executive committees of the Liberal, Fefrerista and Communist Parties. Most already have left Paraguay or are in hiding.

Cakes Fatal to Brothers

Lebanon, Ohio, Dec. 18 (AP).—Two brothers who ate some cakes they found in the yard of their new home died last night from rat poison. Coroner H. M. Williams identified the brothers as Harry, 7, and Clifford McVay, 6, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McVay. He said the poison probably was left by tenants who occupied the home until the McVays moved in last week.

Wirt to Head Public Service

Wirt

Wirt, who has been serving as County Sanitary Engineer since 1935, lives at 1712 N. Hartford st., Arlington. A graduate of West Virginia University with a degree in civil engineering, he worked with the Pennsylvania Highway Department before coming to Arlington in 1927.

As public service chief, Wirt will coordinate the water, sanitation, highway, planning, surveys, public buildings, and equipment divisions in the county government.

In a second appointment yesterday, County Manager Lundberg named W. I. Jefferies as chief engineer of the county's Water Department.

Jefferies, who lives at 16 W. Glendale ave., Alexandria, had served as an Alexandria Health Department sanitary engineer before becoming assistant engineer in the Arlington Water Department in May of 1946.

Meantime, Commonwealth Attorney-elect Denman T. Rucker announced the appointment of Thomas Gilmer, 25, of 1608 N. Queen st., Arlington, to the post of Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney.

Gilmer, who got his law degree from the University of Virginia, was admitted to the Virginia Bar in 1945 and worked as an associate in the law firm of Jesse, Phillips, Klinge and Kedrick in Arlington.

Communist Party Outlawed in Syria

Damascus, Syria, Dec. 18 (AP).—Syria outlawed the Communist Party today and ordered the closing of all its clubs and headquarters.

At the same time the Russian-Syrian Cultural Association disbanded in protest against Russia's vote in the United Nations for the partition of Palestine.

For Trieste Governor

Lake Success, N. Y., Dec. 18 (U.P.).—The United Nations Security Council asked Italy and Yugoslavia tonight to name a candidate to be governor of the free city of Trieste. The council requested the two countries to consult each other and report to the council by January 5.

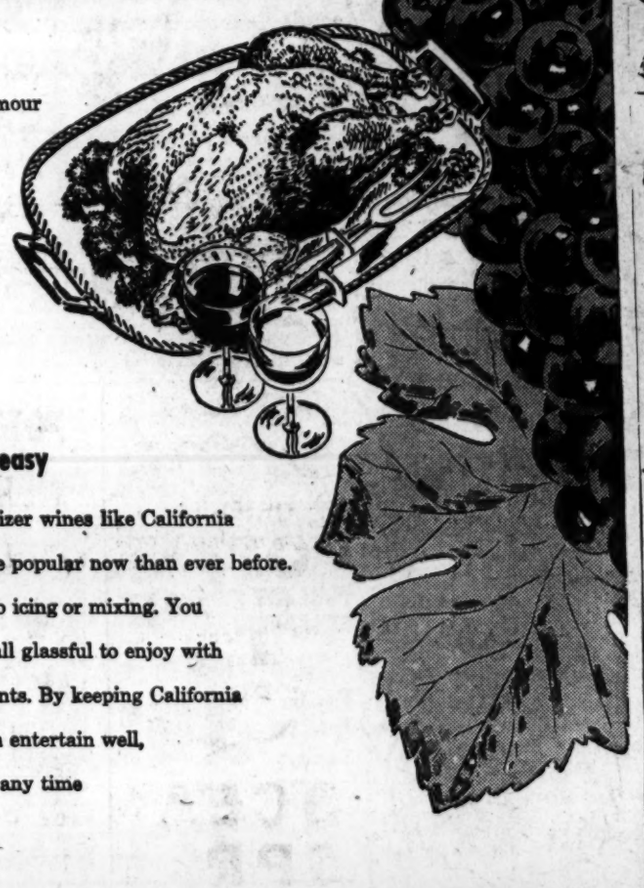
THE WINES OF CALIFORNIA
cost so little . . . and add so much



When you want dinner to be extra nice: Good wine adds glamour—a warm welcome that compliments your guests. It also adds a zest that pleases appetites. Wines like California red Claret or California white Sauterne are grown especially to go with main course dishes. Try serving both with your turkey—today's low wine prices make it practical to offer guests a choice

For entertaining that's easy and enjoyable: Appetizer wines like California Sherry and Port are more popular now than ever before. They require no fussing, no icing or mixing. You simply pour guests a small glassful to enjoy with appetizers or light refreshments. By keeping California Sherry and Port on hand, you can entertain well, and inexpensively, too, at any time

For gifts that people like getting: It's nice to remember a hostess . . . or a special friend . . . or someone who has done you a favor . . . with a bottle or two of good California wine. And you'll find it gives pleasure far greater than its cost. Wine Advisory Board, 717 Market St., San Francisco 3

Va. Phone Firm's Pension Fund Source Hit

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Counsel for the State Corporation Commission today attacked the propriety of a system whereby the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. recovers nearly $1,400,000 annually in accruals to its pension fund from the rates it charges for telephone service.

The point was raised in some highly technical cross-examination of R. W. Michie, vice president of the four C. & P. companies.

Cross-examination of telephone company witnesses opened yesterday, and was ended late today when Michie left the stand. He devoted most of his testimony today to a revie wof changes made since 1913 in the financing of the telephone company's pension system to place it on an actuarillly sound basis.

Further cross-examination is expected in January, when counsel for the company and for the commission plan an effort to end the taking of evidence. The case, already in its third month, is based on the company's application for approval of rate increases which would produce $1,400,000 annually in new revenues.

Bills Ask ransport For 21,000 Displaced

Two House members introduced identical resolutions yesterday calling for transport to Palestine by October 1 of the 210,000 Jews in American displaced persons camps in Europe.

The resolutions by Representative Hugh D. Scott, jr. (R., Pa.), and Representative Andrew L. Somers (D. N. Y.) call upon President Truman to "direct the proper authorities in the American zones of occupation to undertake immediately the program of repatriation of such Hebrew displaced persons."

Wallace a 'Lost Soul', Says Reuther on '48

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers (CIO), said yesterday that former Vice President Henry A. Wallace is "a lost soul" who will be unable to get labor's support if he runs on a third party presidential ticket in 1948.

"Henry is a lost soul—a great disappointment to a lot of decent people in America," Reuther told a National Press Club luncheon.

Expectant Mother Found Slain

MRS. LORETTA OSINSKI, 21, of Toledo, Ohio, is one of three persons found dead of gunshot wounds in a house where her two children, suffering from hunger and exposure, huddled near the bodies. Dead also were Mrs. Osinski's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ditmyer. The death early yesterday of one of the children, John Osinski, 1, brought the total to four dead as authorities sought a former convict for questioning in the slayings

Ship-Food Pact Signed

Buenos Aires, Dec. 18 (U.P.)—Argentina and the Netherlands have concluded an agreement to trade 30 Dutch ships for Argentine foodstuffs and raw materials, it was announced today. The ships will be built during the next five years, at the rate of six per year.

2 Who Sold Beer to Minor Get Light Fines, Heavy Warning

Two Riverdale, Md., men escaped with light fines and stern warnings in Hyattsville Juvenile Court yesterday, after pleading guilty to selling beer to a minor.

R. S. Pohlen, 37, of 4304 Claggett rd., owner of a Riverdale tavern, and Earl C. Sheton, 24, of 6802 Baltimore blvd., employed by Pohlen as a bartender, were fined $25 apiece after hearing Judge Arthur P. Owens warn of "far stiffer penalties" in the event of future violations.

The two men were charged specifically with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The law permits maximum fines of $500 in such cases.

In warning of stiffer penalties in the future, Judge Owens declared that the only way the county can "get to the root of its juvenile evils" is to charge adults, instead of juveniles, for juvenile depredations.

Pohlen and Sheton were arrested last month by Prince Georges County Detective Richard Pearson, who testified they sold beer to a 16-year-old boy and permitted him to drink it on the premises. The boy, according to probation officials, previously had been arrested for intoxication.

"I had heard many stories about Mrs. Nellie Procter Hewitt winning prizes for her baking, so naturally, I was one of the first to try County Fair Bread. It's everything the ads say it is—simply delicious!"

Miss Helen A. Miller
1922 Biltmore Street, Washington, D. C. In charge of Teen Canteen of Young Women's Christian Association, says:
"County Fair Bread is really grand, but that's only natural—for with a woman like Mrs. Nellie Procter Hewitt behind County Fair Bread, it would have to be something special."

Made Under the Supervision of the Famous First Baker to the Nation's Great —NELLIE PROCTER HEWITT, the Baking Champ From Silver Spring

County Fair Bread is as different as a country lane from a city alley. As different as lilacs fresh-washed by warm rain from the paper kind in the 10¢ store.

Because County Fair Bread is made the way a woman who really knows how to bake bread says to bake it. That's Nellie Procter Hewitt—the baking champ from Silver Spring.

Yes, smells better and tastes better. Like a Saturday morning baking on the farm.

And say—this new County Fair Bread is enriched with Vitamin B_1, Vitamin B_2, Niacin and Calcium for better health.

County Fair Bread is selling like farm eggs. So get your grocer to save a loaf for you.

So come on, folks, for better eating, get County Fair Bread. Costs no more—so no reason not to have it.

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! Get County Fair Bread at your grocer's today. It's fresh as a daisy.

Archbishop's Installation Set for Feb. 24

The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, Archbishop-designate of Baltimore, will be installed February 24 in the Basilica of the Blessed Virgin Mary in Baltimore.

The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, will be the installing prelate, it was announced yesterday in Providence, R. I., where the new archbishop has served as bishop since 1934.

Bishop Keough recently said he has heard "many complimentary remarks about the people of Baltimore" and that he was certain he "will be very happy there."

He was born in New Britain, Conn., in 1891, and prepared for the priesthood at St. Thomas Seminary in Hartford. Ordained in 1916, he served as assistant pastor in Meriden, Conn., and in 1919 was named assistant chancellor of the diocese of Hartford. Six years later he became secretary to the Bishop of Hartford, a post he held until his elevation to bishop in 1934.

Bishop Keough's appointment, made public December 3 by the Apostolic Delegation from Vatican City, was announced simultaneously with that of the Right Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle as Washington's first archbishop.

The new Washington archbishop will be consecrated January 14 in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, by Francis Cardinal Spellman, and will be installed here January 21 in St. Matthew's Cathedral by Archbishop Cicognani.

Archbishop-designate Keough succeeds the late Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, who was Archbishop of both the Baltimore and Washington archdioceses.

As Archbishop of Baltimore, primate see of the United States, he will take precedence over all other archbishops (excluding Cardinals) of the United States.

Fairlington Tenants File Complaints

Numerous complaints about lack of garbage and refuse collections at Fairlington have been received by the Arlington Health Department.

Arlington County Manager A. T. Lundberg said 27 complaints from the housing development were received Wednesday and Thursday by the health unit and his office got five more.

"The county is aware of the situation. We're studying it," he declared.

Strike Called December 8

A strike of maintenance workers was called at Fairlington December 8 by the Building Service Employes International Union (AFL). The strike is still in progress, although last week a representative of Fairmac Corp., owners of Fairlington, said: "From our point of view the strike is over," adding that service was normal.

William A. Ziegler, general manager of Fairlington, said last night that he had conferred with Arlington officials about the complaints.

"It's understandable, of course," he said, "that with the interruption of service there has been delay in collections. It's gradually being caught up with. At this time of year, with heavy shopping, there i double the amount of trash."

Man Fined $100

In Arlington County Court yesterday, Sylvanus Tucker of Alexandria was fined $100 and given a six-month suspended sentence in one of the charges of violence growing out of the strike.

Tucker, anonstriker, was sentenced by Judge Hugh Reid on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

A harge of assault against Theodore Payne, 28, of Herndon, Va., a striker, was dropped when the complainant, Nathaniel Smith, failed to appear. Smith operates the Super Service Trash Co., 610 Delaware ave. nw., which has a contract with Fairlington.

Choir to Brodacast

Hampton, Va., Dec. 18.—The 150-voice Hampton Institute choir will present a program of Christmas music over NBC on tomorrow (Saturday) from 2 to 2:30 p. m. The program will include group singing and solos of English and French carols and selections from Handel's Messiah.

Maryland Relief Pay Up 7.7% Over Last Year

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP).—Maryland's public assistance payments in November totaled 7.7 per cent higher than in the same month a year ago, the State Welfare Department reported today.

Relief obligations for November, 1947, totaled $995,835, while the November, 1946, amount was $924,636.

The department broke down the 1947 figures into these categories: Old-age assistance, $378,072; aid to dependent children, $385,713; general public assistance, $152,278; assistance to the needy blind, $16,146, and foster home care, $63,628.

Jail Demands Clerks; Judge Sends Forgers

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP).—City jail put out a call for clerical help today so Judge Joseph Sherbow sent over a couple of forgers—for five years apiece.

The judge originally planned to sent James H. Williamson, 39, and Haarry M. Sherman, 41, to the Maryland House of Correction after they pleaded guilty to charges that they got $16,280 by forging checks supposed to go to veterans for unemployment compensation. City Jail asked they be sent there instead.

Williamson formerly was head of the GI benefit section of the State Employment Security Board. Sherman once was an employe of the branch Federal Reserve Bank here and cashed most of the 825 forged or spurious checks.

2 Blasts Mark End Of Palestine Truce

Both Sides Exchange Heavy Gunfire; British and Police Join in Fighting

Jerusalem, Palestine, Dec. 18 (U.P.).—Two powerful explosions followed by a heavy exchange of gunfire opened a new battle in the Tel Aviv-Jaffa borderland area tonight.

The explosions blasted an Arab store, rocked a nearby police station and were followed by rifle and automatic weapons fire from both sides of the battle-scarred no-man's-land.

Within a few minutes after the first explosion—ending abruptly an unofficial 48-hour truce—British troops and police joined in the fighting.

The bullet-riddled body of Emanuel Winer, 38, reportedly a member of Hagana, was found on a hill outside Jerusalem at virtually the same spot the body of American, Israel Cohen Shreiber, 76, was found yesterday. Police said there was no clue to either murder.

A young Arab, wounded by gunfire last night at St. Steven's Gate in the old quarter of Jerusalem, died today.

A British-mediated truce conference between officials of the Tel Aviv suburb of Holon and the Jaffa suburb of Tel el Rish, where fighting has raged almost continuously since the United Nations approved partition November 29, ended in a deadlock yesterday when Arab delegates said they would submit the issue to the Arab Higher Committee for final ruling.

Arab States Plan Big Arms Purchase

Cairo, Dec. 18 (AP).—Arab sources said tonight representatives of seven Arab League states who held a "war council" here decided to raise an eight-million-dollar fund for purchasing weapons and medical equipment for Arabs volunteering to fight the partition of Palestine.

Arab Hostility Halts Work On Pipeline

(Editor's Note: The following story was written by Tony Smith of the Gannett News Service Washington staff and distributed by the Associated Press.)

By Tony Smith

Copyright, 1947, By Gannett News Service

Sidon, Lebanon, (via cable).—Work on the strategic Trans-Arabian pipe line project is at a complete standstill throughout the Middle East, except in Saudi Arabia.

This is the project which Secretary of Defense Forrestal has called vital to United States interests.

The project, known as "Tapline," runs from the Persian Gulf to the shores of the Mediterranean.

In an aerial survey, with landings at every American outpost, I found that the work stoppage is virtually complete.

Bedouin tempers in the wild country of Trans-Jordan and Syria are still boiling with resentment against the United States' part in the United Nations' partition of Palestine.

It is unsafe for American crews anywhere in the desert outside of Saudi Arabian King Ibn Saud's jurisdiction.

American work teams at this end of the project have been called in, and work suspended.

It was the same in Syria and Lebanon, where the Bedouins are distinctly hostile now toward all Americans.

Tell-tale black specks among the brown rocks and sandhills showed a surprising number of desert nomads are concentrated along the pipe line route.

U. N. Is Given Bill of Rights

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 18 (AP).—The world's first international bill of human rights—drafted over Soviet opposition by the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, was forwarded to the United Nations today with the recommendation that all the member governments adopt the measure.

The bill, drawn up at the close of a two-week conference of the 18-member commission under the chairmanship of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, consisted of:

1. A declaration of human rights, which the commission proposed for adoption by the U. N. as a body and which would have only a moral binding force.

2. A covenant of human rights—proposed for adoption by U. N. members individually with legal binding force on each nation which ratifies it.

Family Of Four

No family head who has been struggling to pay for 85-cent eggs or children's shoes at $7 a pair needs statistics to convince him that living costs have soared through the roof. What he knows from his personal experience is only confirmed by the testimony of Ewan Clague, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, before a congressional subcommittee Tuesday, showing that the cost of a modest budget for a family of four in Washington had risen from $2985 in March, 1946, to $3458 in June of this year. The chief value of these statistics is that they afford Congress concrete examples of what inflation is doing to moderate-income families—most of whose incomes have by no means kept pace with living costs.

It is no consolation to residents of this area that for a family of four Washington is the most expensive city in the country, running 2 per cent above Seattle and 4 per cent above Boston. The chief factor explaining this situation is the outlandish cost of housing in Washington. Housing here costs 9 per cent more than in the next most expensive city, Chicago, and 35 per cent more than in New Orleans. Aside from these more obvious differentials, however, the most remarkable thing about the 34-city survey made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics is the similarity it discloses in the general cost increases. Whereas the modest budget rose $473 in Washington during the 15-month interval, it also rose $431 in New Orleans, the least expensive city surveyed. In other words, the inflationary pressure is almost the same in all large urban centers. Moreover, it is continuing; costs have jumped an additional 3 per cent since June, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics estimate.

Lest anyone think that the $3458 figure for Washington represents a luxury budget, it is important to point out that it makes provision for a new overcoat for the head of the family only once in seven years and allows a movie only once every three weeks for three members of the family. The people the study is talking about are the people who already have forgone dollar butter and 79-cent bacon. While the budget is not precisely spartan in that it provides adequate standards for diet and health, neither is it generous. As Mr. Clague observed, "As the prices rise more, without offsetting increases in incomes or methods of reducing the costs of the budget, the hardships are greater because the greatest concentration of budget-level families of four is probably in the $3000-$4000 income group, even now—at 1947 prices." Until the political parties stop political buck-passing and take concrete action to halt runaway inflation, the family standard of living will continue to be subjected to a tighter and tighter squeeze.

Trade With Russia

The tom-toms about our trade with Russia continue to resound on Capitol Hill. One would think that a state of war existed between the United States and the USSR or that all hope of a peaceful resolution of differences between the two countries had been abandoned. A conflict exists, to be sure—a real and bitter conflict. But happily it is not being carried on by military means. If it were, the small volume of American machinery going to Russia would no more tip the scales than would the stocks of manganese and other valuable ores moving to the United States from Russia. On the contrary, this trade, slight as it is, constitutes a bridge between the two countries which it would be tragic to destroy.

There is the most dangerous sort of jingoism to proposals such as that broached by Representative Weichel the other day to "prohibit any ship from leaving United States ports with supplies for Russia or Russian-dominated nations." And such proposals are scarcely less jingoistic when thinly disguised by application to all foreign countries instead of to the Soviet Union alone. Representative Welch said Wednesday in respect of his request to Mr. Truman to ban all oil exports that it did not mention Russia but covered exports of oil and oil products to any part of the world. Then he added significantly that "if we are dependent on Russia for critical materials, God help us."

There is another danger which should give pause to business-minded Congressmen. Perhaps for protective coloration, Representative Mundt changed his bill calling upon the Commerce Department for detailed information on exports and exporters to Russia so as to make it cover exports and exporters to all parts of the world in certain categories, principally tools, machinery and agricultural equipment. The window-dressing is unlikely to fool anybody. This information, difficult and expensive to obtain, would probably prove embarrassing, as Mr. Mundt may intend that it should, to those who are doing business with the Russians.

It is worth remembering that when exporters apply for export licenses, as they are required to do under the law, there is at least an implicit pledge on the Government's part that their business will be kept confidential. Certainly they would be disadvantaged by disclosure. The Government has export controls to make sure that essential materials go where they can most effectively further the aims of the Marshall Plan. Congress is entitled to full information as to the destination and volume of exports. But there is no need for the Government to provide data that might be used to blacklist persons engaged in perfectly legitimate trade.

New York's Threat

Governor Dewey has served notice that, unless Congress passes legislation next year to remove the tax discrimination between States with community property laws and States which do not have such laws, New York will be forced to modify its laws to protect its citizens from existing discrimination. The president of the State Tax Commission estimates that New York residents pay 170 million dollars more in income taxes than they would if married couples were able to split income for taxation purposes as they do in community property States. There is no questioning the desirability of prompt Federal action to do away with such unfair discrimination.

Delayed action by Congress has already resulted in quite a number of States adopting the community property system for purposes of tax relief. Of course, this is not a sound remedy, since it upsets long established property relationships. Indeed Governor Dewey admits that adoption of a community property statute by New York would "disrupt the whole foundation of our legal system" and "involve questions of constitutionality which might severely limit the adequacy of such a statute." The president of the State Tax Commission is even more emphatic in predicting "a near catastrophic disturbance of the legal rights of married persons, and of all persons who deal with them, in every form of property—the breadwinner's earnings; the family home, farm and business; family inheritances, and personal investments of all kinds." This, he says, "cannot be justified except as a matter of desperation." In these circumstances we question the wisdom of changing the State property laws even if Congress should fail to respond to Governor Dewey's appeal. It would be an appallingly high price to pay for the sake of reducing the income taxes of married couples in the higher income brackets.

We feel that the preferable method of eliminating the existing discrimination would be to make joint income tax returns mandatory for married couples in all the States. For Nation-wide extension of the system prevailing in the community property States would entail heavy revenue losses amounting to about 740 million dollars, according to Treasury estimates. Unfortunately, however, opposition to proposals making joint returns mandatory is so great that it seems futile to hope that existing tax discriminations growing out of community property laws can be removed by such means. On the other hand, there is widespread support within and without Congress for Nation-wide extension of the split income plan. Consequently, we have reluctantly reached the conclusion that Federal legislation permitting married couples in all the States to divide their incomes for tax purposes would be preferable to goading more States into adopting community property laws and becoming involved in the legalistic tangles that Governor Dewey and New York's tax commissioner have so vividly described. That is likely to happen unless Congress acts promptly to eliminate present inequities.

Opening For Taber

Most people probably think that the 597-million-dollar aid program approved by Congress was intended solely for European relief, since that was the sum requested for the three European beneficiaries—France, Italy and Austria. But, half-yielding to and half-retreating from clamor to do something for China, too, that country was included in the aid program that Congress approved, though Congress did it without raising the total amount authorized to be spent or indicating how much of the total should be allotted to China. The Interim Aid Act merely provided that "to the extent that any funds may be made available under provisions of any other act heretofore or hereafter passed relating to China, any funds reserved under this act for China may be used for aid to the other countries named in Section 2 of this act." (That is, France, Italy and Austria.)

That was a way out of the embarrassment created by the House Foreign Relations Committee in recommending 60 million dollars for China as part of the program. It was, of course, devious and bungling. But it gave Congressman Taber a rare opportunity to wield the paring knife on European aid appropriations. He was enabled to defend unjustified reductions in the allotted amounts by pointing out that the 88 million dollars that he had "saved" would be available for later appropriation for China or any other of the three countries listed as beneficiaries.

Congress, therefore, is primarily responsible for the situation that has arisen, although Mr. Taber would no doubt have cut the appropriations for European relief in any case, since he has given a good many reasons—all of them bad—for so doing. But even if he had been disposed to grant the full amount requested, he was faced by the fact that Congress had limited the aggregate authorization to spend up to 597 million dollars for distribution among four instead of three countries. The paring process, in short, had started before Mr. Taber's committee began its destructive work.

Defense Of Prejudice

The current local attacks on the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights may be set down as symptoms of progress. In the first place, it is altogether salutary to have this community's race relations problem brought out into the open where it can be looked at and discussed. In the second place, it is heartening, when you come to reflect upon it, that those members of the community who wish to perpetuate an outmoded and essentially anti-democratic system of segregation now feel compelled to defend their prejudices in public. Until lately, they could afford to sit back in smug silence. It is healthy that they should be heard. Radio Station WTOP, which gave several of them a chance to express their views in a broadcast last Sunday, deserves praise for tackling a ticklish local issue; no doubt it will soon air the other side of the story, too. We are glad these men were heard; glad, in particular, that Mr. Clifford H. Newell has prepared a "critical analysis" of the Civil Rights report through which his views are submitted for public scrutiny.

The very extravangance of the attacks on the President's Committee conveys its own refutation. Mr. Newell, for instance, feels obliged to carry the argument ad hominem. Happily, he has somewhat modified his earlier aspersions on the motives of the committee members and now takes the more charitable view in his analysis that such men as Charles E. Wilson, Dr. Frank Graham, Charles Luckman, Morris Ernst, Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill and Bishop Francis J. Haas were merely duped into signing a report replete with "gross exaggerations, carefully worded misstatements, half-truths and vicious untruths" which Mr. Newell doubts "if any one of the committeemen had any part in actually editing." Most Washingtonians, we presume, will prefer to credit these men with at least enough wit to know what they were doing and enough conscience to mean what they said.

The WTOP broadcast disclosed an interesting reticence on the part of local leaders. Few of them wanted to defend publicly the practices which the President's Committee had condemned, although activities for which they were directly responsible were attacked in the committee's report. No less notable was the vagueness of those who did participate. Dr. Maurer, the acting president of the Board of Education, declined to answer the direct question, "Do you, as a plain citizen, believe that segregation should be done away with?" And Mr. Newell: "I do not think a covenant necessarily applies to any race or creed. I think it applies, and should apply, to a desirable class of people residing in that community." No one would quarrel with a covenant such as this. But it scarcely meets the issue of the restrictive covenant based on race or religion.

The most disingenuous plea of all was entered by Mr. Harry Wender, chairman of the Recreation Board. He contended that the segregation policy pursued by his board is required by law, declaring that "the original bill that was presented to Congress for creation of a recreation board did contain specific language which would have made it compulsory in every particular that we have a segregated recreation system in Washington." He quite neglected to state, however, that this segregation clause was deliberately stricken from the bill by Congress before it was enacted into law. But, as we say, it is a sign of progress to have any debate at all.

PCA's Wedge

By its resolution urging Henry Wallace to enter the 1948 presidential race on an independent ticket, the Progressive Citizens of America has served formal notice of its intention to try to splinter the Democratic vote. In thus disclosing PCA's true purposes, the action of the executive committee makes doubly significant the resignation of Dr. Frank Kingdon as the organization's cochairman. Dr. Kingdon, apparently, cannot stomach a third-party movement, the only effect of which could be to injure materially President Truman's chance for re-election.

That this is precisely what PCA wants is indicated in its announcement. The continuance of President Truman's leadership, it said, "will lead to the disastrous defeat of the Democratic Party in 1948 and victory for the Republican Party, the main arm of reaction." That, of course, is double-talk. Not even the most woolly headed of PCA's adherents would contend seriously that Mr. Wallace would stand a chance of election. The PCA wants to aid the Republicans it pretends to condemn, in the hope that, with the field cleared for the GOP, the Republicans would be induced to put up a candidate that the liberals would regard as a reactionary. The further assumption is that this would be followed by a wave of public dissatisfaction which would pave the way for a candidate of PCA's choice in 1952—presumably a candidate dedicated to the Wallacian roses-and-light formula for "the only economic and foreign policy program which will save us from war and depression."

THE ORCHARD

Here in the time of harvest I have come
To seek the apple red and white
That hangs upon the autumn tree.
Still seems to linger on the air
The April hum of bee; the song of birds,

The loosened blossoms in ephemeral flight.
But now the globes of fruit are full and sweet;
Pale spring, the curve of summer,
Fire-red, frost-white are found
Where the rich branch leans down at last
To touch the apples to the ground.

Gen. Feng's Position

I read with complete disgust your article of December 12 about General Feng Yu-hsiang's talk on the China problem. His argument would have been infinitely more convincing had it been made by a Chinese civilian who is not drawing a government salary. As a soldier, General Feng has committed a gross breach of army discipline by rebuking his immediate superior officer; as a civil servant on active service, he has shown rude discourtesy in criticizing the very government he is serving, and, finally, as a member of the Kuomintang, he has only demonstrated his irresponsibility in not taking active measures to reform the most corruptible party that ever existed on earth. And all the more, he does these things when he is abroad, when he knows that he is beyond the reach of the laws of his own country and that those whom he is accusing are denied a chance to answer his charges.

If his memory still serves him rightly, General Feng should remember how he, his fellow war lords, and his hired band of mercenaries wrecked North China during their rivalry for power between the years 1920 and 1931. It was Chiang Kai-shek who finally put an end to the "military" career of General Feng, reorganized his bands into regular troops, and gave him the title of Vice Generalissimo and hence a chance to serve his country. One may, on this account, easily discern why, apart from other things, General Feng entertains a bitter personal grudge against Chiang Kai-shek.

As to General Feng's war record, there is absolutely no evidence to support the claim that he took any active part whatsoever in the last war. His efficiency as a soldier, therefore, remains a doubtful mystery.

There is no question that the present Chinese government truly needs a fundamental purge and reconstitution. To send a character like General Feng to study river conservation in the United States is utterly preposterous, since it is obvious that he neither has any expert knowledge on this subject nor shows any intention to study it seriously.

What he is apparently doing is simply leading a comfortable and parasitic existence in America at the expense of the whole Chinese nation and at the same time making malicious speeches to scandalize those who are actually trying hard to do something for his country. Had General Feng a clearer conscience, he would certainly remember that people in glass houses should not throw stones.

Unrecorded Vote

On November 24, the members of the House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority voted to cite for contempt of Congress 10 men who had previously refused to reveal their political beliefs to the Thomas Committee.

On December 11, the members of the House of Representatives, by resorting to a voice vote on the 590-million-dollar emergency aid bill, evaded the necessity of going on record as to how they individually stood on this measure.

Seemingly, the Congressmen believe that they have the right to demand of any citizen that he publicly reveal his political affiliations. They apparently do not believe, however, that as elected Representatives they have an equal obligation to reveal to their constituents their stand on one of the most important and controversial issues of the day.

Isn't it a shame that no machinery exists whereby our Congressmen can be cited for that most un-American activity, contempt of the American electorate?

Sharing Christmas

Are there any homesick people in Washington? A friend of mine is away from California this Christmas. She is adopting two little boys for the day. While I was phoning for two suitable children a charming girl came to my door selling oranges. She had seven brothers, including the two little boys who would be glad to share Christmas Day with my friend. So their sister sold me oranges and her two little brothers as well!

Washington is full of transients like my friend. If you want to help, phone Central Union Mission. It is in touch with needy children and old people who are alone in the world.

Religion In Schools

A great many adults and a greater number of children would never learn what this released time for religious education is all about from reading the occasional editorials and letters in the newspapers and from most other media of communication. Rarely have I ever seen such important issues as church and state and released time for religious instruction so muddied by shallow thinking, bareness of facts, and shoddy presentation.

Many adults have neither gone to Sunday School nor church, read a religious book or newspaper or worked with a church group of any kind. Most often the children of such parents neither attend Sunday school nor other church activities. Religious educators realizing this fact also realize that many, many children are not getting any religious instruction.

These educators have done what they consider the only immediate thing to do. They have begun, in a democratic manner, to inject again into the public school life some religious training. Without this even meager influence our schools will turn out little "democratic" pagans without the necessary development of will and theological knowledge necessary to continue democracy.

As to the church-state controversy: just a little unbiased reading will prove that it is alarmist and very much ado about nothing. It is the duty of all media of communication to give all the facts and all the principles involved in order to permit genuinely intelligent discussion by our people.

Adequate Health Insurance

Recently the United States Public Health Service published a comprehensive study and analysis of Blue Cross and Medical Service Plans by its health economist, Louis S. Reed. This monumental survey was responsive to Surgeon Gen. Thomas Parran's desire that USPHS "have an informed opinion of the present and potential usefulness of existing methods of distributing medical and hospital care.

"Such an objective study is particularly timely in view of the controlling attitude of the American Medical Association toward prepayment medical plans. The House of Delegates in December, 1945, instructed the AMA board of trustees and its Council on Medical Services and Public Relations "to proceed as promptly as possible with the development of a specific national health program with emphasis upon the Nation-wide organization of locally administered payment plans sponsored by medical societies."

In effect, this is a major pronouncement of policy by the only official spokesman of some 130,000 qualified doctors whose good will and cooperation are a prerequisite for any national health insurance program. There may be minor deflections of dissident physicians from this instruction but numerically they will be inadequate either to invalidate this policy or to implement an alternate program of compulsory health insurance. To the political realist their veto power is controlling. Therefore it must be conciliated.

In view of this stalemate Surgeon General Parran's report will be a means of conciliating the ideological conflict between proponents of voluntary versus compulsory national health insurance. This authoritative survey of all facts and figures of record objectively reveals both the strength and weakness of voluntary hospital and medical service plans. Their strength and advantages may be succinctly stated: For the solvent and the employed they provide an option of low-cost, prepayable, risk-sharing and indemnification of carefully selected health risks. They well serve those whose prospective liability in respect to incidence and duration of their health risk is minimal and mathematically favorable. Their weakness is that they become insolvent when they attempt social sufficiency without ruinous deflation of benefits or prohibitive inflation of the premium-rate structure.

In terms of national health security insurance we may define social sufficiency as a prepayable, solvent, low-cost, noncancellable, nonselective form of cost-spreading self-help against major health hazards. It must be an option available to all citizens without any racial, economic or geographical discrimination whatsoever. If the individual is unable to pay for it then this minimal floor of health security should be financed in whole or in part by State and Federal assistance.

Obviously the voluntary Blue Cross and Medical Service plans approved and advocated by the dominant AMA do not possess social sufficiency. Our problem is to provide it. This may be done by Congress passing enabling legislation incorporating these principles of intelligent compromise (1) make the Federal Security Agency the comptroller of a national health security insurance fund derived from the premiums of the solvent, the part-premiums of low income groups and the Federal and State contributions for all indigent or underprivileged. Both contributions to and disbursements from the funds would be determined by a national actuarial formula wherein costs and solvency would be determined by mathematics and subscriber benefits would be defined by a nondiscriminating national formula. (2) Coordinate and consolidate existing nonprofit governing bodies of Blue Cross, Blue Shield, American Hospital Association and the AMA Council on Medical Service and Public Relation as local and regional agencies of administration.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Summing Up

LONDON.—As was foreseen in this space many weeks ago, the London Conference has ended with open acknowledgement of the division of the world. Behind the strong barriers of the Soviet sphere, Molotov now stands isolated with his puppets. On this side of these barriers, Messrs. Bevin, Bidault and Marshall stand together, at least in temporary unity. Their next step is the separate organization of western Germany, so plainly necessitated by what has just occurred.

In these circumstances, the unity and strength of the West are all-important. The only hope for the future is that the Kremlin, impressed by Western unity and strength, will ultimately change its policy, which must otherwise lead to the most terrible consequences. Furthermore, the most essential element in the unity and strength of the West is a powerful and intimate Anglo-American partnership.

All this being so, a special interest attaches to the problem of the Anglo-American partnership, which has been explored at some length in these reports. Before proceeding to conclusions, it may be well to run over rapidly this problem's main factors.

1. Wherever their own courage and determination can tell, the British are now visibly turning the postwar corner. They are, therefore, on a perfectly cold-blooded estimate, partners who can be invested in without undue risk.

2. Their shortage of capital in general, and their acute shortage of hard assets in particular, have implications which must be squarely faced. However, the truth is the British do not have the cash in hand, for the present, to carry all the costly burdens which the Anglo-American partnership involves. For many reasons it is impossible for the United States to assume these burdens. Fortunately the capital shortage is the only real difficulty. Thus it is essential for the United States to supply the fresh capital which will place Britain on a footing of permanent strength. This is urgent.

3. IN THE special sphere of military strategy the Anglo-American partnership is already operating with the utmost intimacy and smoothness. But this is not true in the spheres of political and economic policy. In these spheres, because the makers of British and American policy have been dealing with each other at arm's length, there have been many petty irritations and breakdowns of cooperation.

4. Without a supply of fresh capital from the United States, the British will be driven, perforce, to try to devise a new foreign policy—which can only, in the last analysis, be a policy of surrender to the Soviets. Yet even if the capital is forthcoming from America, another major difficulty will still remain to be surmounted. From Attlee and Bevin to the British man in the street everyone in this country fears that acceptance of American aid may entail loss of Britain's independence of action.

The fear is distinctly neurotic, to be sure. Britain was not tied to our chariot wheels after Pearl Harbor, when the relative British and American contributions to the war effort, in men, money, and goods, were proportionally about the same as the relative contributions to the peace effort must now be. But unless our dealings with the British are marked by a rare degree of wisdom, tact and forbearance, this British fear of what is thought of as "American bullying" is capable of causing the Anglo-American partnership to break down. The wartime atmosphere must be revived.

ALL THESE factors are clearly in the minds of Secretary Marshall and his staff. Indeed, the signs suggest that a good deal has already been accomplished, here in London, to place the Anglo-American partnership on a firmer footing than in the past.

Nonetheless, it is clear that well-thought-out functional steps will have to be taken before the two countries can go forward together in full mutual confidence in each other's objectives and ability to attain those objectives. Whatever these steps may be, they must assure more regular consultation and more continuous communication of information between the two government. The frictions and misunderstandings that have arisen to date can almost all be traced to a single cause—ignorance, and the suspicion caused by ignorance.

For example, a series of very significant talks on a special strategic subject was initiated not long ago, because an extremely highly placed American policy-maker bitterly accused the British of wasting precious dollars on certain member countries of the sterling area. Why provide dollar exchange, the policy-maker angrily demanded, for these people who have no claim on the United States and very little claim on Britain?

The answer was very simple. The strategic placement of the countries was intensely important. They could not, therefore, be cast adrift. But in the course of giving this answer, all the Anglo-American interests in the area were examined, and something like a common policy was evolved. This kind of thing must now be done on a much larger scale, and in a much less accidental manner, covering not one but all areas of common interest. Probably informal but workable machinery to do the job, on the order of a combined political and economic staff working with the combined chiefs, is the best solution. And perhaps the most hopeful aspect of the situation, after the breakdown of the empty Foreign Ministers' meeting in London, is that some such solution is being discussed.

'Trial By Whimsy'

A Communication

I HAVE only just returned from overseas, and have thus only had an opportunity to read a letter from Representative George R. Dondero (R., Mich.), which appeared in your columns on October 15.

Representative Dondero charges that I have chosen to align myself "with the enemies of democracy, with the supporters of the newly reconstituted Communist International." These are grave charges, especially from a man whom I have never even met. They are, let me state unequivocally, without any foundation in fact. Let facts be submitted to a candid world.

In the late thirties I aligned myself with the enemies of the slums in America. I did so purely avocationally and from a sense of civic duty. I have no wish to magnify my activities, but it should be mentioned that they were deemed highly constructive by such men as Senator Wagner, Mr. William H. Davis, Mr. Gerard Swope and many others.

The day after Pearl Harbor I volunteered, though I was then over 35 and it meant giving up a career. That, of course, is nothing special. Millions did the same. But I take pardonable pride in the fact that six months after being inducted as a private I had become an officer, the hard way. More than four years later I left the Army with the rank of major, after having served in all three theaters. My ratings were predominantly superior.

MY ADVANCEMENT in the Army took place despite the fact that from the very first day I had to contend with charges that I was a Communist. It seems that my activities on behalf of decent housing had offended a powerful New York real estate man who denounced me to the FBI.

I went through at least half a dozen separate investigations, most of them the result of my own unceasing efforts to obtain a hearing. In each instance I was completely cleared. I was never once confronted with any charges or any evidence—and of course there couldn't be any, since I have never been a Communist, a fact quite easily verified.

On March 13, 1945, Maj. Gen. John H. Hester wrote me: "Taking into consideration all phases of above-mentioned (FBI) files, all records of your service in the Army of the United States, your diligence of application to all assigned tasks, your demonstrated excellence of performance and your repeated requests for more active service, all indicate that there can be no question as to your loyalty to the United States. Concrete evidence of this lies in the fact that you have been twice promoted in rank upon the recommendation of this headquarters."

I THOUGHT that was that. In 1945, though then shortly eligible for discharge, I volunteered for duty in Europe. With the approval of my superior officers I took the precaution of going beforehand, at my own expense and on my own time, to Washington, to find out whether the incubus was likely to rise again.

For two days I tramped through the Pentagon. I spoke to a dozen high officers, who sent for files. The unanimous verdict was: "Forget it." You can see, however, that I was not exactly behaving like a man with anything to hide or be ashamed of.

In Germany I was promptly assigned to counter intelligence. The result was still another investigation, at the conclusion of which Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, then chief of intelligence, personally told me that I was acceptable and that my work would have continuity and full backing. Counterintelligence, as you surely know, is not in the habit of employing Communists.

At counterintelligence I was sought out by Military Government's information control for what Brig. Gen. Robert A. McClure, the director, who expressed his confidence in me after examining my record, described as one of two key jobs in his command.

I became editor-in-chief of the official magazine Heute (Today), with a circulation of half a million. My work there is, of course, a matter of record. It has received praise from many quarters—the State Department, the American press, Gen. Lucius D. Clay personally.

EARLY THIS year I was suddenly summoned to Berlin and placed before a loyalty board, consisting of two colonels, a captain and a high civilian adviser of General Clay, all of them strongly and obviously anticommunist. This board again cleared me.

It did not, as Representative Dondero avers, give me a "blanket clearance." It examined me for almost three hours. I was confronted with no charges, evidence or witnesses. I was given no opportunity to prepare a defense. I was afforded no chance to be represented by counsel and to produce or cross-examine witnesses. Yet the hearing was conducted in a spirit of fairness. And it cleared me.

Later, subsequent to charges made by Representative Dondero on the floor of the House last July, I was advised, however, that my contract would not be renewed. Of course I protested. Who wouldn't have? After countless efforts I finally succeeded in obtaining an interview with General Clay himself. He gave me the following letter:

"The question has been raised in connection with your departure from military government in Germany as to this departure having resulted from alleged Communist sympathies on your part. These alleged sympathies have been investigated by a loyalty board under prescribed procedures, and the findings of the loyalty board do not sustain such a charge. I am very glad to state that your work with us in editing the magazine Heute has been of high quality and has contributed materially to the accomplishment of our broad objective in Germany to reorient its people to a more democratic way of thinking."

The question as to why my contract was not renewed remains officially unanswered. That is a burden I must bear—a most unfair burden. I do not feel free at this time to repeat what General Clay told me. I can only ask you to believe me that it did not reflect on me.

Ambassador to China Denies State Department Snubbings

In a cable to The Washington Post yesterday, Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart in Nanking disputed public statement here that many of his messages to the State Department had gone unanswered.

William C. Bullitt, former Ambassador, had told the Senate Appropriations Committee on Wednesday that Ambassador Stuart had sent urgent appeals for aid to China, often without getting the courtesy of a reply from the State Department.

The Washington Post cabled Ambassador Stuart quoting Bullitt's testimony, and asking whether it was true. This was Ambassador Stuart's answer, received yesterday:

"In the normal course of my functions I have reported to the department on the situation in China as I see it. Also, in the normal course of my functions, I have from time to time submitted recommendations.

"Obviously aid for China has been mentioned. Nevertheless such communications are classified and I am not at liberty to divulge the contents.

"I am not conscious of any indifference or discourtesy on the part of the department in replying to my queries or in commenting upon my suggestions."

Chinese Officials Fear Lateness of U. S. Aid

Nanking, Dec. 18 (AP).—Chinese government sources expressed pleasure today over Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's recommendation for immediate assistance to this republic, but it was tempered by declaration that military aid will be too late unless it comes at once.

High officials made no attempt to hide the government's growing weakness in the face of mushrooming Communist armed strength.

There was concern over the failure of national armies to oust a trio of Red generals from the great central China area between the Yangtze and Yellow rivers. Forces of the three—Liu Po-cheng, Chen Yi and Chen Keng—appear stronger today than when they drove southward some weeks ago in a successful attempt to divert government troops from a cleanup of the Shantung Peninsula.

Chinese officials said General Wedemeyer's recommendation for economic and military assistance is "most significant" because his secret report to President Truman is expected to form the basis of United States policy toward China.

Witness Hit VA Ban On Education Courses

By The Associated Press

Witnesses told a congressional committee yesterday that the Veterans' Administration permits GIs to take university courses in sewing, knitting and toe-dancing, but now bans aviation training as an "elective" subject.

A group representing several Midwest States and universities said the VA suddenly switched its policy, effective September 1, and refused to pay up to $500 a year for GIs to take up aeronautics unless it is their main course.

Yalta Road's End

By Ernest Lindley

Question Of Objectives

MR. WALTER LIPPMANN, if I understand his thesis correctly, attributes the breakdown at London to defective diplomatic machinery. He holds "that, as it is set up and as it operates," the Council of Foreign Ministers "does not promote but prevents negotiation, that it is an instrument of discord and of division and not of accommodation and agreement."

Lindley

Mr. Lippmann contrasts the meetings of the Council of Foreign Ministers, as a separate body, with the Yalta and Potsdam conferences in which the heads of governments participated. He contrasts them also to the older diplomatic methods—"to the exchange of written proposals, supplemented by conversations in the four capitals between the Ambassadors and the Foreign Offices, and to the use of intermediaries."

This analysis, it seems to me, confuses the surface with the substance. The disagreement between the Soviet Union and the West involves substantial questions. It reveals—indeed, has long revealed—basically conflicting ideas about the future of Europe.

IT IS TRUE, of course, that agreements were negotiated at the Yalta and Potsdam Conferences, in which the heads of governments took part. The troublesome question of the Soviet-Polish border was settled by deciding that the Curzon Line, drawn in 1919, should be the border. It was agreed that Poland should be compensated in the west at Germany's expense. Specific plans were made for the occupation and control of Germany. It was agreed that Germany should be disarmed and denazified but should not be subjected to a punitive peace. The three powers agreed to act jointly in helping the peoples of liberated states to create democratic institutions of their own choice. Provisional governments representive of all democratic groups and free elections were pledged. An even more specific agreement was reached as to the reorganization of the provisional government of Poland.

These agreements involved compromises. But, Mr. Roosevelt reported to Congress, they spelled "the end of the system of unilateral action and exclusive alliances and spheres of influence and balances of power and all the other expedients which have been tried for centuries—and have failed."

Mr. Roosevelt had hardly uttered those words before it began to appear that the Soviet Union did not intend to honor the Yalta agreements on liberated Europe generally and on Poland specifically. Within a short time, the violations of these agreements by the Soviet Union were plain, beyond dispute.

At Potsdam, however, further agreements were reached, especially as to the treatment of Germany. And the drafting of peace treaties with the satellite nations and with Germany was assigned to the Council of Foreign Ministers. This Council, it may be noted, was to sit continuously—deputies were to carry on the work when the Foreign Ministers themselves were not present.

EXCEPTING the first, the sessions of the council attended by the Foreign Ministers in person have been preceded by extensive spadework. The meetings themselves have been held behind closed doors. The Foreign Ministers have also lunched and dined with each other, in pairs, trios and quartets.

Mr. Lippmann seems to feel that the Foreign Ministers were unequal to the task because they were "only ministers, bound by their instructions, uncertain of their tenure, unsure of their authority and representing in practice not their governments but a department of their governments."

Mr. Bevin and General Marshall, and before him Secretary Byrnes, certainly represented more than a department of their governments. Mr. Byrnes and General Marshall not only had the backing of the President but Republican advice and support. Mr. Bidault was as strong as the various governments he represented, perhaps stronger. Mr. Molotov's ability to negotiate may have been restricted by instructions. But he was no more flexible at the long session held in Moscow last spring than at the one just concluded in London. Moreover, at Moscow, each of the visiting Foreign Ministers conferred directly with Stalin.

The Council of Foreign Ministers was able to negotiate treaties for the satellites. This may have been largely because all except one of the satellites were within the physical control of the Russians and the treaties met substantially the Russian terms. Even the Italian treaty made substantial concessions to Russian demands.

To blame the breakdown of the negotiations as to Germany and Austria on defective diplomatic machinery is to ignore the important substance of the disagreements. There is nothing in the record to support in the slightest a belief that different channels of negotiation would have produced an agreement. The record, on the contrary, indicates that no agreement is possible until the Soviet Union has modified its objectives.

Foreign Information Bill Set for Early 1948 Action

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday scheduled for earliest possible action in the next session of Congress the Smith-Mundt bill providing for America's overseas information service.

Action on the measure was held to be urgent if this country is to tell the whole story of the Marshall Plan, and answer the propaganda of the Cominform.

Tentative agreement was reached on a modified version of the measure adopted last year by the House but killed in the Senate.

Among the major changes in the measure was a provision to divide the functions of the United States Information Service into two parts—one dealing solely with information and the other with cultural relationships.

The committee agreed that each division should have its own advisory board, probably of seven members each, drawn from fields concerned with the functions of the division. For example, leading newspaper and radio figures will be asked to serve as advisers in the field of information, and in the cultural field various educators and other experts will be asked to serve.

The revised measure will include a clear statement of policy setting forth exactly what Congress intends the information service to achieve.

Representative Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.) said he had worked closely with Senator Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) and was pleased with the revisions.

Ten Indicted In Missouri Vote Inquiry

Kansas City, Dc. 18 (AP).—George R. Clark, Jackson County assessor, and Henry McKissick, Democratic leader, were among 10 persons indicted by the second special Federal grand jury called to investigate alleged frauds in the 1946 primary election in Kansas City.

The two surrendered along with eight other persons charged in the indictment with conspiracy to deprive Fifth District citizens of their right to vote.

The indictment brought to 41 the number of persons accused by two Federal grand juries of ghost voting, miscounting ballots, and other fraudulent practices in connection with the election and the subsequent probe.

Bitter Campaign

The 1946 primary ended a bitter campaign for the Democratic nomination from the Fifth Missouri District, comprising most of Kansas City. In that cmapaign, Enos Axtell had the support of President Truman, as well as the Pendergast organization, in his effort to unseat Roger C. Slaughter. Axtell won the nomination, but was defeated by Republican Albert L. Reeves, jr., in the general election.

McKissick, a tavern owner, was indicted by the first special grand jury in a charge of attempting to tamper with that body, but was acquitted by a Federal jury.

Others Indicted

The other eight persons named today were Morris Marks, an employe in the county collector's office; Red Stewart, courthouse electrician; Grover McMillan, an employe of the county assessor's office; Charles Modica, chief deputy in the criminal division of the Circuit Court clerk's office; Dorris Sartin, a bartender; Frank Truax, an extra mail carrier; Benjamin Ryan, and Joe Grinberg.

The jury emphasized its failure to solve the theft of valuable evidence from the vault of the Jackson County Courthouse.

Safe crackers blasted the door from the vault and stole ballots, poll books and tally sheets which the Jackson County grand jury had used in indicting 71 persons on State charges of vote fraud.

Telegraphers Charge Coercion To Western Union

Attorney Frank Bloom of the Commercial Telegraphers Union (AFL) said yesterday the union, threatening a Nation-wide strike next Tuesday in Western Union offices, would file charges of unfair labor practices against the company, alleging coercion of workers in connection with the prospective walkout.

Bloom said the charges would be filed in the Baltimore regional office of the National Labor Relations Board today. He said they grew out of information from the field that the company was attempting to learn from employes whether they were going to strike next Tuesday and telling them they would be violating their contract if they did.

The development came as the union, together with the AFL Telegraph Employes Union of Atlanta and Telegraph Workers Union of Dallas, Tex., were preparing to attend a conciliation meeting with company representatives here today. The conference was called by Conciliation Director Cyrus S. Ching.

Navy to Zip Airplanes Into Protective Bag

The Navy is developing a zipper bag into which airplanes can be popped to protect them from rain and weather.

The bags are made of plastic-coated fiber-glass fabric. Total time needed to fit one on, take it off, and prepare the airplane for flight is 30 man hours, a Navy announcement said.

This is only a quarter of the time normally required to prepare a plane for short-term storage and then get it ready to fly.

The Gallup Poll

U.S. Drinking Varies with Age, Sex, Size of Town and Section

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 18.—The number of adults who indulge in the "cup that cheers" depends very much on the number of their years.

The close relationsnip between a man's age and his drinking habits is brought out in a coast-to-coast survey by the Institute which shows that:

1. More people between the age of 21 and 29 drink alcoholic beverages than in any other age group. Teetotalers are found most frequently among people over 50.

2. The greatest number of abstainers is found among women, nearly half of whom shun the bottle. For the country as a whole, both men and women included, approximately one person in three claims to be an abstainer. The Nation's farm areas show twice as large a proportion of teetotalers as the big cities do.

3. Older people think it is objectional for women to drink in public places. A majority of young people see nothing wrong with women drinking in public.

4. Although nearly two thirds say they drink, only a small proportion of adults—one in seven—say that liquor has ever been a cause of trouble in their homes.

With the season of Christmas gaiety coming up, the Institute polled from coast-to-coast on the following questions concerning drink:

"Do you, yourself, use any alcoholic beverages such as liquor, wine or beer, or are you a total abstainer?"

The vote:

Abstainers	37%
Drinkers	63

Approximately one fourth of those who drink say they stick to wine or beer.

The wide variation in drinking habits by age, size of community and section of the country is shown in the following table. The Middle West and South show the highest proportion of abstainers.

Britain, Canada Food Pact Settled

Ottawa, Dec. 18 (AP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today that Canada and the United Kingdom have arrived at a settlement of food contract problems by which Canada will receive 100 million dollars in United States dollars during the next three months.

Canada and the United Kingdom, King said, have agreed to continue the five-year wheat agreement on its present basis, and also to extend contracts for livestock products on their present basis, at prices which are being "adjusted accordingly."

Coupled with the food contracts was a provision that Britain would buy from Canada certain raw materials—particularly timber and nonferrous metals—for reconstruction purposes.

Family Of Four

No family head who has been struggling to pay for 85-cent eggs or children's shoes at $7 a pair needs statistics to convince him that living costs have soared through the roof. What he knows from his personal experience is only confirmed by the testimony of Ewan Clague, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, before a congressional subcommittee Tuesday, showing that the cost of a modest budget for a family of four in Washington had risen from $2985 in March, 1946, to $3458 in June of this year. The chief value of these statistics is that they afford Congress concrete examples of what inflation is doing to moderate-income families—most of whose incomes have by no means kept pace with living costs.

It is no consolation to residents of this area that for a family of four Washington is the most expensive city in the country, running 2 per cent above Seattle and 4 per cent above Boston. The chief factor explaining this situation is the outlandish cost of housing in Washington. Housing here costs 9 per cent more than in the next most expensive city, Chicago, and 35 per cent more than in New Orleans. Aside from these more obvious differentials, however, the most remarkable thing about the 34-city survey made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics is the similarity it discloses in the general cost increases. Whereas the modest budget rose $473 in Washington during the 15-month interval, it also rose $431 in New Orleans, the least expensive city surveyed. In other words, the inflationary pressure is almost the same in all large urban centers. Moreover, it is continuing; costs have jumped an additional 3 per cent since June, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics estimate.

Lest anyone think that the $3458 figure for Washington represents a luxury budget, it is important to point out that it makes provision for a new overcoat for the head of the family only once in seven years and allows a movie only once every three weeks for three members of the family. The people the study is talking about are the people who already have forgone dollar butter and 79-cent bacon. While the budget is not precisely spartan in that it provides adequate standards for diet and health, neither is it generous. As Mr. Clague observed, "As the prices rise more, without offsetting increases in incomes or methods of reducing the costs of the budget, the hardships are greater because the greatest concentration of budget-level families of four is probably in the $3000-$4000 income group, even now—at 1947 prices." Until the political parties stop political buck-passing and take concrete action to halt runaway inflation, the family standard of living will continue to be subjected to a tighter and tighter squeeze.

Trade With Russia

The tom-toms about our trade with Russia continue to resound on Capitol Hill. One would think that a state of war existed between the United States and the USSR or that all hope of a peaceful resolution of differences between the two countries had been abandoned. A conflict exists, to be sure—a real and bitter conflict. But happily it is not being carried on by military means. If it were, the small volume of American machinery going to Russia would no more tip the scales than would the stocks of manganese and other valuable ores moving to the United States from Russia. On the contrary, this trade, slight as it is, constitutes a bridge between the two countries which it would be tragic to destroy.

There is the most dangerous sort of jingoism to proposals such as that broached by Representative Weichel the other day to "prohibit any ship from leaving United States ports with supplies for Russia or Russian-dominated nations." And such proposals are scarcely less jingoistic when thinly disguised by application to all foreign countries instead of to the Soviet Union alone. Representative Welch said Wednesday in respect of his request to Mr. Truman to ban all oil exports that it did not mention Russia but covered exports of oil and oil products to any part of the world. Then he added significantly that "if we are dependent on Russia for critical materials, God help us."

There is another danger which should give pause to business-minded Congressmen. Perhaps for protective coloration, Representative Mundt changed his bill calling upon the Commerce Department for detailed information on exports and exporters to Russia so as to make it cover exports and exporters to all parts of the world in certain categories, principally tools, machinery and agricultural equipment. The window-dressing is unlikely to fool anybody. This information, difficult and expensive to obtain, would probably prove embarrassing, as Mr. Mundt may intend that it should, to those who are doing business with the Russians.

It is worth remembering that when exporters apply for export licenses, as they are required to do under the law, there is at least an implicit pledge on the Government's part that their business will be kept confidential. Certainly they would be disadvantaged by disclosure. The Government has export controls to make sure that essential materials go where they can most effectively further the aims of the Marshall Plan. Congress is entitled to full information as to the destination and volume of exports. But there is no need for the Government to provide data that might be used to blacklist persons engaged in perfectly legitimate trade.

New York's Threat

Governor Dewey has served notice that, unless Congress passes legislation next year to remove the tax discrimination between States with community property laws and States which do not have such laws, New York will be forced to modify its laws to protect its citizens from existing discrimination. The president of the State Tax Commission estimates that New York residents pay 170 million dollars more in income taxes than they would if married couples were able to split income for taxation purposes as they do in community property States. There is no questioning the desirability of prompt Federal action to do away with such unfair discrimination.

Delayed action by Congress has already resulted in quite a number of States adopting the community property system for purposes of tax relief. Of course, this is not a sound remedy, since it upsets long established property relationships. Indeed Governor Dewey admits that adoption of a community property statute by New York would "disrupt the whole foundation of our legal system" and "involve questions of constitutionality which might severely limit the adequacy of such a statute." The president of the State Tax Commission is even more emphatic in predicting "a near catastrophic disturbance of the legal rights of married persons, and of all persons who deal with them, in every form of property—the breadwinner's earnings; the family home, farm and business; family inheritances, and personal investments of all kinds." This, he says, "cannot be justified except as a matter of desperation." In these circumstances we question the wisdom of changing the State property laws even if Congress should fail to respond to Governor Dewey's appeal. It would be an appallingly high price to pay for the sake of reducing the income taxes of married couples in the higher income brackets.

We feel that the preferable method of eliminating the existing discrimination would be to make joint income tax returns mandatory for married couples in all the States. For Nation-wide extension of the system prevailing in the community property States would entail heavy revenue losses amounting to about 740 million dollars, according to Treasury estimates. Unfortunately, however, opposition to proposals making joint returns mandatory is so great that it seems futile to hope that existing tax discriminations growing out of community property laws can be removed by such means. On the other hand, there is widespread support within and without Congress for Nation-wide extension of the split income plan. Consequently, we have reluctantly reached the conclusion that Federal legislation permitting married couples in all the States to divide their incomes for tax purposes would be preferable to goading more States into adopting community property laws and becoming involved in the legalistic tangles that Governor Dewey and New York's tax commissioner have so vividly described. That is likely to happen unless Congress acts promptly to eliminate present inequities.

Opening For Taber

Most people probably think that the 597-million-dollar aid program approved by Congress was intended solely for European relief, since that was the sum requested for the three European beneficiaries—France, Italy and Austria. But, half-yielding to and half-retreating from clamor to do something for China, too, that country was included in the aid program that Congress approved, though Congress did it without raising the total amount authorized to be spent or indicating how much of the total should be allotted to China. The Interim Aid Act merely provided that "to the extent that any funds may be made available under provisions of any other act heretofore or hereafter passed relating to China, any funds reserved under this act for China may be used for aid to the other countries named in Section 2 of this act." (That is, France, Italy and Austria.)

That was a way out of the embarrassment created by the House Foreign Relations Committee in recommending 60 million dollars for China as part of the program. It was, of course, devious and bungling. But it gave Congressman Taber a rare opportunity to wield the paring knife on European aid appropriations. He was enabled to defend unjustified reductions in the allotted amounts by pointing out that the 88 million dollars that he had "saved" would be available for later appropriation for China or any other of the three countries listed as beneficiaries.

Congress, therefore, is primarily responsible for the situation that has arisen, although Mr. Taber would no doubt have cut the appropriations for European relief in any case, since he has given a good many reasons—all of them bad—for so doing. But even if he had been disposed to grant the full amount requested, he was faced by the fact that Congress had limited the aggregate authorization to spend up to 597 million dollars for distribution among four instead of three countries. The paring process, in short, had started before Mr. Taber's committee began its destructive work.

Defense Of Prejudice

The current local attacks on the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights may be set down as symptoms of progress. In the first place, it is altogether salutary to have this community's race relations problem brought out into the open where it can be looked at and discussed. In the second place, it is heartening, when you come to reflect upon it, that those members of the community who wish to perpetuate an outmoded and essentially anti-democratic system of segregation now feel compelled to defend their prejudices in public. Until lately, they could afford to sit back in smug silence. It is healthy that they should be heard. Radio Station WTOP, which gave several of them a chance to express their views in a broadcast last Sunday, deserves praise for tackling a ticklish local issue; no doubt it will soon air the other side of the story, too. We are glad these men were heard; glad, in particular, that Mr. Clifford H. Newell has prepared a "critical analysis" of the Civil Rights report through which his views are submitted for public scrutiny.

The very extravangance of the attacks on the President's Committee conveys its own refutation. Mr. Newell, for instance, feels obliged to carry the argument ad hominem. Happily, he has somewhat modified his earlier aspersions on the motives of the committee members and now takes the more charitable view in his analysis that such men as Charles E. Wilson, Dr. Frank Graham, Charles Luckman, Morris Ernst, Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill and Bishop Francis J. Haas were merely duped into signing a report replete with "gross exaggerations, carefully worded misstatements, half-truths and vicious untruths" which Mr. Newell doubts "if any one of the committeemen had any part in actually editing." Most Washingtonians, we presume, will prefer to credit these men with at least enough wit to know what they were doing and enough conscience to mean what they said.

The WTOP broadcast disclosed an interesting reticence on the part of local leaders. Few of them wanted to defend publicly the practices which the President's Committee had condemned, although activities for which they were directly responsible were attacked in the committee's report. No less notable was the vagueness of those who did participate. Dr. Maurer, the acting president of the Board of Education, declined to answer the direct question, "Do you, as a plain citizen, believe that segregation should be done away with?" And Mr. Newell: "I do not think a covenant necessarily applies to any race or creed. I think it applies, and should apply, to a desirable class of people residing in that community." No one would quarrel with a covenant such as this. But it scarcely meets the issue of the restrictive covenant based on race or religion.

The most disingenuous plea of all was entered by Mr. Harry Wender, chairman of the Recreation Board. He contended that the segregation policy pursued by his board is required by law, declaring that "the original bill that was presented to Congress for creation of a recreation board did contain specific language which would have made it compulsory in every particular that we have a segregated recreation system in Washington." He quite neglected to state, however, that this segregation clause was deliberately stricken from the bill by Congress before it was enacted into law. But, as we say, it is a sign of progress to have any debate at all.

PCA's Wedge

By its resolution urging Henry Wallace to enter the 1948 presidential race on an independent ticket, the Progressive Citizens of America has served formal notice of its intention to try to splinter the Democratic vote. In thus disclosing PCA's true purposes, the action of the executive committee makes doubly significant the resignation of Dr. Frank Kingdon as the organization's cochairman. Dr. Kingdon, apparently, cannot stomach a third-party movement, the only effect of which could be to injure materially President Truman's chance for reelection.

That this is precisely what PCA wants is indicated in its announcement. The continuance of President Truman's leadership, it said, "will lead to the disastrous defeat of the Democratic Party in 1948 and victory for the Republican Party, the main arm of reaction." That, of course, is double-talk. Not even the most woolly headed of PCA's adherents would contend seriously that Mr. Wallace would stand a chance of election. The PCA wants to aid the Republicans it pretends to condemn, in the hope that, with the field cleared for the GOP, the Republicans would be induced to put up a candidate that the liberals would regard as a reactionary. The further assumption is that this would be followed by a wave of public dissatisfaction which would pave the way for a candidate of PCA's choice in 1952—presumably a candidate dedicated to the Wallacian roses-and-light formula for "the only economic and foreign policy program which will save us from war and depression."

THE ORCHARD

Here in the time of harvest I have come
To seek the apple red and white
That hangs upon the autumn tree.
Still seems to linger on the air
The April hum of bee; the song of birds,

The loosened blossoms in ephemeral flight.
But now the globes of fruit are full and sweet;
Pale spring, the curve of summer,
Fire-red, frost-white are found
Where the rich branch leans down at last
To touch the apples to the ground.

"Ain't There Some Way to Separate Them?"

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

Summing Up

LONDON.—As was [illegible] in this space many weeks ago, the London Conference has ended with open acknowledgement of the division of the world. Behind the strong barriers of the Soviet sphere, Molotov now stands isolated with his puppets. On this side of these barriers, Messrs. Bevin, Bidault and Marshall stand together, at least in temporary unity. Their next step is the separate organization of western Germany, so plainly necessitated by what has just occurred.

In these circumstances, the unity and strength of the West are all-important. The only hope for the future is that the Kremlin, impressed by Western unity and strength, will ultimately change its policy, which must otherwise lead to the most terrible consequences. Furthermore, the most essential element in the unity and strength of the West is a powerful and intimate Anglo-American partnership.

All this being so, a special interest attaches to the problem of the Anglo-American partnership which has been explored at length in these reports. Before proceeding to conclusions, it will be well to run over rapidly the problem's main factors.

1. Wherever their own courage and determination can take them, the British are now visibly turning the postwar corner. They are, therefore, on a perfectly cold-blooded estimate, partners who can be invested in without undue risk.

2. Their shortage of capital in general, and their acute shortage of hard assets in particular, have implications which must be squarely faced. However, the fact is the British do not have the capital in hand, for the present, to carry all the costly burdens which the Anglo-American partnership involves. For many reasons it is impossible for the United States to assume these burdens. Fortunately the capital shortage is the only real difficulty. Thus it is essential for the United States to supply the fresh capital which will place Britain on a footing of permanent strength. This is urgent.

3. IN THE special sphere of military strategy the Anglo-American partnership is already operating with the utmost intimacy and smoothness. But this is not true in the spheres of political and economic policy. In these spheres, because the makers of British and American policy have been dealing with each other at arm's length, there have been many petty irritations and breakdowns of cooperation.

4. Without a supply of fresh capital from the United States, the British will be driven, perforce, to try to devise a new foreign policy—which can only, in the last analysis, be a policy of surrender to the Soviets. Yet even if the capital is forthcoming from America, another major difficulty will still remain to be surmounted. From Attlee and Bevin to the British man in the street, everyone in this country fears that acceptance of American aid may entail loss of Britain's independence of action.

The fear is distinctly neurotic, to be sure. Britain was not tied to our chariot wheels after Pearl Harbor, when the relative British and American contributions to the war effort, in men, money, and goods, were proportionally about the same as the relative contributions to the peace effort must now be. But unless our dealings with the British are marked by a rare degree of wisdom, tact and forbearance, this British fear of what is thought of as "American bullying" is capable of causing the Anglo-American partnership to break down. The wartime atmosphere must be revived.

ALL THESE factors are clearly in the minds of Secretary Marshall and his staff. Indeed, the signs suggest that a good deal has already been accomplished, here in London, to place the Anglo-American partnership on a firmer footing than in the past.

Nonetheless, it is clear that well-thought-out functional steps will have to be taken before the two countries can go forward together in full mutual confidence in each other's objectives and ability to attain those objectives. Whatever these steps may be, they must assure more regular consultation and more continuous communication of information between the two governments. The frictions and misunderstandings that have arisen to date can almost all be traced to a single cause—ignorance, and the suspicion caused by ignorance.

For example, a series of very significant talks on a special strategic subject was initiated not long ago, because an extremely highly placed American policy-maker bitterly accused the British of wasting precious dollars on certain member countries of the sterling area. Why provide dollar exchange, the policy-maker angrily demanded, for these people who have no claim on the United States and very little claim on Britain?

The answer was very simple. The strategic placement of the countries was intensely important. They could not, therefore, be cast adrift. But in the course of giving this answer, all the Anglo-American interests in the area were examined, and something like a common policy was evolved. This kind of thing must now be done on a much larger scale, and in a much less accidental manner, covering not one but all areas of common interest. Probably informal but workable machinery to do the job, on the order of a combined political and economic staff working with the combined chiefs, is the best solution. And perhaps the most hopeful [illegible] situation, [illegible] the empty meeting in Lond[illegible] such solution is being d[illegible]

Gen. Feng's Position

I read with complete disgust your article of December 12 about General Feng Yu-hsiang's talk on the China problem. His argument would have been infinitely more convincing had it been made by a Chinese civilian who is not drawing a government salary. As a soldier, General Feng has committed a gross breach of army discipline by rebuking his immediate superior officer; as a civil servant on active service, he has shown rude discourtesy in criticizing the very government he is serving, and, finally, as a member of the Kuomintang, he has only demonstrated his irresponsibility in not taking active measures to reform the most corruptible party that ever existed on earth. And all the more, he does these things when he is abroad, when he knows that he is beyond the reach of the laws of his own country and that those whom he is accusing are denied a chance to answer his charges.

If his memory still serves him rightly, General Feng should remember how he, his fellow war lords, and his hired band of mercenaries wrecked North China during their rivalry for power between the years 1920 and 1931. It was Chiang Kai-shek who finally put an end to the "military" career of General Feng, reorganized his bands into regular troops, and gave him the title of Vice Generalissimo and hence a chance to serve his country. One may, on this account, easily discern why, apart from other things, General Feng entertains a bitter personal grudge against Chiang Kai-shek.

As to General Feng's war record, there is absolutely no evidence to support the claim that he took any active part whatsoever in the last war. His efficiency as a soldier, therefore, remains a doubtful mystery.

There is no question that the present Chinese government truly needs a fundamental purge and reconstitution. To send a character like General Feng to study river conservation in the United States is utterly preposterous, since it is obvious that he neither has any expert knowledge on this subject nor shows any intention to study it seriously.

What he is apparently doing is simply leading a comfortable and parasitic existence in America at the expense of the whole Chinese nation and at the same time making malicious speeches to scandalize those who are actually trying hard to do something for his country. Had General Feng a clearer conscience, he would certainly remember that people in glass houses should not throw stones.

Unrecorded Vote

On November 24, the members of the House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority voted to cite for contempt of Congress 10 men who had previously refused to reveal their political beliefs to the Thomas Committee.

On December 11, the members of the House of Representatives, by resorting to a voice vote on the 590-million-dollar emergency aid bill, evaded the necessity of going on record as to how they individually stood on this measure.

Seemingly, the Congressmen believe that they have the right to demand of any citizen that he publicly reveal his political affiliations. They apparently do not believe, however, that as elected Representatives they have an equal obligation to reveal to their constituents their stand on one of the most important and controversial issues of the day.

Isn't it a shame that no machinery exists whereby our Congressmen can be cited for that most un-American activity, contempt of the American electorate?

Sharing Christmas

Are there any homesick people in Washington? A friend of mine is away from California this Christmas. She is adopting two little boys for the day. While I was phoning for two suitable children a charming girl came to my door selling oranges. She had seven brothers, including the two little boys who would be glad to share Christmas Day with my friend. So their sister sold me oranges and her two little brothers as well!

Washington is full of transients like my friend. If you want to help, phone Central Union Mission. It is in touch with needy children and old people who are alone in the world.

Discarded Uniforms

Every discharged serviceman has uniforms lying around which he will probably never use again. Figure the total in millions. What an urgent need could be filled by just overcoats!

Take them out of that moth closet and send them to your nearest relief agency. It is actually a sin to keep them rotting away when some guy is shivering.

Religion In Schools

A great many adults and a greater number of children would never learn what this released time for religious education is all about from reading the occasional editorials and letters in the newspapers and from most other media of communication. Rarely have I ever seen such important issues as church and state and released time for religious instruction so muddled by shallow thinking, bareness of facts, and shoddy presentation.

Many adults have neither gone to Sunday School nor church, read a religious book or newspaper or worked with a church group of any kind. Most often the children of such parents neither attend Sunday school nor other church activities. Religious educators realizing this fact also realize that many, many children are not getting any religious instruction.

These educators have done what they consider the only immediate thing to do. They have begun, in a democratic manner, to inject again into the public school life some religious training. Without this even meager influence our schools will turn out little "democratic" pagans without the necessary development of will and theological knowledge necessary to continue democracy.

As to the church-state controversy: just a little unbiased reading will prove that it is alarmist and very much ado about nothing. It is the duty of all media of communication to give all the facts and all the principles involved in order to permit genuinely intelligent discussion by our people.

Adequate Health Insurance

Recently the United States Public Health Service published a comprehensive study and analysis of Blue Cross and Medical Service Plans by its health economist, Louis S. Reed. This monumental survey was responsive to Surgeon Gen. Thomas Parran's desire that USPHS "have an informed opinion of the present and potential usefulness of existing methods of distributing medical and hospital care.

"Such an objective study is particularly timely in view of the controlling attitude of the American Medical Association toward prepayment medical plans. The House of Delegates in December, 1945, instructed the AMA board of trustees and its Council on Medical Services and Public Relations "to proceed as promptly as possible with the development of a specific national health program with emphasis upon the Nation-wide organization of locally administered payment plans sponsored by medical societies."

In effect, this is a major pronouncement of policy by the only official spokesman of some 130,000 qualified doctors whose good will and cooperation are a prerequisite for any national health insurance program. There may be minor deflections of dissident physicians from this instruction but numerically they will be inadequate either to invalidate this policy or to implement an alternate program of compulsory health insurance. To the political realist their veto power is controlling. Therefore it must be conciliated.

In view of this stalemate Surgeon General Parran's report will be a means of counciliating the ideological conflict between proponents of voluntary versus compulsory national health insurance. This authoritative survey of all facts and figures of record objectively reveals both the strength and weakness of voluntary hospital and medical service plans. Their strength and advantages may be succinctly stated: For the solvent and the employed they provide an option of low-cost, prepayable, risk-sharing and indemnification of carefully selected health risks. They well serve those whose prospective liability in respect to incidence and duration of their health risk is minimal and mathematically favorable. Their weakness is that they become insolvent when they attempt social sufficiency without ruinous deflation of benefits or prohibitive inflation of the premium-rate structure.

In terms of national health security insurance we may define social sufficiency as a prepayable, solvent, low-cost, noncancellable, nonselective form of cost-spreading self-help against major health hazards. It must be an option available to all citizens without any racial, economic or geographical discrimination whatsoever. If the individual is unable to pay for it then this minimal floor of health security should be financed in whole or in part by State and Federal assistance.

Obviously the voluntary Blue Cross and Medical Service plans approved and advocated by the dominant AMA do not possess social sufficiency. Our problem is to provide it. This may be done by Congress passing enabling legislation incorporating these principles of intelligent compromise (1) make the Federal Security Agency the comptroller of a national health security insurance fund derived from the premiums of the solvent, the part-premiums of low income groups and the Federal and State contributions for all indigent or underprivileged. Both contributions to and disbursements from the funds would be determined by a national actuarial formula wherein costs and solvency would be determined by mathematics and subscriber benefits would be defined by a nondiscriminating national formula. (2) Coordinate and consolidate existing nonprofit governing bodies of Blue Cross, Blue Shield, American Hospital Association and the AMA Council on Medical Service and Public Relation as local and regional agencies of administration.

'Trial By Whimsy'

A Communication

I HAVE only just returned from overseas, and have thus only had an opportunity to read a letter from Representative George R. Dondero (R., Mich.), which appeared in your columns on October 15.

Representative Dondero charges that I have chosen to align myself "with the enemies of democracy, with the supporters of the newly reconstituted Communist International." These are grave charges, especially from a man whom I have never even met. They are, let me state unequivocally, without any foundation in fact. Let facts be submitted to a candid world.

In the late thirties I aligned myself with the enemies of the slums in America. I did so purely avocationally and from a sense of civic duty. I have no wish to magnify my activities, but it should be mentioned that they were deemed highly constructive by such men as Senator Wagner, Mr. William H. Davis, Mr. Gerard Swope and many others.

The day after Pearl Harbor I volunteered, though I was then over 35 and it meant giving up a career. That, of course, is nothing special. Millions did the same. But I take pardonable pride in the fact that six months after being inducted as a private I had become an officer, the hard way. More than four years later I left the Army with the rank of major, after having served in all three theaters. My ratings were predominantly superior.

MY ADVANCEMENT in the Army took place despite the fact that from the very first day I had to contend with charges that I was a Communist. It seems that my activities on behalf of decent housing had offended a powerful New York real estate man who denounced me to the FBI.

I went through at least half a dozen separate investigations, most of them the result of my own unceasing efforts to obtain a hearing. In each instance I was completely cleared. I was never once confronted with any charges or any evidence—and of course there couldn't be any, since I have never been a Communist, a fact quite easily verified.

On March 13, 1945, Maj. Gen. John H. Hester wrote me: "Taking into consideration all phases of above-mentioned (FBI) files, all records of your service in the Army of the United States, your diligence of application to all assigned tasks, your demonstrated excellence of performance and your repeated requests for more active service, all indicate that there can be no question as to your loyalty to the United States. Concrete evidence of this lies in the fact that you have been twice promoted in rank upon the recommendation of this headquarters."

I THOUGHT that was that. In 1945, though then shortly eligible for discharge, I volunteered for duty in Europe. With the approval of my superior officers I took the precaution of going beforehand, at my own expense and on my own time, to Washington, to find out whether the incubus was likely to rise again.

For two days I tramped through the Pentagon. I spoke to a dozen high officers, who sent for files. The unanimous verdict was: "Forget it." You can see, however, that I was not exactly behaving like a man with anything to hide or be ashamed of.

In Germany I was promptly assigned to counter intelligence. The result was still another investigation, at the conclusion of which Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, then chief of intelligence, personally told me that I was acceptable and that my work would have continuity and full backing. Counterintelligence, as you surely know, is not in the habit of employing Communists.

At counterintelligence I was sought out by Military Government's information control for what Brig. Gen. Robert A. McClure, the director, who expressed his confidence in me after examining my record, described as one of two key jobs in his command.

I became editor-in-chief of the official magazine Heute (Today), with a circulation of half a million. My work there is, of course, a matter of record. It has received praise from many quarters—the State Department, the American press, Gen. Lucius D. Clay personally.

EARLY THIS year I was suddenly summoned to Berlin and placed before a loyalty board, consisting of two colonels, a captain and a high civilian adviser of General Clay, all of them strongly and obviously anticommunist. This board again cleared me.

It did not, as Representative Dondero avers, give me a "blanket clearance." It examined me for almost three hours. I was confronted with no charges, evidence or witnesses. I was given no opportunity to prepare a defense. I was afforded no chance to be represented by counsel and to produce or cross-examine witnesses. Yet the hearing was conducted in a spirit of fairness. And it cleared me.

Later, subsequent to charges made by Representative Dondero on the floor of the House last July, I was advised, however, that my contract would not be renewed. Of course I protested. Who wouldn't have? After countless efforts I finally succeeded in obtaining an interview with General Clay himself. He gave me the following letter:

"The question has been raised in connection with your departure from military government in Germany as to this departure having resulted from alleged Communist sympathies on your part. These alleged sympathies have been investigated by a loyalty board under prescribed procedures, and the findings of the loyalty board do not sustain such a charge. I am very glad to state that your work with us in editing the magazine Heute has been of high quality and has contributed materially to the accomplishment of our broad objective in Germany to reorient its people to a more democratic way of thinking."

The question as to why my contract was not renewed remains officially unanswered. That is a burden I must bear—a most unfair burden. I do not feel free at this time to repeat what General Clay told me. I can only ask you to believe me that it did not reflect on me.

Ambassador to China Denies State Department Snubbings

In a cable to The Washington Post yesterday, Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart in Nanking disputed public statement here that many of his messages to the State Department had gone unanswered.

William C. Bullitt, former Ambassador, had told the Senate Appropriations Committee on Wednesday that Ambassador Stuart had sent urgent appeals for aid to China, often without getting the courtesy of a reply from the State Department.

The Washington Post cabled Ambassador Stuart quoting Bullitt's testimony, and asking whether it was true. This was Ambassador Stuart's answer, received yesterday:

"In the normal course of my functions I have reported to the department on the situation in China as I see it. Also, in the normal course of my functions, I have from time to time submitted recommendations.

"Obviously aid for China has been mentioned. Nevertheless such communications are classified and I am not at liberty to divulge the contents.

"I am not conscious of any indifference or discourtesy on the part of the department in replying to my queries or in commenting upon my suggestions."

Chinese Officials Fear Lateness of U. S. Aid

Nanking, Dec. 18 (AP).—Chinese government sources expressed pleasure today over Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer's recommendation for immediate assistance to this republic, but it was tempered by declaration that military aid will be too late unless it comes at once.

High officials made no attempt to hide the government's growing weakness in the face of mushrooming Communist armed strength.

There was concern over the failure of national armies to oust a trio of Red generals from the great central China area between the Yangtze and Yellow rivers. Forces of the three—Liu Po-cheng, Chen Yi and Chen Keng—appear stronger today than when they drove southward some weeks ago in a successful attempt to divert government troops from a cleanup of the Shantung Peninsula.

Chinese officials said General Wedemeyer's recommendation for economic and military assistance is "most significant" because his secret report to President Truman is expected to form the basis of United States policy toward China.

Yalta Road's End

By Ernest Lindley

Question Of Objectives

MR. WALTER LIPPMANN, if I understand his thesis correctly, attributes the breakdown at London to defective diplomatic machinery. He holds "that, as it is set up and as it operates," the Council of Foreign Ministers "does not promote but prevents negotiation, that it is an instrument of discord and of division and not of accommodation and agreement."

Lindley

Mr. Lippmann contrasts the meetings of the Council of Foreign Ministers, as a separate body, with the Yalta and Potsdam conferences in which the heads of governments participated. He contrasts them also to the older diplomatic methods—"to the exchange of written proposals, supplemented by conversations in the four capitals between the Ambassadors and the Foreign Offices, and to the use of intermediaries."

This analysis, it seems to me, confuses the surface with the substance. The disagreement between the Soviet Union and the West involves substantial questions. It reveals—indeed, has long revealed—basically conflicting ideas about the future of Europe.

IT IS TRUE, of course, that agreements were negotiated at the Yalta and Potsdam Conferences, in which the heads of governments took part. The troublesome question of the Soviet-Polish border was settled by deciding that the Curzon Line, drawn in 1919, should be the border. It was agreed that Poland should be compensated in the west at Germany's expense. Specific plans were made for the occupation and control of Germany. It was agreed that Germany should be disarmed and denazified but should not be subjected to a punitive peace. The three powers agreed to act jointly in helping the peoples of liberated states to create democratic institutions of their own choice. Provisional governments representive of all democratic groups and free elections were pledged. An even more specific agreement was reached as to the reorganization of the provisional government of Poland.

These agreements involved compromises. But, Mr. Roosevelt reported to Congress, they spelled "the end of the system of unilateral action and exclusive alliances and spheres of influence and balances of power and all the other expedients which have been tried for centuries—and have failed."

Mr. Roosevelt had hardly uttered those words before it began to appear that the Soviet Union did not intend to honor the Yalta agreements on liberated Europe generally and on Poland specifically. Within a short time, the violations of these agreements by the Soviet Union were plain, beyond dispute.

At Potsdam, however, further agreements were reached, especially as to the treatment of Germany. And the drafting of peace treaties with the satellite nations and with Germany was assigned to the Council of Foreign Ministers. This Council, it may be noted, was to sit continuously—deputies were to carry on the work when the Foreign Ministers themselves were not present.

EXCEPTING the first, the sessions of the council attended by the Foreign Ministers in person have been preceded by extensive spadework. The meetings themselves have been held behind closed doors. The Foreign Ministers have also lunched and dined with each other, in pairs, trios and quartets.

Mr. Lippmann seems to feel that the Foreign Ministers were unequal to the task because they were "only ministers, bound by their instructions, uncertain of their tenure, unsure of their authority and representing in practice not their governments but a department of their governments."

Mr. Bevin and General Marshall, and before him Secretary Byrnes, certainly represented more than a department of their governments. Mr. Byrnes and General Marshall not only had the backing of the President but Republican advice and support. Mr. Bidault was as strong as the various governments he represented, perhaps stronger. Mr. Molotov's ability to negotiate may have been restricted by instructions. But he was no more flexible at the long session held in Moscow last spring than at the one just concluded in London. Moreover, at Moscow, each of the visiting Foreign Ministers conferred directly with Stalin.

The Council of Foreign Ministers was able to negotiate treaties for the satellites. This may have been largely because all except one of the satellites were within the physical control of the Russians and the treaties met substantially the Russian terms. Even the Italian treaty made substantial concessions to Russian demands.

To blame the breakdown of the negotiations as to Germany and Austria on defective diplomatic machinery is to ignore the important substance of the disagreements. There is nothing in the record to support in the slightest a belief that different channels of negotiation would have produced an agreement. The record, on the contrary, indicates that no agreement is possible until the Soviet Union has modified its objectives.

Foreign Information Bill Set for Early 1948 Action

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday scheduled for earliest possible action in the next session of Congress the Smith-Mundt bill providing for America's overseas information service.

Action on the measure was held to be urgent if this country is to tell the whole story of the Marshall Plan, and answer the propaganda of the Cominform.

Tentative agreement was reached on a modified version of the measure adopted last year by the House but killed in the Senate.

Among the major changes in the measure was a provision to divide the functions of the United States Information Service into two parts—one dealing solely with information and the other with cultural relationships.

The committee agreed that each division should have its own advisory board, probably of seven members each, drawn from fields concerned with the functions of the division. For example, leading newspaper and radio figures will be asked to serve as advisers in the field of information, and in the cultural field various educators and other experts will be asked to serve.

The revised measure will include a clear statement of policy setting forth exactly what Congress intends the information service to achieve.

Representative Karl Mundt (R., S. Dak.) said he had worked closely with Senator Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) and was pleased with the revisions.

Ten Indicted In Missouri Vote Inquiry

Kansas City, Dc. 18 (AP).—George R. Clark, Jackson County assessor, and Henry McKissick, Democratic leader, were among 10 persons indicted by the second special Federal grand jury called to investigate alleged frauds in the 1946 primary election in Kansas City.

The two surrendered along with eight other persons charged in the indictment with conspiracy to deprive Fifth District citizens of their right to vote.

The indictment brought to 41 the number of persons accused by two Federal grand juries of ghost voting, miscounting ballots, and other fraudulent practices in connection with the election and the subsequent probe.

Bitter Campaign

The 1946 primary ended a bitter campaign for the Democratic nomination from the Fifth Missouri District, comprising most of Kansas City. In that cmapaign, Enos Axtell had the support of President Truman, as well as the Pendergast organization, in his effort to unseat Roger C. Slaughter. Axtell won the nomination, but was defeated by Republican Albert L. Reeves, jr., in the general election.

McKissick, a tavern owner, was indicted by the first special grand jury in a charge of attempting to tamper with that body, but was acquitted by a Federal jury.

Others Indicted

The other eight persons named today were Morris Marks, an employe in the county collector's office; Red Stewart, courthouse electrician; Grover McMillan, an employe of the county assessor's office; Charles Modica, chief deputy in the criminal division of the Circuit Court clerk's office; Dorris Sartin, a bartender; Frank Truax, an extra mail carrier; Benjamin Ryan, and Joe Grinberg.

The jury emphasized its failure to solve the theft of valuable evidence from the vault of the Jackson County courthouse.

Safe crackers blasted the door from the vault and stole ballots, poll books and tally sheets which the Jackson County grand jury had used in indicting 71 persons on State charges of vote fraud.

Telegraphers Charge Coercion To Western Union

Attorney Frank Bloom of the Commercial Telegraphers Union (AFL) said yesterday the union, threatening a Nation-wide strike next Tuesday in Western Union offices, would file charges of unfair labor practices against the company, alleging coercion of workers in connection with the prospective walkout.

Bloom said the charges would be filed in the Baltimore regional office of the National Labor Relations Board today. He said they grew out of information from the field that the company was attempting to learn from employes whether they were going to strike next Tuesday and telling them they would be violating their contract if they did.

The development came as the union, together with the AFL Telegraph Employes Union of Atlanta and Telegraph Workers Union of Dallas, Tex., were preparing to attend a conciliation meeting with company representatives here today. The conference was called by Conciliation Director Cyrus S. Ching.

Navy to Zip Airplanes Into Protective Bag

The Navy is developing a zipper bag into which airplanes can be popped to protect them from rain and weather.

The bags are made of plastic-coated fiber-glass fabric. Total time needed to fit one on, take it off, and prepare the airplane for flight is 30 man hours, a Navy announcement said.

This is only a quarter of the time normally required to prepare a plane for short-term storage and then get it ready to fly.

The Gallup Poll

U.S. Drinking Varies with Age, Sex, Size of Town and Section

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 18.—The number of adults who indulge in the "cup that cheers" depends very much on the number of their years.

The close relationship between a man's age and his drinking habits is brought out in a coast-to-coast survey by the Institute which shows that:

1. More people between the age of 21 and 29 drink alcoholic beverages than in any other age group. Teetotalers are found most frequently among people over 50.

2. The greatest number of abstainers is found among women, nearly half of whom shun the bottle. For the country as a whole, both men and women included, approximately one person in three claims to be an abstainer. The Nation's farm areas show twice as large a proportion of teetotalers as the big cities do.

3. Older people think it is objectional for women to drink in public places. A majority of young people see nothing wrong with women drinking in public.

4. Although nearly two thirds say they drink, only a small proportion of adults—one in seven—say that liquor has ever been a cause of trouble in their homes.

With the season of Christmas gaiety coming up, the Institute polled from coast-to-coast on the following questions concerning drink:

"Do you, yourself, use any alcoholic beverages such as liquor, wine or beer, or are you a total abstainer?"

The vote:

Abstainers	37%
Drinkers	63

Approximately one fourth of those who drink say they stick to wine or beer.

The wide variation in drinking habits by age, size of community and section of the country is shown in the following table. The Middle West and South show the highest proportion of abstainers.

Britain, Canada Food Pact Settled

Ottawa, Dec. 18 (U.P.).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced today that Canada and the United Kingdom have arrived at a settlement of food contract problems by which Canada will receive 100 million dollars in United States dollars during the next three months.

Canada and the United Kingdom, King said, have agreed to continue the five-year wheat agreement on its present basis, and also to extend contracts for livestock products on their present basis, at prices which are being "adjusted accordingly."

Coupled with the food contracts was a provision that Britain would buy from Canada certain raw materials—particularly timber and nonferrous metals—for reconstruction purposes.

Self-Service In Meats Now At D. C. Store

By S. Oliver Goodman

And now comes self-service in meats.

A new system of pre-cut, pre-weighed and pre-wrapped fresh meats has been inaugurated this week at the River Terrace Super Market, 3439 Benning rd. ne. As far as could be ascertained, this is the first Washington store with 100 per cent self-service in meats.

The innovation has been greeted enthusiastically by shoppers, according to Irving Herman, one of the market's three co-owners. Among the advantages, he pointed out, are:

1. No waiting in line. 2. No "pressure" selling. 3. Freedom of choice of cuts at the weight and price wanted. 4. No more playing of favorites by the butcher (in fact the customer never has to see the meat cutter, which pleases the meat cutter, too).

Here's how the new system works in the River Terrace store. About three meat cutters and 12 wrappers are employed behind the scenes. The meats, about 280 varieties, are attractively wrapped in sealed, transparent film. Each package bears a tag giving the weight, price per pound, total price and exact nature of contents.

In addition to variety, a wide range of quantities also is wrapped. According to Herman, the cellophane-wrapped meats keep better in the new open-top refrigerators than formerly.

BANK DIVIDENDS: President M. F. Calnan of Liberty National Bank announced yesterday that directors had voted the regular semiannual dividend of $4 a share, payable January 9 to stock of record January 2. In addition, a retirement plan for all officers and employes was adopted and the regular Christmas bonus of one month's salary was authorized . . . Directors of National Bank of Washington voted the regular semiannual dividend of $3 a share, payable January 2 to stock of record December 22 . . . President John A. Reilly of Second National Bank announced declaration of a quarterly 2 per cent dividend on capital stock, payable December 30 to stock of record December 19. A bonus of a month's salary to all employes has been paid.

NEW DIRECTOR: Alfred H. Lawson yesterday was elected a director of Capital Transit Co. Lawson, 56 and a native of Connecticut is a vice president of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. He graduated from Georgetown University in 1916 and was employed by District Title Insurance Co. until he joined the trust company in 1923. Prominent in fraternal and civic groups, he is also a director of National Insurance Co., Fidelity Storage Co., Tremont Water & Gas Co., Gay Coal & Coke Co. and Washington Sanitary Improvement Co.

PEEPAYS LOANS: District Theatres Corp. has prepaid $300,000 in bank loans, Secretary Eugene Kramer reported yesterday. Also the theater chain, whose main office is in Washington, has acquired a theater in San Antonio, Texas, and a location for another in Akron, Ohio. The company operates a chain of nine theaters here, including the Lincoln, Howard, Republic and Langston. Last year, 13 theaters in the South were acquired.

ODD LOTS: Old Dominion Bank of Arlington has issued 18,000 shares of 4½ per cent cumulative preferred stock and is offering them to stockholders on the basis of one share of preferred for each share of common held. The "rights" will expire December 26. Plans contemplate listing of both issues on the Washington Stock Exchange . . . November building permits dropped 11.1 per cent from October but remained 83 per cent ahead of same 1946 month, Dun & Bradstreet reported . . . Auto production this week will total 114,880 units for another postwar high mark, Automotive News estimated . . . American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced that 97 per cent of its 10-year 2¾ per cent convertible debentures had been subscribed. Of the 345 million dollars in subscriptions, 210 million dollars was received December 15, the final day . . . Emerson Radio & Phonograph Corp. stockholders will vote February 4 on a proposed increase in authorized capital stock from 400,000 shares to a million shares.

MAIL PAY RAISED: The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday increased the amount of mail pay for Pennsylvania-Central Airlines (Capital) retroactive to August 1 by raising the daily mileage on which it can receive mail compensation from 45,000 to 50,000. Since Capital is receiving a temporary rate of 21 cents for every mile flown this will mean an increase of $1050 a day.

ISSUE FILED: Potomac Edison Co. of Hagerstown, Md., registered this week with the Securities and Exchange Commission four million dollars of 3-year first mortgage and collateral trust bonds to be sold competitively. Proceeds from the bond sale as well as one million dollars to be obtained from sale of 250,000 shares of common stock to Potomac's parent, the West Penn Electric Co., will be used to pay a bank loan and to apply to the firm's $14,788,000 three-year construction program. The principal project in the expansion is a new generating station near Front Royal, Va., expected to be ready late in 1949. Estimated cost of the plant is $9,500,000.

Hoover Announces Assistants for Reorganization Study

REORGANIZATION: Former President Herbert C. Hoover last night announced that a dozen "eminent and experienced citizens" have agreed to assist his special commission to study reorganization of the Federal Government. He made these appointments:

Former Treasury Undersecretary Thomas J. Coolidge of Boston, to study overlapping State and Federal functions in the fields of taxes and administration. Serving with him will be:

Senator Byrd (D., Va.), W. L. Chenery, publisher of Collier's; John Burton, budget director of New York State; Professor William Anderson of the University of Minnesota; Governor Carlson of Kansas, Dean William I. Myers of Cornell University, and Former New Jersey Governor Charles Edison. Frank Bane will direct research for this group.

Maj. Gen. Arthur H. Carter, wartime finance officer of the Army, will report on Government competition in business. Russell Forbes will study the Government's procurement policies. He's now with the Munitions Board. Paul Grady, who served in the Navy during the war, will study the activities of RFC and other lending agencies.

Another former Treasury Undersecretary, John Hanes, is to examine and report on the Government's budget and fiscal methods. Robert Moses will study public works. He's chairman of New York's Council of Parks. Col. Franklin D'Olier, chairman of the Prudential Assurance Co., is to report on the Veterans Administration.

The staff of the Brookings Institution has been retained to study health, education, social security, and transportation functions. Mr. Hoover himself will make a study of the Presidency and its relations to the executive branch. Don K. Price, former Budget Bureau official, will assist him.

The Hoover committee won't make its report for another year.

RFC: It plans to lay off another 800 employes before June 30. Its schedule calls for no more than 3000 employes by that date. There were more than double that number of employes in Reconstruction Finance less than 18 months ago.

G-GIRLS: The Christmas spirit has been jarred out of several score Government Girls who live at the Government's big dormitories at Arlington Farms. These girls have been subpenaed to appear in the Arlington County Court next week. The charge—failure to file an income tax return in Virginia. Many of the girls say they pay taxes back in their home States.

NOTES: Shelby Thompson is the new chief of public information at Atomic Energy. He's a former press chief at Federal Power . . . The Commerce Department has banned office Christmas parties "to prevent any abuses" . . . Frederick W. Bowden, a nautical scientist at Navy's hydrographic office here, has been given a cash award of $100. He suggested a way to save 12,652 annually by simpler publication of supplements to sailing directions.

PAY RAISE: Government Printing Office employes yesterday voted by a big majority to accept the flat 12 2-3 per cent increase in their salaries. The pay raise, which will average about $500 a year for the 3000 craft workers, is slated to be made effective today. In addition to the craft workers, about 2500 laborers and helpers will also get the increase.

Public Printer A. E. Giegengack will take the results of the employe referendum to a meeting today of the Joint Congressional Committee on Printing. The committee, which authorized the Public Printer to make the 12 2/3 per cent offer, is sure to order the raise pay to be made effective at once.

PROPOSAL: A new pay raise plan for postal employes was unveiled yesterday by Representative Robert J. Corbett (R., Pa.). It's important, too, because we're sure to be hearing much more about it.

This is the Corbett plan: a 35 per cent increase for employes whose base salary is $1700 or below, and a percentage increase that would drop down to 6 per cent on $10,000 salaries. It would average out at about $600 a year per employe.

Corbett said the many pay bills that call for flat increases ranging from $500 to $1000 had resulted in confusion that "constitutes a serious handicap to the passage of any bill." He said such bills would result in an absurdity such as this—giving a $724-a-year employe the same increase as a $10,000 official.

The Corbett plan has the indorsement of various postal groups such as the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, National Rural Letter Carriers Association and the Custodial and Mechanical Employes Association.

COMMERCE: The foreign aid bill makes $750,000 available to the Commerce Department to enforce any anti-inflation law Congress might pass before March 1. But Commerce would have to raise the money out of available funds. It will not expand its export control or any other division until after Congress authorizes it.

Christmas Mail Nears Climax Of Biggest Season on Record

The biggest Christmas mail business in history is rushing to a climax this week.

All Post Office indexes of December business, both national and local, show that people are sending more packages and letters, and are receiving more, than ever before.

Postmaster Vincent C. Burke of the Washington Post Office said yesterday cash receipts from postage in the first 17 days of December were $1,200,154, or 11 per cent more than last year, which was a big year.

Letter mail originating here was up more than 10 per cent, while incoming letter mail was 4 per cent higher. Outgoing parcel post had increased even more—about 20 per cent over last year—and incoming packages were about 15 per cent increased this year.

26% Higher in Nation

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson announced that the Nation's parcel mailing total for the first 11 days of the month was 26 per cent higher than last year. Altogether, he said, 19,945 60-foot mail cars were loaded, enough to make a train 227 miles long capable of entering Washington while still pulling out of New York.

Postmaster Burke, who expects the peak to strike the District's post offices today and tomorrow, warned that Christmas gift mailers should get their parcels in as soon as they possibly can.

The volume of mail to Europe has been particularly heavy this year, he said. Packages may be mailed even now in time to reach many European countries by Christmas, he said, if sent by international air mail.

9 Million Pounds by Plane

As the deadline looms for sending parcels to distant points in this country by rail or truck, the volume of airborne goods is increasing, according to the Air Transport Association. Airlines estimates that about nine million pounds of mail will be sent by air during the month of December this year. At 5 cents an ounce, a 1-pound package can be flown for 80 cents to any point in the United States or its possessions, as well as Canada and Mexico, the association pointed out.

Postmaster Burke announced that local postoffices will run on weekday schedules tomorrow. Hours are 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. at substations, and 8 a. m. to 1 a. m. at the Benjamin Franklin station, Pennsylvania ave. at 12th st. nw. The main Postoffice at Massachusetts ave. at N. Capitol st. nw., will be open 24 hours a day.

All stations will be closed to regular business on Christmas Day.

Pearce Drunk and Disorderly When Arrested, Trio Testifies

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Two policemen who arrested him, and a hotel official yesterday testified that Maurice C. Pearce, Justice Department attorney, was both drunk and disorderly the night of his arrest.

Pearce, 44, of 2403 Observatory pl. nw., is suing the two policemen and the Hotel Statler for $35,000 damages, alleging false arrest in the wee hours of February 3, 1946. Pearce, at the time was charged with being drunk and disorderly in a seventh floor guest room.

The third day of the civil trial, before Associate Justice Jennings Bailey and a jury in District Court, was taken over by defense witnesses.

Precinct Detective Walter E. Grove, 35, of 1425 33d st. nw., and Pvt. Norman L. Richardson, 28, of Arlington, attached to the Third Precinct, and John F. Reardon, assistant manager of the hotel, maintained and under direct and cross examination that Pearce had been intoxicated, noisy and abusive the night of the incident.

Earlier, six witnesses for the plaintiff had declared from the stand that Pearce had been neither drunk nor disorderly.

The three witnesses stated that after his arrest, Pearce was taken from the hotel to the police car by way of the service elevator and the taxi ramp, where the police car was parked. Pearce earlier testified that he was taken out of the hotel through the main lobby and thereby humiliated.

The policemen and hotel manager insisted on the stand that Pearce, after his arrest, tried to phone the head manager of the Statler chain, but never got further than the hotel operator. Pearce has testified that he was talking to a nephew via the phone when forcibly seized by the police.

The defense witnesses yesterday contended that the room telephone, after being taken from Pearce, was left in normal order. Pearce has stated that the telephone was jerked from him with such force that it was torn from the wall.

Pearce was pictured by the witnesses as staggering, speaking with a thick tongue, cursing the policemen and threatening to have their jobs and resisting arrest.

The Justice Department attorney was declared to have concealed his identity and to have maintained that the hotel room was his "home and castle," and therefore not admissible to "flatfoot" police or even the FBI.

The defense emphasized through testimony of its witnesses that the room was registered in the name of Robert Falkner of Henderson, N. C., and that all throughout the incident the police and hotel management were led to believe that Pearce was Falkner.

Pearce has testified that he registered for the room in Falkner's name with the verbal permission of the hotel clerk. Assistant Manager Reardon asserted yesterday that such proxy registration was permitted only by the signed authorization of an assistant manager.

Trial will be resumed today. It is anticipated that the case will go to the jury late in the afternoon.

U. S., Va. Officers Seize Still at Graves Mill

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 18.—State and Federal alcohol tax unit officers today seized a 75-gallon still in operation near Graves Mill, Madison County.

The still was found in a corner of a stone foundation on the site of a former legal distillery. Also seized were 150 gallons of mash, 4 gallons of whisky and a car containing 500 pounds of sugar.

Officers said they seized the car when it was hauling sugar to the distillerty, and arrested Robert W. O'Dinnell of Leon, accused of operating the still. Ohmer Jackson, Graves Mill, was arrested later when he claimed the equipment.

Both men were released on bond for appearance at the March term of district court in Harrisonburg.

Ailes Heirs Plan Sale of Property

Permission to sell a $300,000 property at 7212 Wisconsin ave., Bethesda, was asked of Montgomery Circuit Court yesterday by five hairs of the late Milton E. Ailes.

Ailes, former assistant secretary of Navy and president of Riggs National Bank, who died in 1925, willed the tract to his mother and two sisters.

The five heirs ar echildren, or grandchildren who will share in proceeds of the estate upon the death of the property's sole occupant Miss Lulu M. Ailes, 70, a sister.

Petitioners were: Mrs. Margaret Ailes Wilmer, 1914 Connecticut ave. nw.; Milton Ailes, jr., 3320 Prospect ave. nw.; Miss Mary Ailes, 2128 Connecticut ave. nw., and Eleanor Ailes and Milton Ailes III, both of New Orleans.

D. C. to Boost Lung Patient Facilities

125 More Beds Likely After Jan. 12 At Glenn Dale And Gallinger

Facilities to cafe for about 125 more tuberculosis patients may be available here soon after the mass X-ray survey begins January 12.

Officials at Gallinger Hospital and Glenn Dale Sanitorium said they hope to open a total of 84 beds which have been closed for lack of nursing personnel.

In addition, Upshur Street Hospital, equipped to handle only ambulatory tuberculosis cases, should be able to admit about 40 of the "suspected" cases uncovered by the X-ray survey, officials said. All three hospitals are operated by the District Health Department.

Nurse Shortage Eases

Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, superintendent of Gallinger Hospital, said the shortage of nurses and attendants has eased enough to anticipate reopening a 51-bed tuberculosis section, which has been closed for more than two years.

Gallinger Hospital now is caring for 177 tuberculosis cases out of its total of 1536 active beds, Dr. Sweeney said.

Dr. Daniel L. Finucane, Glenn Dale superintendent, said it is hoped that a 33-bed section can be reopened there, "providing we can get the employes we need." Glenn Dale has 676 beds, 144 of them not now in use.

Upshur Street Hospital can care for 125 patients. It had only 52 yesterday. Dr. Sweeney explained that the reason this hospital is not in greater use now is that it handles only convalescing patients, and the reduction in the number of patients handled at Glenn Dale and Gallinger therefore cuts down on the number which can be sent to Upshur to convalesce.

More Use for Hospital

Once the X-ray survey stars, however, Upshur Street Hospital will be used as both the starting and finishing point for tuberculosis care, Dr. Sweeney said.

Drs. Sweeney and Finucane, and Dr. George C. Ruhland, District Health Officer, all stressed the point that the proposals for more tuberculosis facilities are "goals," not concrete expectations.

Both Gallinger and Glenn Dale are still short of nurses, although Gallinger now has 225 graduate nurses, the most it has had for some time, Dr. Sweeney said.

Glenn Dale needs about 30 more ward attendants, Dr. Finucane said, and no experience is required for the starting scale of $1690 a year.

In recent weeks, there has been an increasing load of indigent patients referred to Gallinger by private hospitals in the area which declare they cannot handle the present volume of charity cases, Dr. Sweeney declared.

Officers Elected By Farm Group In Page County

Luray, Va., Dec. 18.—Farmers participating in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration soil program in Page County have elected officers for the coming year.

D. D. Kite of Grove Hill was re-elected county chairman, and other officers are E. J. Montgomery, Springfield, vice chairman; W. N. Comer, Luray, regular member; J. C. Kite, Luray, first alternate; H. M. Gander, Luray, second alternate; G. H. Clark, secretary, and Joe Foley, treasurer.

Community committee officers are: Luray, J. C. Kite, James Gander, Jesse Varner, C. N. Spitler, jr., Clifton Long; Marksville, Raymond Keyser, Ray Koontz, Ernest Long, Irvin Foltz, T. R. Shirley; Shenandoah, Paul Shuler, Kermit Kibler, Ray Foltz, Irby Kite, N. K. Koontz; Springfield, R. L. Kauffman; Rileyville, Oscar T. Sours, Gilbert Teates, L. E. Hoak and Raymond Sours.

120,000 Gal. Tank Barred by City, Left on River Bank

Salisbury, Md., Dec. 18 (AP).—Norman S. Holland is having an awful time with the 120,000-gallon fuel oil tank he bought.

The 25-ton tank was brought to Salisbury aboard a barge, but the skipper of the tug which had it in tow made a mistake and took it up the east prong of the Wicomico River instead of the north.

The tug crew managed to get back through the narrow channel and two tight drawbridges all right and Holland was just beginning to worry about whether the tank could pass through a draw on the north prong when Fire Marshal Fred A. Grier advised him installation would violate the city building and fire code.

Holland finally found a place to unload the tank downriver.

"Probably couldn't have gotten enough oil to fill it anyway," he said.

Under the Gun

Antelope, N. Dak. (AP).—Anton Erbstoesser, 27, claims to have been the youngest commissioned postmaster in the United States when he was appointed here. Erbstoesser got his commission November 17, 1941, the day he was 21 years old. A postmaster by law must be at least 21.

Jefferson School Pupils to Seat Officers Elected in Accordance With State System

By Al Muto

Jefferson School in Alexandria today will install eight officers of the Student Cooperative Association who were elected like any other Virginia officials—including payment of poll taxes.

New officers of the school, which includes grades four to seven, are: President, Richard Moore; first vice president, Marita Smith; second vice president, Patsy Allen; third vice president, Shirley King; secretary, Anne Powell; treasurer, Bobbie Watson; reporters, Donald Shifflett and Rita Kilroy.

Students, at their own request, had to pay a 1-cent "poll tax" and register one day in advance of elections to be eligible to vote. They held primary elections in their home rooms and campaigned furiously over the public address system.

From an enrollment of 669, there were 518 students who managed to qualify and vote—a better percentage than their parents can boast.

One purpose of the State-wide SCA, which acts as a student government, is to give training in citizenship. Mrs. Elizabeth Goode, assistant principal who supervised the election, said the students asked to pay the "tax" so they would know how to cope with it when they grow up.

Youth Guilty On Charge of Impersonating

An 18-year-old youth yesterday was convicted of impersonating an officer for the purpose of making indecent advances to a 14-year-old girl.

A District Court jury brought in the verdict with a recommendation for clemency after hearing a bobby-socks-clad teen-ager testify that the defendant, Jack P. Reeves, 2427 S st. se., lured her into a parked car.

The girl said she and a girl friend, also 14, were approached by Reeves in a movie theater last November 5.

She declared Reeves flashed a badge and told the girls he was a detective investigating a rape case and that they must submit to a physical examination.

Fearful of offending a "policeman," the first girl accompanied Reeves to a car parked on a nearby lot, but left him, she said, when he attempted to fondle her.

The girls then complained to a policeman and Reeves was arrested after a chase of about 30 yards.

On the witness stand, Reeves admitted flashing the badge, but asserted both girls knew he was joking.

Hearing Scheduled Jan. 8 on Higher Insurance Rates

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—The Virginia Insurance Rating Bureau has applied to the State Corporation Commission for permission to adjust rates and premium charges on fire, theft, collision and similar insurance on automobiles and the matter has been set for hearing on January 8 at 10 a. m.

The petition goes into technical aspects of writing such insurance, but the chief requests are for increases in the minimum premium applicable to policies governing fire, theft and miscellaneous hazards from $5 to $7 and in minimum premium applicable to collision policies from $6 to $8.

Theaters to Take Food for Tickets

Toys and canned food for the needy in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties will be the price of admission to matinee performance at five Maryland theaters at 4 p. m. today.

The benefit performances, with special features and shorts for children, will be given at the Hyattsville, Kaywood, Cheverly, and Bethesda theaters and the Milo theater in Rockville. The program is sponsored jointly by Sidney Lust theaters, operator of all the movie houses, and radio station WOL.

In Montgomery County the food and toys will be turned over to the Holiday Exchange and in Prince Georges to the Christmas Bureau, both Community Chest activities.

Hagerstown Man Gets 10 Years for Slaying

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 18 (AP).—Walter S. Sprankle, 45, of Hagerstown, pleaded guilty today to a manslaughter charge in the club slaying of a drinking companion and was sentenced to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentiary.

Judge Joseph D. Mish said in imposing sentence that there is no question but that it was a brutal killing. There can be no other sentence than the maximum."

Sprankle, the State said, clubbed 42-year-old Frederick E. Andrews to death on the night of July 13 in a shack where both had been drinking.

After 2 Years

Victim Gets $9500 for Accident

A District Court jury, after 20 minutes' deliberation, yesterday awarded Robert F. Hooker, 37, of 2014 P st. nw., $9500 for injuries he said he suffered when struck by a truck two years ago.

Defendant was the Cooper Equipment Co., of 934 New York ave. nw.

According to Joseph D. Bulman and Sidney M. Goldstein, Hooker's attorneys, Hooker was struck on December 18, 1945, at the entrance to an alley on Pennsylvania ave. between 14th and 15th sts. nw., by a Cooper Equipment Co. truck operated by James Tillman of 1109 6th st .nw.

Tillman testified that he was backing from the alley when his truck hit Hooker. He said he looked before putting his vehicle in motion, but did not see Hooker.

Hooker, a food checker at the Annapolis Hotel, testified he was a paralytic before the accident, but was able to get around. Now, he contended he will have to wear a special brace for the rest of his life on account of injuries he suffered in the accident.

Railroad Engineer, Trucker Cleared In Vehicle Deaths

A railroad engineer and a truck driver were acquitted in Hyattsville Police Court yesterday of manslaughter charges resulting from separate accidents.

Cullen B. Jones, 54, Cheverley, Md., engineer for the Pennsylvania Railroad, was found not guilty of negligence in the death of William H. Thomas, 45, of Bowie, Md., near Bowie on December 6.

Phedora J. Woods, 21, 6025 Sheriff rd., Fairmount Heights, Md., was acquitted on charges of both manslaughter and reckless driving in the traffic death of Thomas J. Woodyard, 48, 309 Maryland ave. ne., November 11.

Thomas, according to testimony, was struck by a train operated by Jones about 1000 yards north of the Laurel crossing on the Pennsylvania line. Woodyard was fatally injured when a taxicab, in which he was riding, collided with a truck driven by Woods on Baltimore blvd. near the intersection of Greenbelt rd.

Bishop Reported In Line for New Md. Traffic Job

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP).—A report is current in political circles here that Governor Lane will create the new job of "Traffic Coordinator" for Maryland's highways and it will go to William H. Bishop, secretary of the Democratic State central committee.

The new job, it was reported, will carry a $6000 annual salary and the coordinator's principal duties will be working with the State Roads Commission, the Motor Vehicles Department, the Board of Public Works and other State agencies on Maryland's new highway overhaul program.

It was said a group of 10 or 15 unpaid members probably would be named to assist and advise Bishop and that budgetary adjustments necessary to provide the money for his salary would be carried out by the board of public works.

Rent Increase Request Cut By Owners

Tenants at Nichols Heights housing development in Southwest Washington withdrew objections to a proposed rent hike yesterday after owners reduced their request by 50 per cent.

The owners, Chamberlin Passagon, Inc., originally had sought to raise rents in most of the 209 units from $80.50 to $87 a month.

But at yesterday's hearing before Examiner William Clarke, their attorney, William E. Carey, reduced the demand to $3.50 more a month for each unit.

Clarke said the tenants' attorney, Scott Crampton, indicated there was no objection to the "compromise" increase.

The housing project is located in the 4200 block of Nichols ave. sw. and the unit and 100 block of Danbury st. sw.

Average 7.11 per cent rent hikes were recommended yesterday for 47 units of an apartment house at 1009 11th st. nw., the Rent Control Administration announced.

Examiner James G. Tyson said his recommendation would boost rents for $37.50-a-month units to $40 and $47.50-a-month apartments to $51.

The increase would raise the annual income of the owner, Karl Brodt, approximately $1698, Tyson said. Brodt had asked for an increase of more than 14 per cent to bring in approximately $3480 a year.

Children Plan Gay Christmas for Md. Hospital

Children and adults of Bethesda, Md., have joined forces to make Christmas gay at Suburban Hospital.

The hospital and the nurses home are being decorated with trees and holly by the Women's Auxiliary, which will also provide favors and decoration for Christmas dinner trays.

Today and Monday children of two Bethesda schools which have made the hospital their "Christmas project" will present gifts of canned foods and toys. Mrs. Hazel G. McNamara, principal of the Westbrook School and a student committee will make one presentation at 10:30 a. m. today.

Officials of Lynbrook School will take their children's contributions to the hospital some time Monday after the school's annual Christmas assembly.

Singing groups from the Bethesda Council of Churches, the Newcomb Club, and the Junior Volunteer Corps will carol for patients, visitors and employes during the evenings preceding Christmas.

In addition, the Women's Auxiliary will make its traditional distribution of gifts to hospital employes during the coming week.

Negro School Strike Plan Running Into Difficulties

Disregard Walkout Call, Browne P-TA Head Urges; Rival Meeting Scheduled

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

A proposal for a city-wide strike of Negro school children in sympathy with the protest now under way at Browne Junior High School hit two snags last night.

James C. Carr, president of the Browne P-TA, issued a statement asking that the strike not be observed.

Mrs. Nellie Greene, spokesman for Browne parents who are keeping their children out of classes, announced a meeting of parents at the same hour a mass meeting was scheduled to plan the sympathy strike.

Edgar G. Brown, chairman of the National Negro Council, called the city-wide strike early in the day and set his meeting at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 12th and R sts. nw.

Good Attendance at Browne

Mrs. Greene said that the parents will meet at the Jones Memorial Church, 44th and Benning rd. ne., also at 3 p. m.

Attendance of Browne pupils was near normal yesterday in the main Browne building, 24th and Benning rd. ne., but the strike continued at the Blow and Webb annexes.

Parents withdrew their children from school December 3, two days after the Board of Education turned the two former white elementary schools into annexes to Browne to relieve overcrowding and take Negro children off part-time schedules.

"Edgar G. Brown is in no way connected with the Brown School P-TA," the Carr statement said.

"It is my hope that the people whom he has called upon to strike Monday will ignore his request.

Would Cooperate With Board

"It is our desire to give the Board of Education every opportunity to make suitable adjustments in the situation at Browne."

Brown said that strike plans include "a mile-long picket line around the White House" and pickets at every Negro school.

Mrs. Greene said that parents will discuss at their meeting action of the Board of Education on Wednesday in referring to a committee their request for use of either Eliot Junior High or Eastern High for relief for overcrowded Browne.

"The aim of our strike is to get adequate facilities for Browne students," Mrs. Greene said.

Firm Outlines Ways to Save On Fuel Oil

Baltimore, Dec. 18.—Users of home heating oil in Greater Washington can help avert a serious shortage of petroleum products this winter with just a little attention to their thermostats.

This was brought out here today at a press conference with officials of the Delaware-Maryland-District of Columbia division of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey—the largest single distributor of petroleum products in that area.

They pointed out there is no real shortage now of either heating oil or gasoline. There is more than enough of the raw crude oil from which they are made at the sprawling Esso refinery here.

Tankers Pose Problem

The only two factors that might cut into supplies of refined products are the shortage of tankers to bring crude oil to the refinery and the possibility of a severe winter.

The resulting "shortage" in terms of those factors is about 15 per cent of demand, said H. G. Burke, a company director who came down from New York to explain the oil picture.

Oil companies themselves can meet about 10 per cent of this apparent shortage by putting more gasoline in the manufactur of heating oil.

"We're less worried about cutting out some nonessential automobile driving next summer than we are about keeping warm this winter," said Burks.

Keep Thermostats Down

The remaining 5 per cent of shortage can be met simply by keeping down the thermostat reading in oil-heated homes, he said.

Recommending a home temperature of about 68 degrees, he estimated that a consumer saves 3 per cent of his oil bill for every degree he lowers his thermostat.

Another fuel-saving trick, he said, is to use humidifiers to maintain a high moisture content in the air.

The officials were noncommital on the possibility of a gasoline or fuel oil price increase for Washington. It was clear, however, that the recent widespread boost of 50 cents a barrel of crude oil would be passed on to the consumer, sooner or later. In the last week, two other East Coast oil companies have boosted prices of petroleum products as much as 1½ cents a gallon, wholesale and retail.

Area News in Brief

Live Baby Delivered After Mother Dies

Two Gallinger Hospital physicians delivered a live infant several minutes after the mother had died in a taxicab, it was disclosed yesterday.

The infant lived 32 hours and then died of pneumonia caused by inhalation of amniotic fluid from the mother, Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, superintendent, said.

The mother, Mrs. Agnes Bright, 29, of 1574 Sims dr. se. suffered toxemia during pregnancy. She suddenly became worse while en route to the hospital with her husband, James, and died several minutes before her arrival.

Mixup Ends Happily

A mixup in names yesterday resulted in a kindly offer by a Silver Spring, Md., housewife to a German war bride she knew nothing about.

Mrs. Woolard

Maurice E. Woolard, 9904 Sutherland rd., Silver Spring, received a cablegram from Bremerhaven, Germany: "Leaving December 9 aboard Hobrook. Arrive December 21. Love, Anna."

Mr. and Mrs. Woolard knew nothing of an "Anna" in Germany and it was obvious the message was intended for someone else. Fearful that friends of "Anna" could not be located before she arrived in New York Sunday, Mrs. Woolard offered to take her in.

Later, however, the correct Maurice Woolard, living in Washington, N. C., instead of Washington, D. C., was located.

Hoax Costs $25

Norman McManus, 23, of 617 Massachusetts ave. ne., yesterday forfeited $25 collateral on a charge of turning in a false report to police.

Police said McManus, night manager of a service station at 5th and C sts. ne., had reported that at 2:10 a. m. yesterday two men held him up and robbed him of $50.

McManus later admitted his story was a hoax, police said, and that he needed money to get to West Virginia to see his wife. Police said the money was found hidden in McManus' coat and shoes.

GOP Forums Planned

Montgomery County Republicans will sponsor a series of forums on current problems beginning early next year, according to an announcement made yesterday.

At their annual election this week, the Montgomery County Republican Club elected Arthur J. Hilland of Bethesda, a former chairman of the State central committee, president. He succeeds Albert E. Conradis.

Other officers are Willard A. King, Chevy Chase, vice president for the western area; J. Douglas Bradshaw, Takoma Park, vice president for the eastern area; William H. Fulks, Laytonsville, vice president for the northern area; R. Duncan Clark, Bethesda, secretary; Wendell L. Schuh, Chevy Chase, treasurer; Willard F. Kruhm, Spencerville, sergeant at arms, and the Rev. Marion Michael, Silver Spring, chaplain.

Elected to a three-year term on executive committee were Judge Millward C. Taft, Takoma Park; Paul M. Coughlan, Silver Spring; George C. Esworthy, Darnstown; Walter C. Clarke, Silver Spring; Matthew Trimble Sawtelle, Kensington, and William C. Birely, Glen Echo Heights.

Condition 'Still Critical'

The condition of 7-year-old Patricia Crouch, found unconscious near her Mitchellville, Md., home early Wednesday, was reported "still critical" at Prince Georges County Hospital last night.

The child, who apparently had been kicked in the head by a horse, was given a "50-50" chance to live after an operation was performed by Dr. John P. Murphy soon after she was brought to the hospital. Her condition has remained unchanged since the operation.

The child was found by a searching party about six hours after she had been reported missing by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Crouch.

Police Name Purdy

Detective Sergt. Wilson J. Purdy has been named president of the Prince Georges County Police Association, to succeed Corpl. Reginald A. Austin. Other officers are Detective Richard A. Pearson, vice president; Policeman Vincent F. Free, secretary, and Sergt. Boyd A. Hamilton, treasurer.

The new officers will be formally inducted by the outgoing president January 21.

Tree for Alexandria

The Alexandria Junior Chamber of Commerce will present the city a 40-foot community Christmas tree today in a 5:30 p. m. ceremony on the Masonic Memorial grounds. City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto will throw the switch turning on the 550 colored lights.

A community carol sing, sponsored by the JCC, will be held around the tree on Christmas Eve from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Assault Trial Begun

Five witnesses were heard yesterday as David Douglas Davenport, 31-year-old caddy who has no fixed address, went on trial in Municipal Court charged with assault.

Complainant is a 15-year-old Charles Town, W. Va., girl who attends school here. She was in Union Station on November 6, to get a train home, when she claims Davenport accosted and assaulted her at a soda fountain.

The trial, before a jury in Judge Armond W. Scott's court, will continue today.

Two Bandits Routed

A scream for help and a responding call of "what's going on there?" routed two bandits early yesterday as they attempted to rob Ernest Morningstar, 40, of 619 Mississippi ave., Silver Spring.

A cab driver, Morningstar had driven two men to Colesville rd. and Forest Glen rd. about 3 a. m. when they seized him from behind and hit him with a blackjack. When he yelled for help, someone nearby yelled "what's going on?" and the two men fled.

After reporting the incident to police, Morningstar collapsed in the Silver Spring police station and was taken to Suburban Hospital. His condition was reported as "good" yesterday.

ABC Ruling Upheld

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board decision to revoke the beer and light wines license of Julius and Leon Sack was upheld yesterday by the Commissioners.

ABC ordered the license revoked December 3 after hearing charges that the Sacks, proprietors of a grocery at 4709 Wisconsin ave. nw., had failed to list a third partner with the board.

The Sacks appealed the case to the Commissioners December 5, temporarily staying the revocation, which was to have been effective December 16. Final revocation will be ordered by ABC as soon as the Commissioners' written decision is delivered to the ABC offices, probably today, officials said.

Blast Ruins Store Windows

A plat-glass window in the Silver Pharmacy, 8248 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, was shattered in an oil-burner explosion yesterday morning. Assistant Manager Leon Rosenberg was in the store at the time, but he was not injured. Damage was estimated at about $200.

Board Members Sworn

Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld and Mrs. Theodore O. Wedel were sworn in yesterday as members of the Board of Public Welfare. Geoffrey Thornett, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, gave the oath of office at the District Building in the presence of the Commissioners and members of the Welfare Board.

Rabbi Gerstenfeld, minister of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, will serve until June 30, 1950, completing the term of William Brayshaw, who resigned June 27.

Mrs. Wedel, president of the Washington Council of Church Women and a member of many other civic and religious organizations, will complete the term of A. Harding Paul, which ends June 30, 1948. Paul resigned May 15.

Makes Guilty Plea

Rather than stand trial on six counts of housebreaking, Hunter Lawson, 19, of 1419 Chapin st. nw., pleaded guilty to eight charges of petty larceny yesterday in Municipal Court.

Lawson was arrested Wednesday morning in the nurses' quarters at Garfield Hospital by a policeman who had been planted there after a series of thefts. Police said most of the jewerly and clothing stolen from the nurses was found at Lawson's home.

Judge Armond W. Scott withheld sentencing pending a report from a probation officer. He held Lawson in $1600 bond—$200 on each petty larceny count.

Tax Blanks in Mail

More than 4000 personal property tax blanks have been sent farmers, businessmen and professional workers in Montgomery County by the county assessment office. They must be returned by February 1, 1948.

Supervisor of Assessments Wilton T. Allen explained that the commissioners repealed the tax on household furniture last January, but the levy on personal property used in businesses is State-wide in application and was not affected by the board's action.

'Y' Elects Members

Ten new members have been elected to the board of managers of the Montgomery County Young Men's Christian Association. They are Paul L. Banfield, Chester McCall and Paul B. Divver, from the West Suburban Section of the county; Mrs. Herman M. Wilson, David E. Betts and Barney T. Welch, jr., North County Section, and Charles N. Graham, Allen H. Gardner, Chester H. Keller and Blair Lee 3d, East Suburban Section.

Bus Hearing Delayed

The Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Bus Line's proposed fare increase has been postponed until January 19.

The original petition to raise the one-way passenger fare between Washington and Coral Hills and Hillside, Md., from 10 to 15 cents, was suspended by the commission November 21, pending a formal hearing before Examiner Henry C. Lawton on Wednesday.

Still Short
Yule Gift Plea Made By Chest

The Community Chest Federation's campaign committee yesterday addressed appeals for Christmas contributions to the thousands of Greater Washington residents who are now wrapping and mailing Yuletide packages and cards.

During the day, the federation received a total of $5596 in contributions through the mails and from volunteer solicitors who are still doing a "mop-up" job and striving toward the $3,900,000 goal.

Pledges and contributions received to date total $3,206,444.56, or 82.21 per cent of the campaign objective.

Still 17 Per Cent Short

"We are still 17.79 per cent short of the minimum needs of the 125 welfare and social agencies supported by the Community Chest Federation," the campaign committee stressed.

"Most Washingtonians are now addressing their Christmas gift packages and their Christmas cards, and getting them into the mail," said the campaign committee appeal. "This seems a good time to express our hope that everyone will also write a Christmas check to the Washington Community Chest Federation.

"That is one package that will mean more to the community in happier lives for the families and individuals being aided by Chest-supported welfare and social agencies. Such Christmas checks should be sent to Federation headquarters at 1101 M st. nw."

Officers Nominated

In Fairfax County, Va., Community Chest President Malcolm E. Smith of Falls Church, Va., has been nominated for reelection. Officials of the Fairfax organization will be elected at an 8 p. m. meeting on January 5 at the Fairfax County Courthouse.

Fairfax Campaign Chairman Keith Merrill is continuing the drive to raise a $43,000 quota, of which 66.2 per cent had been achieved up to this week. He pointed out recently that Fairfax County led the Chest campaign last year by raising 94 per cent of its quota.

Mother in Court Today

Miss Ruth Hottel, 32, former Chevy Chase Club telephone operator accused of strangling her day-old infant at the club on February 6, is scheduled to face manslaughter charges today at 9:30 a. m. in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

5 Arrested In 'Numbers' Roundup Here

Five persons were arrested yesterday and charged with violating local "numbers" laws.

They were booked at Police Headquarters as Andrew O. Brown, 40, 439 M st. nw.; Mrs. Mary Jane Fink, 47, 105 D st. nw.; Ralph Higgs, 36, 3318 Sherman ave. nw.; William T. White, 28, 1835 9th st. nw.; and Mrs. Gladys O. Shepherd, 22, 430 Brookside dr., Kenwood, Md.

Brown, Mrs. Fink, and White were charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips and were held under $1500 bond for court action today. Higgs was charged with possession of numbers slips and will appear in court today under $1500 bond. Mrs. Shepherd is held under $100 bond as a United States witness.

Brown was arrested at 2nd and Parker sts. ne. According to Lieut Roy Blick, of the vice squad, a quantity of alleged lottery slips was found on Brown's person.

After Brown's arrest police went to Mrs. Fink's store at the D street address with a search warrant. There they found, according to Lieutenant Blick, duplicates of some of the slips Brown possessed, and other slips in a cigar box near the furnace in a rear room.

Higgs was arrested at his valet shop at 725 T st. nw., Blick said. A policeman watching the place saw Mrs. Shepherd enter. Police entered and arrested Higgs, Mrs. Shepherd and White.

Crash Kills Lieut. Milnor In Germany

Army Air Force headquarters in Weisbaden, Germany, yesterday identified one of the two officers killed in a plane crash Monday near Nierstein as 1st Lieut. John T. F. Milnor of 3726 Connecticut ave. nw.

Lieutenant Milnor was copilot of a C-45 of which Lieut. William E. Hankins, jr., of Toana, Va., was pilot. Both men were killed.

Milnor, son of J. Pervis Milnor and Mary Falls Milnor, was born in Memphis, Tenn., in July, 1924. He was graduated from the Pentacost Garrison School there and from Kent Academy, Kent, Conn., in 1942. In the same year his parents moved to Washington.

Milnor entered West Point in 1942 on an appointment from Senator Kenneth McKellar, of Tennessee, and was graduated in 1945 in the Air Corps.

Lieutenant Milnor was sent overseas two years ago, and was made first lieutenant in September.

Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Dr. J. Pervis Milnor, jr., of Memphis and Capt. William H. Milnor, AAF, stationed in Guam.

Supreme Court Debates Picketing Of Delicatessen

A court order that stopped picketing of Wagshal's Delicatessen, 4655 Massachusetts ave. nw., two years ago was debated in the Supreme Court yesterday.

Herbert S. Thatcher, counsel for the bakery drivers union, told the justices the order was against the Norris-LaGuardia Act, which says courts must not interfere in labor disputes.

William E. Leahy, counsel for the delicatessen, replied that there was no labor dispute, but only a difference about $12.20 that Wagshal's may—or may not—have owed a bakery which since has gone out of business.

Hearing in Printers' Dispute With Publishers Is Postponed

The NLRB yesterday postponed until Monday the publishers vs. printers case, while Representative Hartley (R., N. J.) said he would name a House subcommittee to look into the dispute.

Hartley, co-author of the Taft-Hartley law, said at Detroit the hearing would get under way "soon," probably would not require more than three days and would likely be centered here.

Another move in the case came from Chicago, where 1500 members of the International Typographical Union are on strike against six daily newspapers, were denied State unemployment compensation. The union promptly announced it would seek to increase its own strike fund in excess of one million dollars a month.

Publications Continue

The six newspapers, without printers since November 24, continued publication by photo-engraving typewritten copy.

Hartley's proposal of a special subcommittee came after a telephone conversation with Senator Ball (R., Minn. about the possibility of a joint investigation into the typographical dispute. He said Ball advised against a joint hearing while the staff of the House-Senate Committee already was busy following progress of an NLRB hearing.

The NLRB hearing was postponed, Arthur Leff, a trial examiner, said, because Allen Sinsheimer, the attorney representing NLRB General Counsel Robert N. Denham in the case, was ill at his home in Cincinnati.

Subpena Power Provided

The House subcommittee would be drawn from the 25 members of the House Labor Committee, Hartley said. It would have the power of subpena, he pointed out, and predicted it would call representatives of the ITU, including President Woodruff Randolph, and publishers of newspapers currently in dispute with the union.

He said the subcommittee would be empowered to recommend new laws, alterations in existing laws, including the Taft-Hartley Act, or action by the Justice Department if any of these seemed indicated.

Hartley had gone to Detroit from Chicago where he had looked in "as an individual" on the strike there.

Butter Again Hits Record

New York, Dec. 18 (AP).—Top grade butter commanded the highest price in history for the second day in a row today on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Wholesale grade AA was quoted at 92½ cents a pound, up ¾ of a cent a pound from yesterday. Grade A went up another 1½ cents to 90½.

Gen. John Wood Named IRO Chief in Austria

Vienna, Dec. 18 (AP).—William H. Tuck, executive secretary of the Preparatory Commission of the International Refugee Organization, today named United States Maj. Gen. John Wood (ret.), as chief of the commission in Austria. He will take over the job January 1, replacing Col. Charles F. Miller, who resigned.

General Wood, who commanded the Fourth Armored Division in World War II, has been serving as Tuck's special representative.

Other Vexing Problems Overshadow NFL Draft

The Washington Post Sports
4B Friday, December 19, 1947

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THAT ALL-AMERICAN statement maker, George Preston Marshall, is now demanding that the National Football League pull out of its annual game with the College All-Stars, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

POVICH

He accuses Sports Editor Arch Ward, sponsor of the game, of violating the contract with the NFL by permitting ineligible college players to perform with the All-Stars and adds that Ward, for love of the All-America Conference, is trying to disrupt the NFL.

The Marshall-Ward feud is of long standing. Ward is an admitted friend of the All-America Conference—Marshall says he's more than that—but Marshall isn't endearing himself to his fellow club owners with his blast against Ward. In fact, they have been quick to react.

Ray C. Bennigsen, president of the Chicago Cardinals, says, "Marshall has no right to speak for the National Football League," and League Commissioner Bert Bell says, "It's the Marshall story."

MARSHALL HIMSELF reacted quickly, though tersely. He issued a statement saying: "Mr. Marshall may run the National Football League, as he implies, but he doesn't run the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc." I would like to insert that with Marshall, the Chicago Tribune is only second choice. At one time he attempted to run The Washington Post's pro football department.

Marshall is tangling with a stand-up guy in Arch Ward, and I don't like his chances. Ward is smart enough to keep his left hand high in all of his dealings and he says he took care to breach no contract when he invited George Ratterman of Notre Dame and Buddy Young of Illinois to play with the collegians last August against the Bears. Marshall complained that they were ineligible because they still had college eligibility remaining, and their classes had not graduated.

"I didn't invite them until I got advice of our counsel," Ward told me over the telephone. "The teams in Marshall's league, including his own, signed players who still had college eligibility. Ask him about Leo Nobile, the guard he got from Penn State. Marshall signed him and then helped vote a new rule against signing players with remaining eligibility."

AN INDICATION of the support that Marshall won't get from his own league, according to Ward, is the fact that League Commissioner Bell was in Chicago trying to renew the NFL's contract on the very day that Marshall was demanding the league cancel it.

It does appear that Marshall is being very free with the league's money, also. Maybe it's because he doesn't anticipate that his Redskins will get another chance at the big "take" from the All-Star game for several years, but the fact is that he is asking the league to forego a lot of dough.

Last year the Chicago Bears were paid $57,000 for their part in the All-Star game and the league treasury was paid $16,000 in addition. George Halas, who does expect to have his Bears back in the game soon, likes the whole idea of that kind of a pay-off, no doubt, and three teams are now shooting at the same kind of a play-off spot next August. It is hardly expected that they will go along with Marshall.

WARD'S ALL-STAR game does, in fact, represent the biggest financial prize the National Football League knows. The owners of the champion club don't get as much out of their title game as they do out of Ward's game, and anyway, Marshall is choosing a bad time to make his squawk.

Unlike the early years of pro football, the NFL isn't the only league in the pro football business. Standing by ready to be asked to replace the NFL in the Chicago game is the All-America Conference. Marshall's demands, even if they were successful, wouldn't wreck Ward's game, and if successful, would project the conference into new affluence.

If Marshall is insisting on purity with respect to eligibility requirements, he might examine his own actions in signing Nobile, and take up with the Bears the fact that they signed their halfback, Don Kindt, who had another year of eligibility at Wisconsin.

Pros Meet Today at Pittsburgh

By Duke Moran

Pittsburgh, Dec. 18 (AP).—Club owners of the National Football League meet here tomorrow for their annual player draft but the confab may air problems more vexing than building for next year.

Items reported to be disturbing the calm of some owners included:

1. A suggestion by George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, that the annual, Chicago Tribune-sponsored game between the league champion and College All-Stars in Chicago be canceled. Marshall charged the "game's sponsor violated the contract."

2. The future of Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau, vice president, general manager and coach of the Green Bay Packers.

3. The prospective sale of the Detroit Lions and its effect on Coach Charles E. (Gus) Dorais.

4. Future policy toward the rival All-America Conference. Alexis Thompson, young and wealthy owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, was indicated he's one owner who favors some sort of rapprochement. The leagues now have no relations.

Bert Bell, National League commissioner, arrived here today ahead of the club owners and blithely disclaimed knowledge of these problems "except what I've read."

He said that officially the meeting was to draft collegiate players for next year "and the clubs are entitled to draft 300 (30 to a team) if they wish." He admitted, however, that there was "nothing to prevent any league member at any meeting from asking a vote on any question—but all resolutions require unanimous consent."

Marshall, has been feudin' with Tribune Sports Editor Arch Ward since the latter formed the All-America Conference. The Redskins' owner asserted in Chicago yesterday that Buddy Young of the University of Illinois and George Ratterman of Notre Dame were ineligible for the 1947 All-Star game because they had not graduated. He charged their use violated the contract and added that Bell was empowered to cancel the contract.

Bell said today the 10-year contract with the Tribune "was drawn in 1942 and since then the war and other considerations have brought about a different interpretation. I have been discussing the contract amicably with the Tribune for a year."

VPI 'Poor Shot' to Bag High-Flying Hoyas Tonight

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Untried Virginia Tech courageously takes on unbeaten Georgetown tonight in a basketball game in the Catholic U. gym at 8:15.

The visitors have played only one game, beating Roanoke Old Dominion AAU State champs, 58-46. Nonetheless, Coach Red Laird insists upon being pessimistic.

"Our shooting has been very poor," says Laird, "and the club just hasn't shown up like a college team should."

He has reason to be less than cheerful at that. The Hoyas have won their first four games over top-flight opposition and appear to be the type of team that will get better as the season progresses.

Georgetown did scare Elmer Ripley, optimistic mentor, against Denver and St. John's of Brooklyn. However, the Hoyas came through against both in overtime sessions.

Andy Kostecka, one of the Nation's leading scorers last season, already is off to a fine start for another spectacular year. Captain Andy has amassed 89 points to date, an excellent average of 22 points per game.

The other leading scorers, far behind Kostecka, are Ray Corney, 37; Ken Brown, 35, and Tommy O'Keefe, 30. Way down the list is sub center Joe Culhane with 15. But Culhane made five of those points in the overtime period against St. John's.

Three certain starters for VPI are Center Bob Dickson, and Guards Bert Wriston and Jack Chambers. Number one aim of the Gobblers will be to stop Kostecka.

George Washington, with an impressive 7-0 record, continues its road tour tonight against a strong South Carolina quintet. Wednesday night, the Colonials chalked up a 75-53 victory over Richmond.

In another game tonight, Virginia plays Georgia at Athens. Georgia, considered inexperienced before the season began, is undefeated in five games. The Bulldogs have averaged 73 points per game in beating Erskine twice, Furman, Mercer and Clemson.

Last Year's High Champs Meet Today

Patterson Park, of Baltimore, and Calvin Coolidge, of Washington, clash today at 3:30 p. m. at Coolidge gym in a game which last year could have been billed for the intercity championship.

The Parkers won the interhigh title in Baltimore and the Coolidge Colts were champions of Washington. Both earned bids to the Duke-Durham, N. C., Southern States tourney, but didn't get to play each other, Coolidge being eliminated in the first round. Patterson Park got as far as the finals, being then beaten for the championship by Granby of Norfolk.

Patterson Park has played two games and won both. Their triumphs were over Washington, teams, Eastern and Anacostia. The Parkers' pacemaker in both contests has been 5-foot, 9-inch Mel Baldwin, who was named the outstanding player in the Duke tourney last year.

Seven other games are on today's slate, with the three night affairs providing the most excitement. At the Priory gymnasium, St. John's, the team that figures to be the strongest among the Catholic schools in the area, makes its debut against little Priory, which has amassed a 6-0 record against some of the smaller schools.

The Johnnies have four regulars back from last year's Metropolitan tournament runner-up team, including Jack George, leading scorer, Tom Fannon, Al Martins and Al Weaver.

Out at Ritchie Coliseum in College Park, the nearby Maryland county schools sponsor their first 1947-48 night doubleheader program. Th doubleheaders were inaugurated last season and averaged turnouts of 4000 per night. Tonight's bill pits Bethesda-Chevy Chase against Mount Rainier and Bladensburg against Montgomery-Blair.

Patterson Park of Baltimore at Calvin Coolidge, 3:30 p. m.
St. John's at Priory, 8 p. m.
Sidwell Friends at Gonzaga, 3:30 p. m.
Mount Vernon at Woodward, 3 p. m.
Sherwood of Sandy Springs, Md., at St. Paul's, 7:30 p. m.
Maury of Norfolk at Fairfax, 4 p. m.
National Training School at Richard Montgomery of Rockville, 3:30 p. m.
Bethesda-Chevy Chase vs. Mount Rainier and Bladensburg vs. Montgomery-Blair in doubleheader at Ritchie Coliseum, College Park, Md., 7:30 p. m.

Wash. St. Wins In Garden, 58-54

New York, Dec. 18 (AP).—George Hamilton's driving layup in the final minute broke up a 54-54 deadlock and paved the way for a 58-54 Washington State victory over Manhattan College in the first game of a basketball doubleheader at Madison Square Garden tonight before a crowd of 18,000.

The victory which snapped the Jasppers' six-game winning streak, was Washington State's eighth straight without a defeat this season.

Terps Defeat VMI, 53-46

Lexington, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Maryland's experienced Old Liners outlasted Virginia Military Institute in a wild Southern Conference game here tonight, 53-46.

The visitors' margin was provided from the free throw line. Maryland made good on 19 of 30 free tosses while the Keydets could net only 12 of 29.

Trailing 22 to 16 at the half, the VMI Keykets rallied after intermission to forge ahead on buckets by Frenchmen Fred Anson, Eddie Lutes and Robert Bell, but the Old Liners, led by John Edwards, Bill Wanish, Bernie Smith and Eddie Crescenze, a five foot six inch substitute guard, moved ahead in a driving finish that clinched the victory.

Lutes, VMI forward, was high with 14 points, followed closely by Anson who had 13.

Belloise, Bell Fight Tonight

New York, Dec. 18 (AP).—Steve Belloise, Bronx middleweight, was favored at 7-5 in heavy betting today to beat Tommy Bell, welterweight contender of Youngstown, Ohio, in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Belloise was favored for three reasons: (1) He is a harder puncher; (2) He will have a weight advantage of about 9 pounds, and (3) Bell has the reputation of being a playboy.

Belloise, who won 10 of his 11 bouts in 1947, will scale about 160 pounds to Bell's 151. "Stunning Steve" lost this year only to Al Hostak, former middleweight champ. Eight of his victories were knockouts.

Bell, who gave Champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson a hard fight for the welterweight title last December, lost two bouts this year—to Middleweights Jake LaMotta and Cecil Hudson.

Mt. Rainier High Loses to Alumni

The Alumni defeated Mount Rainier High, 31 to 21, in a tight defensive game last night at Mount Rainier.

Johnny Miles bagged five field goals for the grads to lead both teams in scoring. Carlton Murphy was high for the losers with five points.

Walcott's Almost as Happy As If He Had Received Title

By Morris Siegel

All that Jersey Joe Walcott needs to become world's heavyweight boxing champion is the title itself.

He's got practically everything that comes with the crown—clothes, money ("its coming in like rain"), three managers, a battery of "yes men" and even a local business agent.

"Guess I couldn't be much happier if they had given me the title I thought I won," said the fellow who gave Champion Joe Louis one of his hardest fights.

Walcott was in Washington last night as guest referee for an amateur boxing tournament. His appearance was part of a "get the money while the getting is good" campaign his managers have arranged for him.

Papa Joe had stock answers to all the stock questions about his celebrated 15-round affair with Louis. Yes, he thought he won the title from Louis, he'd beat him "again" the next time they fight, and it's sure nice to be on top.

But the solidly-built clouter from Camden had to call on two of the managers to answer the question: "What's happened to Joe Louis"

"What's happened to Joe Louis?" The Walcott brain trust muttered: "Whaddye mean, 'what's happened to Joe Louis?' "

"Well," welled Walcott, after a moment's consultation with himself, "Ain't nothin' happened to him. He's still a great champion, I mean fighter."

"All I know is I knocked him down in 1937 in a training camp when it didn't count. And I knocked him down twice in our fight. But he's still a great fighter. He just can't solve my style. I've got his number."

Comanager Felix Bacahicchio, who along with Comanager Joe Webster, started the down-and-out Jersey Joe on his last comeback, said he and the Mike Jacobs associates would probably get together soon and that the current squabble about money differences would be straightened out.

While Bocchicchio, whose printed card says the name is pronounced "Bo-key-key-o," and Harry Garsh, Walcott's local agent, were accepting dressing room congratulations for the uncrowned champion, Walcott was busy changing into his referee's togs.

It was then that one could see that Jersey Joe was the real champ.

He was wearing silk, initialed drawers.

Ray Robinson Defends His Title Tonight

Detroit, Dec. 18 (AP).—Sugar Ray Robinson, ruler of the welterweights, exposes his title to the ambitious punches of Chuck Taylor, the Coalport, Pa., challenger, at Detroit's Olympia Stadium tomorrow in a 15-round match that is booked one day short of an anniversary.

Almost a year ago, December 20, 1946, Sugar Ray took over the welterweight boxing division title by defeating Tommy Bell at Madison Square Garden, N. Y., and since then he has won nine starts in from 1 to 10 rounds.

The local gymnasium crowd, which has installed the champion a 6-1 favorite, figures Robinson will close out successfully at least one year of his reign.

Champ Has Better Record

Taylor, classified as a "hungry" battler, has only lack of awe to commend him in the champion's presence. Hhis record is dwarfed beside the Robinson streak of 84 wins, 1 loss and a draw.

However, Taylor warmed up to the idea of upsetting Sugar Ray by the prodigious propaganda of his manager, Jake Laken.

Laken's generous wordage output, in fact, has contributed masterfully to a dispute over whether Robinson will skim under the 147-pound limit at the weigh-in tomorrow.

This poundage question has enlivened the prefight ballyhoo to the point where some Detroit boxing writers suspected it was trumped up to stimulate box office operations.

When Robinson arrived here, following last Wednesday night's six-round TKO over Philadelphia's Billy Nixon, he appeared at State Boxing Commissioner John J. Hetche's office for a preliminary examination. He refused to have his exact weight registered.

Taylor May Claim Default

By various strategems, all unofficial, he was induced to step fully clothed on a scale which registered 165 pounds. While posing for studio pictures, Robinson shed his garments and their weight was estimated at 6 pounds. This left the champion at 159, a dozen pounds over the divisional limit.

The champ's publicity agent said tonight Robinson still weighs 148½ and "we're really worried about it." He added that for the first time Robinson had to work out strenuously the day before a fight.

Robinson declared he would make the 147 limit "if I have to cut off my arm." Laken immediately declared that if Sugar Ray didn't make it, arm or no arm, Taylor would claim the title by default.

Various experts on training then stepped into print to declare that Robinson might shed his flesh so suddenly that he would be weakened for Taylor's assaults.

Nevertheless, the gym boys are betting even money Taylor won't survive beyond the ninth round.

Western Beats W-L

Western's undefeated Red Raiders posted their third straight victory of the season yesterday as they defeated Washington-Lee's Little Generals of Arlington, 45-34, at W-L.

Slim Wayne Brizendine, who came to Western from Indiana last year, paced the Raiders as he scored 17 points. He received lots of help from Center Clem (Bones) Markham, who in addition to tallying 8 points, turned in a fine floor game.

The Raiders took a 5-4 lead in the first quarter and were ahead from then on. At halftime, they were on top, 16-9, and at the third-quarter mark, 27-16.

Outstanding for Washington-Lee was the play of little Mouse Warden, who scored 9 points. The loss was the second in three games for W-L.

Lions Oppose Barons Tonight

Washington hockey Lions open a busy weekend tonight when they oppose the Cleveland Barons on the Uline ice at 8:30.

Tomorrow night they play a return match with the Barons in Cleveland and on Sunday they meet the Rhode Island Reds at Providence.

Washington dropped its only previous game with the Barons, who are among the Western division leaders with a 12-won, 8-lost and 3-tied record.

Return to the ice of Defenseman Bud Foley, who has been nursing an eye injury will put the locals at full strength for tonight's tilt.

Cards Give Burkett Widow Playoff Share

Chicago, Dec. 18 (AP).—The Chicago Cardinals will split their National Football League championship pool December 28 into 40 full shares, including one to the widow of Halfback Jeff Burkett, who was killed in a plane crash October 24.

Burkett was killed in a flight from the West Coast after the Cardinals-Los Angeles Ram game October 19 which he missed because of an appendectomy.

Over Contract

Ruthstrom Sues 'Skins For $4100

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

RALPH RUTHSTROM, fullback, yesterday filed in District Court a breach of contract suit for $4100 against President George P. Marshall of the Washington Redskins and his operating company, Pro Football, Inc.

Ruthstrom contends the $4100 is due him in unpaid salary. The sum represented 75 per cent of a 1-year contract for $5500 which Ruthstrom signed with the Redskins.

Ruthstrom's suit was based on a phrase in his contract: "The club (Redskins) shall have the right to terminate this contract upon written notice to the player of such termination."

Written notice was not given, Ruthstrom contended. Instead he was told over long distance telephone that he had been indefinitely suspended.

AT THE TIME of Ruthstrom's suspension, October 18, 1947, Redskin headquarters announced the former Southern Methodist back had broken training, failed to appear for practice and flown to Texas without notifying Redskin officials.

Ruthstrom said he had flown to Houston, Tex., to visit his mother, who was ill.

Ruthstrom further claimed his suspension by the local professional club voided his chances of making a living at his "chosen profession."

The Redskins had used him only briefly in their first three games of the 1947 National Football League season.

RUTHSTROM received a suspended fine of $500 before the season started when he left the Redskins briefly after he was reprimanded by Marshall in Chicago for appearing in a hotel lobby without coat or necktie.

According to James J. Laughlin, Ruthstrom's lawyer, the suit is intended as "a test case in which we may finally find out if an athlete can be deprived, without court action, of the right to earn a livelihood at his chosen profession."

Notice of Ruthstrom's suit had not been served on the Redskin office last night. Redskin officials disclaimed any knowledge of Ruthstrom's charges.

Wilson Tops Prep, 53-26

Sparked by the sharp shooting of Jack Whitcomb and Dick Janigian and the stellar floor play of Don Snider, Wilson's Green Tigers defeated Georgetown Prep, 53-26, yesterday at Wilson.

The victory was the first in two games for the Tigers, while the defeat was the second straight for the Little Hoyas.

The Tigers had little trouble with the Georgetowners as they rolled up an 11-5 lead in the first quarter and extended their margin to 22-11 and 34-20 in the succeeding quarters.

Doctor Says Charley Able To Play Again

By Jack Hand

New York, Dec. 18 (AP).—Medical reports from Maryland on the improved physical condition of Outfielder Charley Keller launched the holiday season prematurely today by casting a warm glow of optimism over New York Yankee headquarters.

Gathering for the first of a series of winter press conferences in their gaily decorated Fifth Avenue office, Yankee General Manager George Weiss and Manager Bucky Harris beamed at the friendly news from the scalpel set.

Di Mag Will Be Ready

"Keller definitely wants to play ball," read a report from Dr. Thomas Hoem, who performed the operation on the slugger's spine last summer. "We see no reason why he should not be able to play next summer."

A similar report on the Joe Di Maggio case indicated that the Yankee Clipper, recently named most valuable player in the American League, would report to spring training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1 in the best shape in years. Di Maggio recently underwent an exhaustive physical exam that resulted in an operation for removal of a bone chip from his right elbow.

Word from Spud Chandler, who also was operated on for bone chips since the close of the season, was that the veteran righthanded pitcher is sure he will be in fine condition by spring training time.

As regards Chandler, both Harris and Weiss are adopting a "wait-and see" attitude.

Harris Laughs Off Bosox

There is no undue concern in Yankee headquarters over effect of the series of Boston-St. Louis trades on the 1948 pennant race. When somebody asked Harris if he thought the Red Sox now were out of reach, he replied with a laugh, "I think they have strengthened themselves enough to be a strong contender—with Detroit—for second place."

Weiss revealed that the Yankees were interested in only one player that the Browns offered for sale, Pitcher Jack Kramer.

"We didn't think the Browns had that kind of a deal in mind," Weiss explained, "practically nobody has made a deal for cash alone since the days of the Phillies' financial troubles. We were willing to make an offer, but we heard no more from Bill De Witt (Browns' General Manager) until Kramer was sold to Boston.

Post Carriers To Hear Harris At Yule Party

Bucky Harris, manager of the New York Yankees baseball team, will be the guest speaker at a paper carrier's Christmas party given by The Washington Post at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The party, to be given at the Columbia Theater for carriers from the Metropolitan and suburban areas as well as street sales' boys, will include an act by Bob Freed, local comedian, and a movie starring Gene Autry.

Ten turkeys will be given away as door prizes by Walter Haight, of the sports staff of The Washington Post. Four Santas will distribute presents.

Terps Granted Yule Holiday; Georgia Warns of Reid Boys

Brothers Hail From Yankee Ohio

Athens, Ga., Dec. 18.—T tip to Coach Jim Tatum: If you're expecting headaches when your Maryland Terrapins snap at the Georgia Bulldogs in the Gator Bowl, put a couple of football playing brothers down at the top of your list.

They're Bernie and Floyd (Breezy) Reid, Georgia's sensational family combination. Hailing from Hamilton, Ohio, both of them peppery swift and perhaps even a bit eccentric.

Bernie, 22 years old, is a right guard, considered by many as Georgia's best lineman. He's the fastest man in Coach Wally Butts' forward wall and a great downfield blocker. He's a sophomore, just as the younger relation, Floyd, is.

Floyd, or Breezy, is only 20. With only a year of experience, considered by some to be synthetic, since it was in the "wartime" season of 1944 the wild-eyed youngster came out of the Army, donned cleats, and wrote his name on the offensive fullback spot. Georgia's leading rusher, and rated as the only consistent carrier in the Bulldog backfield, Breezy averaged 4.2 yards per jaunt, carrying 103 times for 441 yards and 36 points.

Another brother, Ernie, is a freshman lineman. All three are burly, black haired and talkative. Their excitability reaches a climax when Southern teammates good naturedly toss taunts at the Ohio River.

Team Reconvenes In Fla., Dec. 26

As a pre-Christmas gift for 44 Maryland football players, Coach Jim Tatum will give his squad a 90-minute, game-condition scrimmage today.

After the session, the Terps will break camp with the players departing for home and the Yule holidays. They rejoin the team in Jacksonville, December 26, where preparations will be continued for the New Year's Day Gator Bowl game against Georgia.

The players will be divided into two squads, one representing Maryland the other Georgia, for today's get-away skirmish.

The Terps have devoted the past three days to bruising defensive drills and also have polished up their pass defense. They'll get plenty of drills on this latter phase as Georgia has one of the best pitchers in the country in Quarterback Johnny Rauch.

Quarterback Vic Turyn, banged up in Maryland's finale with North Carolina State took part in his first rough practice in two weeks yesterday and reported that his back felt fine.

Bill Dickey Quits As Traveler Pilot

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 18 (AP).—Bill Dickey today announced his resignation as manager of the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern Association after a one-season tenure.

Dickey piloted the Travelers during the 1947 season. The club finished eighth.

The former New York Yankee catcher said he had no plans for next season.

Little Fellows Will Have Big Day in Raisin and Sun Bowl Games

Pacific's 'Greatest Star,' Ed Lebaron, Faces Wichita

Wichita Also Boasts High-Scoring Eleven

Wichita, Kans., Dec. 18.—Entering the Raisin Bowl game in Fresno, Calif., New Year's Day against College of the Pacific, the University of Wichita Shocker football team will be the underdog eleven, but this is nothing new to Coach Ralph Rahan's crew. Wichita was in that role most of the 1947 season, but finished second in the Missouri Valley Conference, scoring the second highest total points in the 50-year-history of the grid sport at Wichita.

One of Wichita's three losses to strong opponents this year came in the second game of the season, to Utah State, 21-6, while College of the Pacific walloped the same Utah team, 35-21, in the Grape Bowl last week.

The Shockers must meet the highest scoring team ever to play for the Pacific school. The Tigers scored 312 points in the first nine games to break Amos Alonzo Stagg's 1938 team record by 102 points. Since then the coast team has added 35 to that total in the Utah State affair. Five times this season, Pacific has gone over the 40-point mark in scoring.

The Wichitans are expected to be at full strength with the exception of All-Missouri Valley Fullback Art Hodges, who ripped the Colorado College line for 180 yards in six attempts in the final game of the season, playing with broken bones in both hands.

The 193-pound junior has been working out for the Shockers with his left hand in a cast. If Hodges isn't ready to go by game time, it will be a definite blow to the Shockers' chances.

The Shockers will rely largely on their ground game against Pacific, but Eddie Kriwiel, and All-Missouri Valley Conference backs Linwood Sexton and Hodges will be ready to open up the Tiger defense with their passing attack, which, added to their rushing total this season, boosted the Wichitans into seventh place in the Nation in total offense.

On the other hand, the Shockers will have to place great stress on pass defense to ward off scoring threats of Little All-American Eddie Lebaron, College of The Pacific's 17-year-old star quarterback, who has thrown 14 touchdown passes this season.

No one in this area has ventured an opinion on the outcome of the game, but the Raisin Bowl contest promises to be an interesting game between two of the greatest yardage-gaining teams in the country.

17-Year-Old Coast Boy Sweeps Honors

College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif., Dec. 18.—Larry Siemering's imagination-capturing Bengals from College of The Pacific, California's oldest college, enter the final scene of the 1947 picture January 1 in Fresno when they battle the University of Wichita in the third annual Raisin Bowl classic.

Nineteen forty-seven has been Pacific's greatest football season, brought about by its greatest team and has produced its greatest all-time star. "Excellent Eddie" Lebaron, 17-year-old and a sophomore from little Oakdale, 16 miles south of Stockton, has won just about every honor the football world can bestow.

Associated Press named him to its Little All-America; United Press named him to its all-Pacific Coast team. Along with 10 Pacific Coast conference players, and also to its Little All-Coast; the California Collegiate Athletic Association coaches unanimously placed him on the All-Conference team, and the northern California branch of the Football Writer's Association of America picked him as northern California's outstanding back, over Herman Wedemeyer, Forest Hall, Johnny Graves, Bob Celeri, Joe Scott, George Quist, and Bill Prentice.

Santa Clara players unanimously acclaimed him the best player they faced all season, including Southern Methodist's Doak Walker and St. Mary's Wedemeyer.

Other Pacific players to make All-Star mention were Right Half Bruce Orvis, a 9.9 century runner, picked All-Conference unanimously, plus first-string Little All-Coast; End John Rohde, 6 feet 4 inches, 208, picked All-Conference and Little All-Coast; Guard Bob Franceschini, 5 feet 11 inches, 205, picked All-Conference and Little All-Coast; and Tackle Don "Tiny" Campora, 6 feet 3 inches, 245, picked All-Conference.

In running up 347 points during a 10-game schedule, the Bengals eclipsed A. A. Stagg's 1938 team scoring record by 137 points for a like number of games. The Tigers won nine games, losing a 1-pointer, 21-20, to Santa Clara.

In meeting University of Wichita, coached by Ralph Graham, and starring Linwood Sexton, All-Missouri Valley conference halfback three years running, Pacific may be hampered by the loss of "Bullet Bobby" Heck, leading scorer of the team and Lebaron's favorite pass receiver.

Heck wrenched his knee severely against Utah State Saturday in first annual Grape Bowl, and may be through for the year. Bobby has rambled the century in 9.6 four times, winning the 1945 West Coast relays in that time. He also has tallied nine touchdowns this season, seven on Lebaron passes.

Early in the year Utah State defeated Wichita, 21-6. Saturday the Tigers won over the Utah's, 35-21. However, Larry Siemering, former Washington Redskin and U.S.F. star center, feels Wichita will undoubtedly be Pacific's toughest test of the year.

About the Big Bowl Contest

Editor's Note: Today's stories on the Raisin and Sun Bowls are the third and fourth bowl previews in a series of 16 that will be published by The Washington Post in the Pick-The-Winners football contest on games New Year's Day.

Stories will continue daily on the bowls until all football contest games (16) have been covered.

Persons entering the football contest will find it advisable to read these stories closely in order to evaluate the rival teams. The season record of every bowl team also will be published.

The contest entry blank will be published the first time about December 25.

Two season tickets to all home games of the Washington Redskins next season will be awarded to the contest winner. If there is a tie for first place, all persons sharing in the tie will receive two Redskin season tickets.

DEAR FOLKS:

The condition of Jockey Raymond Arduini of Washington, who fell astride Roman Boy Wednesday, was very gratifying. The veteran rider will leave the hospital probably today and go home. McGovern, who also sustained injuries yesterday, will be hospitalized for several weeks. It will be a tough way to spend Christmas. J. L. Garthright's aged gelding Worthowning just won't give up. The 12-year-old plater registered his eighth victory of the year by annexing the last race Wednesday. The popular old campaigner has earned $6845 this season. W. E. Snyder has been named trainer of the four-horse stable owned by J. E. Crider of Chambersburg, Pa., which is headed for Sunshine Park in Florida. J. Y. Booker shipped Lawless Miss and the rest of his establishment to winter quarters at Abingdon, Va. Mrs. Richard Bishop purchased the 2-year-old Toppy from Mrs. J. Jenkins, jr., and turned the juvenile over to Bill Wright to train. C. P. Chenoweth, who had a very successful year in Maryland and West Virginia this year, will van 10 horses on Sunday to Timonium, Md., the popular half mile oval where they will be rested until the season opens at Bowie on March 31. Jimmy Baird forged into first place as the meeting's leading rider, having driven home 16 winners. The popular reinsman is driving desperately to overtake Ted Atkinson in the battle for third honors. He lags behind by only nine victories. See you on the rail—BILL.

Out Hunting

By Jack Bell

DOB ELLIOT, our Maine correspondent writes: "Checking through several copies of The Kineo Echo for 1898-1899, facts are brought to light by the Maine Development Commission, that tend to discount the 'good old days' of hunting and fishing in comparison with present times.

"With an open season on deer running from October 1 to December 15, 1898, only 10,843 deer were killed by hunters in Maine. Incomplete figurts from checking stations this year show that 30,116 deer were taken in only 17 days of hunting."

Despite far heavier hunting pressure, comparison of the above figures, clearly show what wildlife restoration has accomplished.

More surprising, perhaps, is the fact that so many "sportsmen" still clamor for "the good old days."

ANOTHER STRIKING result of wildlife restoration at the threshold of Washington, is the total all-time record of 880 legal bucks killed in Maryland.

Additional deer are being killed at the Aberdeen and Army Chemical Center at Edgewood. There supervised hunts by the State Game and Inland Fish Department, in an effort to reduce the herd and eliminate misfits due to inbreeding, are now being conducted.

The deer hunting season at Woodmont, exclusive Western Maryland hunting preserve, is now on and closes December 24. The kill there has always figured prominently in Maryland records.

A comparison of the deer kill in the seven Maryland hunting areas is as follows:

Sanders Tops A-AC All-Stars

New York, Dec. 18 (AP).—Orban (Spec) Sanders, the New York Yankees' record-shattering halfback, was the only unanimous first team choice for the All-America Football Conference's second annual all-star team, announced here today.

Sanders polled first-place votes from all of the 52 sports writers and radio men in the eight conference cities who participated in the poll. Cleveland's battery of Otto Graham and Mac Speedie was not far behind, Graham getting 45 and Speedie 48 first-place votes.

Chet Mutryn, Buffalo halfback, nosed out John Stryzkalski of San Francisco to become Sanders' running mate on the first team. Marion Motley, Cleveland fullback, completed the backfield.

Dante Lavelli, the other Cleveland offensive flanker, edged out Alyn Beals of the 49ers to give the Browns both end posts. Lou Rymkus of the Browns and Nate Johnson of the Yankees won the first team tackle berths, while Bruno Banducci of the 49ers and Bill Willis of the Browns were the guard selections, with Bob Nelson of Los Angeles walking away with the center honors.

End, Speedie, Cleveland; end, Lavelli, Cleveland; tackle, Rymkus, Cleveland; tackle, N. Johnson, New York; center, Nelson, Los Angeles; guard, Banducci, San Francisco; guard, Willis, Cleveland; quarterback, Graham, Cleveland; halfback, Sanders, New York; halfback, Mutryn, Buffalo; fullback, Motley, Cleveland.

Undefeated Miami Favored, But Texas Tech Not Worried

Southwestern Team In Tiptop Condition

Lubbock, Tex., Dec. 18.—The Texas Tech Red Raiders, going about training for their Sun Bowl encounter with the Miami Redskins of Ohio, are not concerned by opinions of experts who pick them to lose the January 1 game at El Paso.

The Raiders won the Border Conference championship hands down but lost four games to Southwest Conference opponents during the regular season. Miami won eight and tied one to end up twenty-eighth in the Nation's poll of grid teams.

Reports from Ohio say the Redskins of Miami function along lines the Raiders have met before in 1947. At the same time, a study of Miami victories show weak spots which Tech coaches feel may be the place to build a Tech win. But no one is taking the future lightly.

Tech will not go to El Paso for the bowl encounter until December 31, passing up an opportunity of being highly entertained for the business of winning the game Tech has had three previous bowl encounters and lost them all. This one fans and players want to be different.

The Raiders will go to the bowl in top condition. Men slowed or sidelined against teams in the regular season will be back in form against Miami.

Ohioans Preparing New Tricks Off 'T'

Oxford, Ohio, Dec. 18.—Sun Bowl preparations for Miami University's undefeated, once tied football squad are being carried on as "just an early spring practice."

Sid Gillman, Miami coach, who scoffs at predictions that the T-formation is doomed, has his squad busy developing a lot of new maneuvers for the Sun Bowl game at El Paso against Texas Tech.

The Redskins apparently will be at full strength. Various minor injuries from the Thanksgiving victory over Cincinnati, 38 to 7, have cleared up. Tom Cole, ace placekicker and defensive back, has been running daily, recovered from a knee injury which kept him out of one game and caused him to leave two others.

Work on new plays has continued although cold, sloppy weather has kept the squad indoors much of the time.

These include new twists in the versatility of a well-balanced backfield including Ara Parseghian, all-Ohio halfback the last two years; Paul Shoults, who led the team with six touchdowns and a 8.7-yard average; Sam Vippel, hard-driving fullback, and Mel Olix, deft and daring quarterback, whose passes totaled 1081 yards in 9 games, on 71 completions in 133 tosses.

The banter, which is a factor of any high spirit is aboundant with ribbing about the many honors which have come to squad members since the season ended. Every member of the starting line-up has received some mention, at least on their foes' all-opponent selections.

Paul Dietzel, whome Gillman calls the finest all-round center he's ever coached, has been named to the Little All-American second team.

Bill Hoover, end and captain, made the Associated Press All-Ohio for the third straight year. It included Olix, Dietzel and Parseghian; Miami was the only school winning more than one place.

Favorite Wins by 3 Lengths

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 18. Falsely, a Maryland-bred daughter of War Hero, carried the gold and blue silks of William Lynch of Washington to an impressive triumph, when he turned back seven rivals by three lengths in winning the James Sager purse, the feature attraction here today.

Jockey Frankie Law rode the 6-year-old mare whose victories have been few this season. Falsely showed a pronounced fondness for the tough race course to defeat Mrs. Ruth E. Archer's Flash Anna, a long shot, while the pacesetter, Woofie, was third.

Falsely Pays $2.60

Falsely received the bulk of the mutuel play from the gathering of 5000, her pay-off showing only $2.60, the shortest return of the meeting. The distance was clocked in 1:20 2/5, commendable considering the treacheous condition of the oval.

Law held Falsely together nicely down the backstretch when Woofie elected to make a run-away of the affair. But hitting the bend into the homestretch, Law decided it was time to get serious and gave the 6-year-old her head. That was all the mare needed. She swept past the pacesetter with the utmost ease.

Flash Anna, a trailer in the early stages, circled her field hitting the stretch to close fast and earn the place money from the tiring Woofie.

Petros and Scouris' Our Birthday, who earlier in the meeting ran with a claiming tag of $1250, captured his third triumph of the meeting in the seventh event. Jockey Don Boston had the leg up on the gelding, who is also by the Maryland sire, War Hero, and he defeated William G. Fishback's Lictor by a full length to reward his numerous backers with a $6.60 mutuel.

Weber Completes Double

The combination of Trainer Dan Chamblin and Jockey Wayne Weber completed a double for the afternoon when the pair had a hand in the triumph of Gay Pilate, owned by S. H. Rogers, jr., of Washington and J. M. Rogers' Halogi, which took down the fifth event. Both received considerable support in the betting when the pay-off of Gay Pilate was $5.60 and the return on the "Grey Ghost" was $6.80.

A daily double payoff of $269.80 was hung up when S. F. Todolsky's One Flag, ridden by Frankie Cisneros, won the opening event, paying $69.60, and My Exit, owned by F. R. Greer and ridden by Jockey Jimmy Baird who was bagging his seventeenth winner of the meeting, won the second race. The 10-year-old son of Mowlee, the favorite, paid only $5.

Wolverine Squad Rose Bowl Bound

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 18 (AP).—Michigan's undefeated Wolverines, Western Conference football champions, were Rose Bowl-bound today for the first time since the late Fielding H. Yost took a 15-man squad West to defeat Stanford, 49-0, in the 1902 Tournament of Roses.

Coach Fritz Crisler's 44-player aggregation, a collection of glossy specialists in contrast with Coach Yost's "Iron Men" who played their entire game without reinforcements, departed at 1:40 p. m. (EST).

Stops en route include La Junta, Colo., and Albuquerque, N. Mex., but no workouts are scheduled until the squad gets off at Pasadena, where Crisler plans nine strenuous drills.

The players making the trip are:

Ends: John Anderson, Len Ford of Washington, D. C.; Don Hershberger, Bob Holloway, Bob Mann, Ed McNeil, Dick Rifenburg, Irvin Wisniewski.

Tackles: James Atchison, Bob Ballou, Pete Dendrinos, Capt. Bruce Hilkene, Norman Jackson, George Johnson, Ralph Kohl, Bill Pritula, Dick Strauss, Al Wistert.

Quarterbacks: George Keisel, Peter Elliott, Howard Yerges, Irwin Small.

Fullbacks: Tom Peterson, Jack Weisenburger, Dick Kempthorn.

Williams, Emerson Navy Cocaptains

St. John's President Stresses Need for Liberal Education

By The Associated Press

John S. Kieffer, president of St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., said last night in a broadcast "in a Democracy, liberal education must be given all citizens" not stopping in school or college but carried on into adult life.

Kieffer made the statement on a program in answer to the question, "What is liberal education?"

He declared "by democratic theory, and as heirs to the Hebraic-Christian tradition we Americans are committeed to the doctrines of the eternal nature of the human beings and of each man's responsibility for his neighbor.

"By the hard facts of material existence we are committed to the necessity of work; through skill and craftsmanship we must wring the necessities of physical existence from our material environment. Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, is the formulation our great American Charter gives to these three conditions of our being . . .

He said many proposals and practices of America education "fall short of liberal education."

"The fact that most of us must work for a living does not require that we be given a vocational education instead of a liberal. To do this is undemocratic in making class distinctions, in failing to recognze the liberal element in the productive arts and in denying citizens the educational basis for their functioning as free and thinking citizens. Education that centers in contemporary problems falls short because it uproots men from their past and deprives them of the balance of a universal view . . .

"Thinking does not interfere with your being citizen and a workman, it enhances your value in both capacities, while civic virtue and workman like skill contribute to good thinking and well being."

He termed "the great books" about which St. John's College courses are built "the material of liberal education, because through them we associate with the great thinkers of our civilization, poets, philosophers and scientists who have kept asking us the perennial questions . . .

Virginia Rector Rejects Los Angeles Bishopric

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 18 (AP).—Dr. Robert A. Magill, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, has decided not to accept the bishopric of the Los Angeles diocese.

Dr. Magill made the announcement to members of his vestry, adding that he had notified California officials of his decision.

Dr. Wampler to Quit Health Post in Va.

Luray, Va., Dec. 18.—Dr. Fred J. Wampler, head of the Page-Warren-Shenandoah health department for the past year, has announced that he will retire from active duty on January 31. He was for 12 years a medical missionary in China, and from 1928 to 1944 was in charge of the out patient department of the Medical College of Virginia.

Approval Voted

Md. Negro School Gets 2 Buildings

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP). — Approval of construction of two new buildings at the Princess Anne College was voted today by the State Board of Public Works.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland, said work would start immediately. The Princess Anne College is an adjunct of the university.

Dr. Byrd said he expected the buildings, to cost $347,000, would be completed by next September. One is to be a dormitory. Others will house science classes.

The Legislative Council, at a meeting last night in Salisbury after an inspection visit to the Eastern Shore college, voted to keep Princess Anne at its present site and continue it under the jurisdiction of the University of Maryland.

Abandonment Urged

Abandonment of the land grant college and continuance of its courses at Morgan was recommended by the Marbury Commission report on higher education. The group also urged that St. Mary's Female Seminary and Frostburg State Teachers College be abandoned as inefficient.

Marbury commented today that "if the council, after mature consideration, thinks we are wrong, there is nothing more to be said."

In answer to criticism by college officials that the Marbury Commission spent only a short time visiting the college, Marbury said:

"I do not attach too much importance to the amount of time spent at the institution. The important thing is the statement of facts, and so far nobody has pointed out any misstatements of fact.

"The council members themselves were only a short time at the institution."

Miss Anne Anderson, college librarian, said the students have only 2000 usable books.

Senator Sothoron (D., Prince Georges), voting to retain the college, declared "The time is coming when we must provide reasonable, adequate facilities for Negroes . . . we are quibbling whether we are going to recognize human beings as human beings and grant them the rights of human beings."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Ships Report Pacific Storm Is Abating

Honolulu, Dec. 18 (AP).—A Liberty ship with a cracked hull and a tanker without a rudder reported easing today of the North Pacific storm which damaged them, leading to expressions of hope that both would reach safety.

The 7176-ton Liberty ship Simon Benson, which sailed from San Francisco December 5 for Korea with a crew of 37 men and a cargo of rice, apparently remained in the greater danger.

Capt. Vernon McFadden radioed last night that his ship was "breaking across deck at No. 3 hatch" and that water was swelling the rice.

"Jettisoning rice, but water gains," he reported.

Today, however, he radioed: "Sea going down. Wind going down. Conditions improved. Now seems like a millpond compared to what the weather had been."

Immediate danger apparently had passed for the 10,172-ton Army tanker El Caney, which lost its rudder 370 miles south of Amchitka, Aleutions, and about 500 miles west of the Simon Benson's position.

Capt. Ole Svehaug of Seattle radioed that his crew of 42 were "well" and that the weather was "moderating." The Navy salvage ship Bolster was nearby, with orders to tow the tanker to Pearl Harbor.

Two Smaller Ships Survive

Two much smaller vessels meanwhile survived distress in the Pacific.

The 540-ton Army cargo ship FS-245, which struck a rock in the Aleutians, pulled off and reached shelter in the lee of an inlet to await assistance.

The 425-ton Phillippines ship Luzon was taken in tow by a sister ship, the Panay, after extinguishing a fire which broke out en route from Cebu to Manila.

D. C. Woman Is Hostage of Chinese Reds

A Washington woman, now an UNRRA employe in China, is among a group of eight persons held as "hostages" by Chinese Communists at the Nationalist border near Tientsin, the United Press reported yesterday.

Miss Winifred Hemingway, 30, of 701 Shepherd st. nw., and the seven others must remain at Huitsaiyu until a Communist liaison group returns from Tientsin, a few miles to the north, the dispatch stated.

The "hostages," in addition to Miss Hemingway, are Marcy Dittmanson, Minneapolis, Minn.; Australian Conrad Castor, British Robert Grandon, and three Russians, all of whom are UNRRA employes, and a Society of Friends ambulance driver, Jack Dodds, Toronto, Ontario.

The group was due to leave Sunday but the Communist attitude raised the possibility that the tude raised the possibility that they might refuse to release the eight hostages until all Communist demands are met.

Miss Hemingway's mother, Mrs. Mary Williams Hemingway, of the Shepherd st. address, said yesterday that she had received a letter from her dauhter last week, stating that she had been treated "very well" during her six-month stay in Communist territory.

People's Counsel Appeal Is Upheld

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP).—Judge John T. Tucker ruled today the people's counsel to the Maryland Public Service Commission has a right to appeal the PSC's decisions to the courts.

The ruling came in connection with rate increases the PSC has authorized for Consolidated Gas Light & Power Co. of Baltimore.

Judge Tucker said the people's counsel acts in the place of individual consumers. He declared that appeals to the courts by administrative agencies should be encouraged and that individual consumers of a utility should not be required to stand the expense involved in litigation on rates.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Having Reared Three Children by Her Own Efforts, Widow Finds Love Again With Man Her Age, But He Wants Affair, Not Marriage

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Seventeen years ago, at the age of 27, I was left a widow with three children. By working like a beaver I put them all through school and now the eldest is married and the other two are employed and living with me.

For years I had no time for social life, but more recently I've been able to go out once or twice a week and I love to dance. About a year ago at a neighborhood dance I met a very nice man who has been dating me steadily ever since.

He has been a widower for about two years and has two children near the age of my younger two. His children seem to like me and I am very fond of them. His children and mine get along well, too.

Both families urge marriage and I'm all for it, but he isn't willing. He did propose marriage during one of our earlier dates, but I didn't answer and now he wants an affair out of wedlock. He says we can marry later, after our children are married, and have lots of happy years together.

Widow Candidly Wants Marriage

I DON'T believe in adultery and insist on wedding bells. I realize, of course, that my responsibilities will start all over if I marry again, but I love him very much and if we're sincerely thinking of living together in lasting happiness, I feel we ought to get married first.

He is a grand personality and a gentleman in every way except for this one idea, and we get along swell until an argument starts over it. Then he says, "I just cannot get married now." Why? It isn't a question of money. He has property, a car, money in the bank—and I have some money, too.

For the rest, he is easy going, nice looking, has been a good father and companion to his children and is perfectly congenial with mine. But in regard to this one idea, he gives me to feel that I must accept his terms or lose him. I've told him that I was going to write to you and we both are waiting for your reply. W. L.

Never Argue With a Wolf

DEAR W. L.: The man's chiseling caveman at his marriage offer into a bid for an illicit affair means that he wants you, but as time goes on is emboldened to figure that you can be had without benefit of clergy, inasmuch as you've been wearing your heart on your sleeve for him more recently.

His wolf-campaign should be turned aside with quip and jest and merry laugh, which is to say with humorous indifference, up to a point; and then if he still persists, boorishly tedious on the subject, give him the bum's rush, with the poised admonition that you'd much rather lose him, if that's what he's threatening, than be a party to his sordid plan or even to listen to more talk about it.

His proposition is probably a hark back to ideas picked up in his youth, which doubtless coincided with the Bohemian decade of the 1920s. Maybe his love life has been socially orthodox thus far, and maybe he thinks he's missed something by it and wants to sow a wild oat before marrying again.

Man's Behavior Is Self-Damning

IN ANY EVENT, since there are no blocks to marriage except in his mind, his proposition certainly can't be packaged in the name of love, and his solicitations shouldn't be dignified by defensive anxious argument, which puts you on the level, ignominious and vulnerable, of seriously entertaining his line of thought.

To sum up: He may be a likable fellow in many ways, but he is a shabby character nonetheless, and you'd find you had forfeited self-respecting independence for skulking misery if you were to throw discretion to the winds for such as he. Moreover, if he switches back to honorable tune after reading this, I still think you'd be trading the blessings of freedom for a mess of pottage to marry him. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

Market Memo:

Many Yule Favorites Are Cheaper

CHRISTMAS food cheaper than last year?

It's hard to believe, but it's true for many holiday favorites, says the United States Department of Agriculture. In fact, your Christmas dinner can be made up largely of items that have dropped in price since last Yuletide.

Consider dried fruits . . . ingredients for Christmas cakes, confections and puddings. They're down quite a bit compared with last year. Dried figs, prunes, peaches and raisins are all selling for less.

Then there is fresh fruit. Plenty of oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are coming into Washington now . . . almost all lower priced than a year ago. California navel oranges are about 15 per cent cheaper than last December. Apples, cranberries, winter pears and lemons are all selling for less now, though the price might rise a bit just before Christmas.

A number of canned items are cheaper than last year . . . canned citrus juices, tomato juice, sauerkraut, standard grades of peas and snapbeans, diced beets and diced carrots. Sweet potatoes also are selling at lower prices.

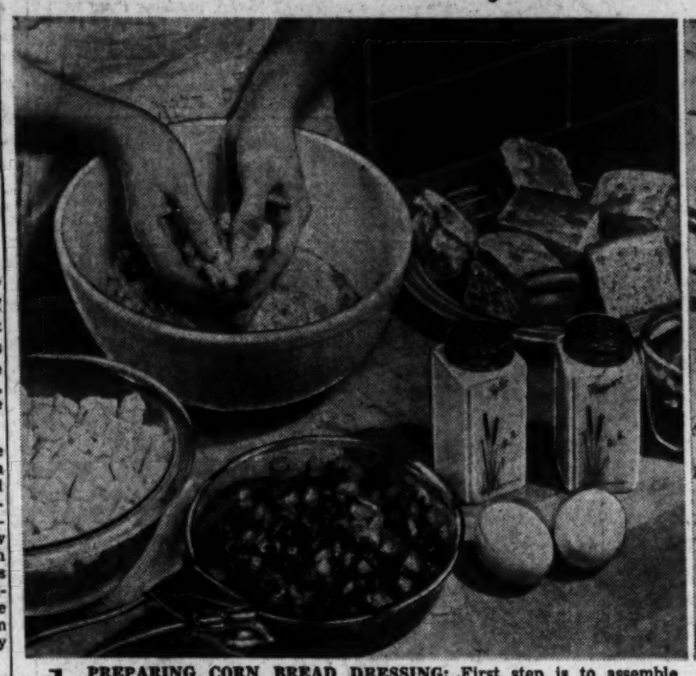
Turkeys are higher than last Christmas, though, and right now the wholesale price is 8 cents to 10 cents a pound higher than at Thanksgiving time. What the retail price will be next week is anybody's guess. In general, though, prices on turkeys haven't risen as much as those on red meat. The really thrifty housewife can always choose a stewing hen for her Christmas dinner bird. Instead of stewing it, she'll steam it whole, then stuff it . . . and finish by browning in the oven and serving it like a roast bird. These 4 or 5 pound hens are selling for a few cents a pound less than last year, though the price of frying and roasting chickens has risen.

LUCIA BROWN

What to Stuff Turkey With Is Noel Matter of the Moment



1. PREPARING CORN BREAD DRESSING: First step is to assemble and prepare the ingredients, including crumbling the previously baked corn bread

2. STUFFING THE TURKEY: After the dressing is prepared, spoon it lightly into the neck region and body cavity of the bird. Don't forget that packing the bird results in too soggy dressing

3. TRUSSING THE TURKEY: After turkey is stuffed, insert skewers. Lace opening in body cavity to hold in dressing. With the loose end of the string, tie legs together and fasten to tail

4. THE FINAL STEP: The stuffed bird is baked in a roomy pan, breast side up. If there's space in the pan, put pones of extra stuffing around the turkey during the last hour of roasting

By Lucia Brown

"WHAT TO stuff the turkey with" may not be the most important question in the world, but it's easy to start an argument on the subject almost anytime around the holiday season.

Everyone seems to have decided opinion about the proper dressing for the Christmas bird.

"It's a sacrilege to use any stuffing but oyster," say members of the traditional school, while other gourmets slant their noses skyward and declare that chestnut is the dressing par excellence. Many think you can't make decent dressing without a little poultry seasoning or sage, and members of the cornbread school claim you've got to toss in a few crumbled pones or muffins to make the stuff fit to eat.

One point they all seem to agree on is that soggy dressing is an abomination on any Christmas dinner table. The dressing may be moist, yes, but not a gooey, gelatinous mass that refuses even to soak up the gravy.

The way you put the stuffing in the turkey has a lot to do with its consistency later. It should never be packed tightly. All dressing swells in baking, and in order for it to remain moist and fluffy, it must be put into the bird with a light touch.

Cornbread does add a delightful fluffy texture to poultry stuffing. It lends itself to a variety of seasonings and to the addition of such delicacies as oysters, chestnuts and giblets. You can always serve cornbread for lunch the day before Christmas, baking enough so that you'll have the "makings" for dressing the next day.

CORNBREAD DRESSING

Enough cornbread dressing for a 12-pound turkey can be made by the following recipe:

5 or 6 cups cornbread, crumbled
1½ quarts (6 cups) soft bread crumbs
½ cup butter or fortified margarine
½ cup fat or drippings
1 cup chopped nutmeats (optional)
1 cup diced celery
½ cup minced onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoons poultry seasoning
2 beaten eggs
1 to 1½ cups water

Cut butter into very small pieces and mix with cornbread and bread crumbs. Brown nutmeats in the fat. Add celery and onion and cook 5 minutes. Add to cornbread mixture. Add green pepper and seasonings, mixing thoroughly. Add well-beaten eggs. Sprinkle water over surface, stirring lightly, until dressing is of desired

Your Questions On Homemaking

Can you tell me an easy way to whiten a Christmas tree so that it will look as though snow has fallen on it? It has been suggested that soap suds with some other ingredient is good, or some form of flour and water. Would just plain white wash do the job? W. E. H.

I'd suggest that you cover the top sides of the tree branches with a thin flour and water paste and then sprinkle mica snow over it to make it look like snow. This "snow" glistens and is sold at dime stores where tree decorations are sold. To make the flour paste, mix 2 cups of flour and 2 cups of water. Sprinkle the "snow" over the paste before it dries.

Could you suggest some Christmas presents to make for a teen-age girl and a middle-aged woman. I have piece of patterned cotton material about 1 square yard wide. E. C. L.

Pretty aprons are welcome Christmas presents for women of all ages if they do any housework at all. A brightly colored square to wear over the head is also an acceptable gift. Be sure the piece is absolutely square, then fringe on all sides. Pot holders, with a case in which to hang them, are a practical gift for the homemaker. If the recipient of the gift travels often, cases for carrying handkerchiefs, stockings, or paper tissues are handy to have. Quilted "scuffs" or bedroom slippers are an attractive gift that can be made at home of cotton materials. For other ideas consult pattern books in a department store.

In planning an egg nog party, can one give it any time during December? How long after Christmas, and at what hours? What else can be served besides fruit cake? Should the bowl be on a tray and where should it be placed on the dining table? Does the host do the serving? L. H.

The most usual time for egg nog parties seems to be in the week between Christmas and New Years. However, they are appropriate almost any time around the holiday season, a week before Christmas at least. They can be given in the late afternoon or evening. In addition to fruit cake, you might serve Christmas cookies, nuts, candies, or small sandwiches. The bowl for the egg nog should be placed at one end of the dining table. At the other end, you might either serve coffee or place a large tray of fruit cake. A Christmas centerpiece could be arranged in the center of the table. It's not necessary to have a tray under the egg nog bowl, but if you have an appropriate one, you could use it very nicely to hold the bowl and the egg nog cups. The host serves the egg nog at many parties of this type.

I would like very much to obtain a recipe for mead just as it is or was, made in Poland. If you do not have such a recipe in your files, will you be kind enough to ask your readers to help me out? I would like to have the recipe

The Easy Way Of Cooking

How do you cook meat? The easiest way is often the best way. To prepare an oven roast, simply rub the meat with salt and pepper, place it on a rack in an uncovered pan without water, and cook it until it is done. Basting, once considered essential, is unnecessary if you place the meat fat side up in the pan so that the melting fat drips down over the surface. And don't forget to use a low temperature—300°-350° F—for most meats.

moistness. Stuff lightly into neck region and body cavity of the bird.

Chestnut Dressing

If it's chestnut dressing you want to make, here are a few suggestions on preparing the nuts: Make two crosscut gashes on the flat side of each chestnut with a sharp-pointed knife. Cover nuts with water in saucepan and bring the water to a boil. Boil the nuts for 5 minutes. Drain them and remove shell and skins.

To stuff a 12-pound turkey, you will need 6 cups of chestnuts. After shelling and skinning, drop them into boiling salted water and cook until soft. Put them through a potato ricer. Combine them with:

1 cup melted butter
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup cream
2 cups dry bread or cracker crumbs
4 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons grated onion

Oyster-Mushroom stuffing

This recipe will make stuffing for an 8-to-10-pound bird:

2 cups grated bread crumbs
¾ cups chopped celery leaves
3 tablespoons diced bacon
1 quart oysters, cut in pieces
¼ pound mushroom caps, halved
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons walnut ketchup

Mix ingredients by tossing together lightly with a fork. Pack loosely in cavities of bird.

Sweet Potato and Sausage Dressing

4 cups mashed sweet potatoes
½ pound (1 cup) sausage meat
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 cups dry bread crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons chopped parsley (optional)

Saute sausage until light brown, breaking it up with a fork. Remove from pan and saute onion and celery for 3 minutes. Then combine all ingredients and mix well.

New Tricks With Favorite Foods

Gingersnaps, iced with sweetened whipped cream and piled on top of each other, make a quickie dessert. The roll made in this way should be frosted on the outside with the whipped cream, then chilled for several hours and sliced diagonally before serving.

White sauce will never be lumpy if, after the butter or margarine is melted and the flour added, the saucepan is removed from the heat and the milk blended in until the mixture is entirely smooth. The sauce should then be returned to low or medium heat and stirred constantly until it thickens and boils.

In Answer to 'Whitehall'

State Department's Wits Would Brighten Jargon With 'Foggy Bottom' Talk

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

EVERYONE knows the British Foreign Office is familiarly referred to as Whitehall. Technically, Whitehall is a 300 to 400-yard-long section between Trafalgar Square and Parliament Street and half a dozen other government buildings stand in its purlieu. But very few realize that the new State Department Building at 21st st. and Virginia ave. is built on reclaimed land in a section called Foggy Bottom! Cables which zing from London to Washington always refer to the British Foreign Office as Whitehall—"Whitehall queries—"Whitehall asks——."

And now there is a move afoot, launched by the younger, more frivolous State Department element, to answer such communications with "Foggy Bottom replies to Whitehall—Foggy Bottom wants to know——."

So far they haven't succeeded, but a little levity leavening official wires would do much to brighten these gloomy State Department days.

Murals Show War Exploits

LIEUT. GEN. AND MRS. LOUIS BRERETON are proud owners of the Capital's most distinguished bar! It is in their new house out in the Cabin John section and was decorated by Milton Marx, a wartime soldier artist who recorded the Ninth Air Force exploits from the Middle East, where it served with the British Eighth Army, to England and France. Marx's murals cover the four walls. One depicts General Brereton's Egyptian campaign, the second his British, the third his French theater commands. On the fourth wall he has painted all the aviation insignia current in the first World War.

General Brereton

General Brereton, one of our top flight aviation generals, served with great eclat in the first World War and in the last holocaust handled campaigns in Egypt, England, France and the China-Burma-India area. Nowadays the general is devoting his skill to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Incidentally, the Brerетons are showing off their bar to friends this afternoon and Milton Marx is easing around the Caribbean, making a pictorial record of that pleasant tropical paradise!

Family Dancing Act

MARGE and Gower Champion, the youngsters who dance teatimes and evenings at the Mayflower, are on their way to top terpsichorean honors. They have been married just over two months. Gower, a student at a Los Angeles junior high, won a dancing contest before he really knew anything about stepping. Prize was a 13-week contract at the Los Angeles Cocoanut Grove, so he decided he'd have to do something about learning the technique of his new trade. He went to Edward Belcher, one of Hollywood's famous teachers, and ended by marrying the maestro's daughter! Those unusual costumes Marge wears, by the way, are designed by her mother-in-law. Their dancing career is completely a family enterprise.

Old Chestnut Served Again

TOP White House aides are tittering over an old chestnut revamped. Hold your hats! Three men cooled their heels outside the pearly gates waiting for St. Peter. The first was a barber. But no one in heaven needed a haircut. The second was an undertaker. Obviously no one could use his services. The third was a psychiatrist. St. Peter clapped him on the shoulder, flung open the gates. "Hurry in!" heaven's guardian urged. "We need you! God thinks he's General MacArthur!"

Diplomatic Changes Expected

Popular Senor Martins Is Slated for New Post

By Marie McNair

WASHINGTON is about to lose the dean of the Diplomatic Corps, Carlos Martins, Ambassador of Brazil, according to a recent dispatch from Rio.

Although the Brazilian Embassy says it hasn't been so informed, Senor Martins is slated for a new post—Buenos Aires, in all probability—and will be succeeded by Cyro de Freitas Valle, who won great popularity here a few years ago.

The Martins will be missed. The Ambassador for his good humor, his understanding of inter-American problems, his qualifications of the perfect diplomat. Vivacious Mme. Martins, as "Maria," has made a real contribution to the art world as a sculptress, has held one-man shows in Washington and in New York, where her latest exhibition is currently being shown at the Julian Levy Gallery.

Senor de Freitas Valle first came to the Capital more than a score of years ago, a dashing young bachelor of the embassy staff. A cousin of Oswaldo Aranha, chairman of U. N. in New York, Cyro de Freitas Valle returned to Washington as Minister-Counselor of the embassy, preceding the arrival by a few months of Senor Aranha, who had been appointed Ambassador.

He was chosen for the extremely difficult post of Ambassador to Germany, was there when the lid blew off in 1939 and stayed until relations were broken between that country and his own.

During his tour of duty in Washington a dozen years ago it was Senor de Freitas Valle's task to buy a permanent home for Brazil's diplomatic representative. After much consideration he finally settled on the McCormick mansion at 3000 Massachusetts ave., where Ambassador Martins now lives.

Since those days the diplomat has been Minister to Bolivia, to Romania and Cuba. Three years ago he was sent as Brazil's first Ambassador to Canada and renewed acquaintanceships when he stopped off here en route to Ottawa from Rio.

BRITAIN'S delegate to U. N., dapper Sir Alexander Cadogan, and Lady Theodosia Cadogan will spend Christmas in Washington, the guests of the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. van Kleffens. They will arrive on Christmas Eve accompanied by Miss Gillian Cadogan and Miss Fischer-Williams, who is a member of the New York bureau of the London Daily Telegraph.

The Dutch Ambassador and Mme. van Kleffens will entertain at dinner in their honor December 24 with the Belgian Ambassador Baron Robert Silvercruys and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ford Stevenson. Mrs. Stevenson is the noted sculptress.

The small fry and up to 16—children of members of the embassy staff will be entertained at a Christmas party the day after Christmas by Mme. van Kleffens. There will be a magician to amaze and amuse the young guests, and a gift for every child.

TOWN TOPICS:

Floyd Akers, Carl Wheat and Norman Littell were in a recent dinner gathering at the Burning Tree Club, of members of that group of men from the Potomac area who attend the annual high jinks of the Bohemian Grove in California.

It was Mr. Littell's suggestion that for the strenthening of reminisences of that three weeks "encampment" period, they should have a red wood tree to grace the dining room table. Forthwith he contacted a California nursery with the request for a baby redwood.

The "baby" arrived. It was 7 feet tall, it came the day AFTER the dinner and express charges were $100.

Miss Nina Lunn, Fiance, Feted At Cocktails

CHRISTMAS evergreens and flowers decorated the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dudley at the Wardman Park Hotel yesterday for the cocktail party they gave in honor of Miss Nina Lunn and her fiance, Nathaniel Luttrell.

More than 70 guests attended the late afternoon event, the first which the Dudleys have given since moving into their spacious apartment. Miss Lunn, who will be married January 8, was accompanied by several members of her family, including her grandmother, Mrs. Wallace H. White, jr., and her mother, Mrs. Nina Lunn, and her brother, Richard Lunn. Mr. and Mrs. A. Lothrop Luttrell, brother and sister-in-law of the prospective bridegroom were also there.

Stopping by after the closing sessions on Capitol Hill were Senator Lister Hill, Senator Leverett Saltonstall, Senator Warren G. Magnuson, Senator George D. Aiken, Senator Theodore Green and Representative and Mrs. Estes Kefauver.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Edward Alexander were there, as were Vice Admiral and Mrs. Harold Bowen, Senorita Hilda Vallarino, Col. James Batt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lippmann, Marvin Coles, Miss Jane Lingo, Senora Argentina de Copello and Senorita Argentina Copello, mother and sister of the hostess.

Also in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. George Abell, Mr. and Mrs. Welles March, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Norton Goodwin, the Misses Dorothy and Elenita Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. George Clarke, jr., Drew Dudley, Col. and Mrs. Joseph Rosenbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Timberlake Gibson, Campbell Smith, Miss Rosalind Rust, Costello Branco, Mrs. Mitchell Palmer, Leslie Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. William Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Keith, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ansberry, Mr. and Mrs. Grayson Headley, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Orme, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Northrop, Miss Mary Jane Cahill, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stanley and others.

Penturn—Rotto

Miss Edith Roslyn Rotto and Norton Penturn were married Monday afternoon in the Mayflower Hotel, Chinese Room, with Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Rotto of Washington and her husband is the son of Mrs. John Penturn of Toronto, Canada.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in ivory satin. Her veil was held by a lace cap that had been her mother's and she carried two white orchids with the family Bible.

Miss Margery Saks, maid of honor, wore lime faille and carried roses and violets. Percy Penturn served his brother as best man and ushers were William Singer and Gerald Singer.

A luncheon reception followed the ceremony. After their honeymoon in Florida and Cuba, Mr. and Mrs. Penturn will reside in Toronto, Canada.

Hallock—Darden

Miss Marie Darden, daughter of Mrs. Elise D. Darden and the late Claud F. Darden of Kenly, N. C., was married Saturday evening to Calvin C. Hallock, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clayton L. Hallock, formerly of Bristol, Vt.

The Rev. A. N. Warner performed the ceremony in Mount Vernon Methodist Church and a reception followed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Virginia D. Martin.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Robert G. Martin, the bride was costumed in a dove gray gabardine suit with black accessories and a rose corsage. Miss Anne Burbridge was her only attendant and Jack Allen served as best man. Mrs. Hallock was graduated from Eastern Carolina Teachers College. Her husband is a graduate of Bliss Electrical School.

On return from their New York honeymoon, the newlyweds will reside in the Capital.

Whitneys Leave

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, who maintain their Washington residence at the Shoreham Hotel, left Wednesday for New York, where they will spend the Christmas holidays with their son, Searle Whitney, aged 3.

Calvary Baptist Church was the scene yesterday of the marriage of Miss W. Arlene Stuckman and Howard Kendall Ammerman. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Stuckman of Quincy, Ill., and Mr. Ammerman is son of Mrs. James P. Ammerman of Cynthiana, Ky.

Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Clarence W. Cranford. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore brocade satin, designed with full skirt and long peplum which formed a train. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was held with clusters of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of roses and orchids.

Miss Angeline Stuckman, maid of honor for her sister, was costumed in green satin and carried a bouquet of yellow mums. Bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Wagy, Miss Virginia Rowley, Miss Vivian Teeple and Miss Gladys Hunt. All wore gowns of harvest wine satin and their flowers were yellow mums.

Serving as best man was James P. Ammerman, jr., Joel H. Ammerman, Charles Corbett, Robert L. Sammon and Donald Chase.

A reception followed at the church and the couple left later by plane for Florida. They will make their home in Evergreen Park, Ill. The bride attended the Columbia School of Art in Washington, and Mr. Ammerman is a graduate of the University of Kentucky. He is now doing graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Mulitz—Salomon

Miss Natalie Hope Salomon, daughter of Mrs. Gustave Bier Salomon of Washington, was married at 12 noon yesterday at Mayflower Hotel to Lewis Mulitz, son of Mrs. Harry Mulitz, also of Washington. The Rev. Norman Gerstenfeld officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Earl Blondheim, the bride was for the Christmas holidays, if possible. J. K.

We have checked with some of the people at the Polish Embassy and with several residents of Polish birth or descent regarding this recipe. Most of them are a little uncertain as to just what you mean by "mead," but think perhaps you're referring to a drink served in Poland in olden times and made with honey. None of them have a recipe for it, however.

The Encyclopedia Brittanica defines mead as a drink made by the fermentation of honey mixed with water and says that such "alcoholic beverages made with honey were common in ancient times and during the Middle Ages throughout Europe." Webster's Dictionary reveals that mead was usually made with 1 part honey and 3 parts boiling water, plus malt, yeast and spices.

Perhaps some other reader has an exact recipe for this drink as it is served in Poland. Or you might obtain one by writing to one of the Polish language newspapers published in Baltimore.

Would you suggest some other ways to fix homemade pop-corn besides putting butter and salt on it? We don't find it very tasty with just that on it. We would like cheese pop-corn, but would you please tell me? P. R.

You could make pop corn balls. Or you could just pour the syrup for making pop corn balls over the corn and let it harden, stirring all the while so that each grain is coated with molasses candy. Here is a recipe for popcorn balls:

1 cup molasses
1 cup corn syrup
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons butter
10 cups popped corn

Combine molasses, corn syrup, vinegar and butter. Boil rapidly to hard ball stage. Place popped corn in large bowl. Pour syrup gradually into the center of the corn. Stir with fork and gather corn, well coated with syrup, into balls. Press between hands to pack hard. Yield 8 to 10 balls.

For cheese popcorn, melt the yellow cheese which is sold in one-half pound packages, in the top of a double boiler and thin with a bit of milk. Pour hot mixture over the popped corn, stirring constantly.

How can I clean a white artificial Christmas tree which is slightly soiled from having used it over a period of about eight Christmas seasons? M. I.

There probably isn't too much you can do to improve the appearance of the tree. Perhaps dusting it with dry cleaning powder, or corn meal moistened with carbon tetrachloride, allowing it to remain on the tree 20 minutes or so, will remove some of the soil.

PETUNIA!

When snow is damp and sticky
Demanding action drastic,

I find a piece of paraffin
And wax enthusiastic

Happy thought, Petunia! Wet snow won't stick to the shovel and you'll cut down your shoveling time if you wax it before you begin.

Bishop-Bracken

If you see any improvement after this treatment, repeat.

Can you give me the recipe for making pokeberry ink? J. H.

I haven't been able to contact anyone who can give exact directions for pokeberry ink, but here is the way I would go about it if I were doing it. Place the berries in a kitchen strainer and place the strainer over a pan. Line the strainer with a cheese cloth and crush the berries by pressing them against the side of strainer. Let stand until all the juice has dripped through. Place the juice in clean bottles. Use immediately before it has a chance to ferment.

Will you tell me how to eradicate Worcestershire sauce stains from a linen table cloth? The cloth was bought in Italy several years before the war, is rather coarse, and a greyish cream color. I want to retain the color. M. S.

Perhaps the stains can be removed by using a bleach, such as sodium perborate. This is one of the safest bleaches to use on all materials, but the treatment must be rapid and the sodium perborate immediately rinsed from the fabric or it will affect the color. Stretch the stained part of the cloth over a bowl of hot water, dampen the stain with the water and dust the powdered perborate on it. Or mix 1 teaspoon sodium perborate and 1 pint of hydrogen peroxide and put onto the stain. Let either preparation stand a minute or two and then rinse well with water. It's always wise when using bleaches to test their effect on an inconspicuous spot to see the effect on the color before applying to the stain.

I have a walnut-veneered radio cabinet which I wish to do over at home in a pickled pine or similar finish which will harmonize with mahogany and period furniture. Can you tell me how to go about finishing the piece, and whether one piece in such a finish will clash with an otherwise period room? L. L. F.

Remove all of the finish from the radio cabinet with varnish remover. Care must betaken when using remover on veneered wood not to allow the remover to penetrate under the surface of the veneer or it will be loosened. Now, apply a coat of flat white paint to the bare wood and wipe it off almost at once; the idea is to fill the pores only with the paint. After a day or two for drying and setting, the surface is sanded smooth and then waxed. The amount of white left in carvings and moldings is a matter of taste.

Interior decorators often use light and dark woods together in the same room now, so this piece shouldn't be inappropriate with mahogany. Period and modern pieces are also used in the same room. Of course, the individual design of the pieces has a lot to do with whether they look well together.

I have a large round plate about 16 inches across which is used for special occasions such as birthdays and which I would like to keep hanging on a wall when not in use. Can you refer me to a local firm which will make the necessary holes in the ridges on back of the plate so that it can be used as a wall decoration as well as for table service? L. L. F.

A firm doing china repairing will be able to prepare your plate for hanging on the wall. For further information call Decatur 6639. Incidentally, there are wire holders available at several local department stores which enable you to hang plates on the wall without having holes made in them.

Designer Finds 'Dress Dream World'

By Peggy Preston

AMERICA is a dress designer's dream world. That's the opinion of a pretty, blonde stylist from Denmark, Miss Ellen Mikkelsen.

"Such a wonderful amount of materials to work with," sighs Miss Mikkelsen, Copenhagen's leading designer, who learned to cherish every available inch of silk and wool during and after the war. Here, in what she calls the land of plenty, she is having a field day, visiting fashion centers, and poking around fabric counters. Buttons, ribbons, hooks and eyes, safety pins—all these articles dear to the heart of a seamstress capture her attention.

Miss Mikkelsen, designer for the Copenhagen firm of Illum, has sewn for members of the royal family, including Princess Margaretha of Denmark and Princess Ingeborg of Sweden.

She came to this country several months ago on a student visa and has visited Minnesota—"Because I heard so much about it at home." Later she went to various midwestern cities including Chicago and Detroit. From Washington she will go to New York where she hopes to see some of the custom made collections.

LIKE MANY another European fashion expert who has visited here recently she is amazed at the length of American skirts. Hemlines on street clothes are not as long in Paris, she says, never going below midcalf length. We have been too enthusiastic in our adoption of the long skirt vogue, she believes, and as a result have sacrificed a certain amount of line and style. "Your dresses became too long too fast."

But, nevertheless, she considers American women as among the best dressed in the world. "And there is no doubt that you have more well dressed women here than we do abroad," she says, "due to your remarkable system of manufacturing good, low-cost clothing. We have nothing like that in Denmark."

MISS ELLEN MIKKELSON
. . . a designer's dream

MISS MIKKELSEN is an old hand at "making clothes do." In her native country it is essential to be clever with odds and ends of material, for a full length of cloth is almost impossible to obtain. One of her tricks for effectively lengthening an old skirt is to stitch braid over that ugly crease that is left from the old hem. Put bands of the braid along both of the side seams of the skirt, and if there is a jacket, give the collar and lapels the same treatment. Pleated ruffles around the hem is another of her favorite means of complying with the new modes with a small outlay of money.

Advice for Teen-Agers

Eat to Grow Up—Not to Grow Fat

By Ida Jean Kain

Like Alice-in-Wonderland who generally gave herself good advice, although she seldom followed it, we have a plump young lady of 11 "going on 12" who has advised herself, rather severely, to reduce. But alas . . . she, too, is finding it far easier to give herself advice than follow it. And like Alice, when our heroine finishes off the cake, she grows bigger and bigger, she ruefully admits. Every year it gets worse.

"In the fourth grade I was supposed to weigh 97 pounds and I weighed 106. In the fifth grade I weighed 110. And then it got up to 131, and now I hate to tell you, but I weigh 142 pounds! I am 63 inches tall. Even my mom, sisters, dad and brothers think I'm too fat.

"I am too fat. I eat between meals when I'm home and eat a lot of candy and pastry. What should I do? Should I take exercise or should I diet?"

Oh dear, what nonsense she is talking—as Alice would say. There is no problem here, it's eating between meals that's to blame. However, she wants to know what to eat and what not to eat, and if she should exercise. And she has asked me to help her, please—underlining the please five times.

All right, it's a bargain, and let's include the rest of the sub-teen plump girls. Three meals a day, planned around the "growing tall" foods and skipping the "growing wide" foods, will work like magic.

Of course your mother won't let you go on some silly diet. But if you are overweight, she will be happy to cooperate. The first step is a visit to the doctor's office. You're not sick, but a check-up is in order, and he will advise how many pounds to lose.

And that brings us to what to eat, and a calorie check too. You know about calories—they are the measure for the energy value of food. The extra ones make chubby chins and barrel waists. Normally you sub-teen girls use 2500 calories a day. To reduce, use a third less, or roughly 1600 calories.

EAT breakfast . . . fruit juice, whole grain cereal or an egg, a slice of toast lightly buttered and a glass of whole milk. Do not eat jelly, doughnuts or extra toast.

Skip the recess calories, but EAT a good lunch. Have whatever your mother has planned for lunch but take only one slice of bread and have fruit for dessert. Those who carry their lunch should have a sandwich, plus cheese or an egg, and two fruits. No cake.

After school, skip the strawberry soda and have instead a glass of milk, an apple or an orangeade without sugar. Eat a good dinner . . . a serving of lean meat, a potato, two vegetables, salad with very little dressing, a glass of milk and fruit. No gravy, muffins, pie or cake.

And please have one teaspoon of cod liver oil every day, or a vitamin A concentrate—the better to grow on.

Marine Officers' Party

The officers of the Fifth Marine Reserve Battalion will hold a stag dinner and cocktail party in the Officers Club at the Naval Gun Factory, M at 8th st. se., tonight starting at 6:30 p. m.

Yacht Club Plans New Year's Party

Members of Corinthian Yacht Club and their friends will ring in the New Year with a dinner and dance at the clubhouse, located on the waterfront at 2d and V sts. sw.

Many of Corinthian's boatmen will entertain aboard their yachts in the afternoon and take their guests to the clubhouse for the annual event.

C. E. Wylie, chairman of the entertainment committee, has received many table reservations and is planning many unusual features to enliven the evening.

The officers of Corinthian Yacht Club for 1948 are: Col. C. C. Jadwin, commodore; Jack D. Miller, vice commodore; Edwin Jacobson, rear commodore; Donald C. Holmes, secretary-treasurer; Francis X. Fragale, secretary, and Ralph H. Tibbs, treasurer.

Admission to the New Year's Eve dinner and dance will be limited to members of Corinthian Yacht Club and their guests.

Puerto Rican League Plans Party Sunday

A holiday cocktail party will replace the last regular meeting of the year of the Puerto Rican-American Women's League, Mrs. John Donaldson, the president, has announced.

Mrs. Antonio Fernos-Isern, wife of the Resident Commissioner of Puerto Rico, will open her home at 1513 Woodley pl. nw., for the event, from 5 to 7 p. m., Sunday, December 21.

As a climax to its annual program of benefit activities, the league has sent a check for $150 to the Asylum for Destitute Children in San Juan, P. R., to buy Christmas presents, Mrs. Donaldson said.

To Lighten Your Tasks—

Use plenty of clothespins when hanging out the clothes. Careful pinning will save much work when ready to iron.

If your last percolator top breaks, join the pieces together with adhesive tape and use until you have a chance to get a new one.

Surprise the bread knife sometime and sharpen it just as you do the carving knife. It will mean thinner and more economical slices of bread.

It is well to dampen the clothes for ironing the night before but you should be certain you will have time the next day for the job. Clothes dampened too long are apt to mildew.

Empty the carpet sweeper on a dampened newspaper to prevent dust from flying.

A piece of rubber tubing over the ends of the sink faucets is a great protection against chipping pieces from glasses and dishes.

If the brass kettle has been put away for any length of time, wash it out thoroughly with a solution of salt and vinegar before using.

Table linens should be ironed on the wrong side first and then on the right side. It is the only way a satiny finish can be obtained at home.

The brushes used for painting and varnishing should be of good quality or the novice will have shedding hairs to contend with besides the actual work.

Memo to the Housekeeper

When supervising the lighting in the new house be certain that all electric switches are close to the entrance of the room. So often this detail is overlooked and poorly planned and a person entering the room is compelled to grope along to find the switch, endangering the furniture as well as himself.

When painting the chimney to improve its appearance, why not give it a colorful appearance by painting some of the bricks different colors? Do not make it stilted by painting them in a regular manner. But just random brick may be a dull blue, another row and then a few brown ones. It gives a neat, attractive appearance.

X-Ray Fight Planned on Tuberculosis

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Campaign plans are well under way here to make 1948 the year tuberculosis was ferreted out and vanquished in Washington, D. C.

Beginning on Monday, January 12, X-ray machines strategically placed within the District will photographically probe the inner recesses of human chests of upward to 700,000 local residents over 15 years of age. Purpose is to uncover the once-dread white plague in any of its stages.

Tuberculosis, to be wiped out, needs first be discovered. And the quicker that discovery, the easier it will be for medical supervision to subdue its consumption of human lives, authorities agree.

X-ray Method Chosen

The Washington chest X-ray survey is the method chosen, a joint endeavor of the District of Columbia Health Department, the United States Public Health Service Tuberculosis Control Division and the District Tuberculosis Association. Directing agency is the Health Department.

Citizens are asked to do their small but all-important part: Appear for the X-ray service.

Already, planners are mapping the District to provide X-raying centers most convenient to all applicants. Four mobile units will criss-cross the area, following station stops publicized well in advance to give everyone the opportunity to be X-rayed.

The survey is expected to reveal for the first time in the District of Columbia the problem of tuberculosis in its entirety. Its goal is first to discover all undisclosed cases and place them under medical supervision and second to provide facts for an all-out fight against the disease.

Largest Project in U. S.

The project, described as the largest of its type ever to be undertaken in the United States, will cost local and Federal agencies participating some $216,000, but will be free to the residents.

Its first stage, now under way, is educating the populace to the importance of the survey, the need for total participation, and the case and safety of the chest examinations. That job has been turned over to the District Tuberculosis Association whose Christmas Seals support its operation.

This includes educating many people of the advances made in X-raying, says Edward K. Funkhouser, executive secretary of the association. The X-rays will be taken through clothing, necessitating only the removal of heavy outer garments and metal objects contained in breast pockets.

Takes Only a Moment

All the "patient" need to do is step up to the machine, stand still a moment, and the condition of his chest is recorded on film for later study and expert diagnosis. Records, except as statistics become a confidential matter to be handled later on a physician-patient basis.

Dr. A. Barklie Coulter, director of the bureau of tuberculosis, District of Columbia Health Department, has estimated that perhaps 6000 cases of chest tuberculosis may be uncovered by the mass survey. Of this number, approximately 1800 can be expected to be beyond the disease's early stages. These, he said, will generally be known by the persons X-rayed. The other 4200 cases uncovered are expected to be in minimal stage and most likely unsuspected by the patient.

Perhaps a majority of these minimal cases, Dr. Coulter declared, have been treated by private physicians at one time or another and the patient's case discharged as "apparently inactive." A systematic follow-up of such cases is needed to determine "whether or not we have been too optimistic regarding arrested cases of tuberculosis," Dr. Coulter said.

Many of the cases uncovered in the mass survey may respond to home treatment, declared Dr. Coulter. The major need, he said, is to ferret out and act on cases which may in the course of a year spread infection among dozens of others.

Dr. F. J. Weber, chief of the control division, United States Health Service, has been appointed to serve on the survey operating committee, along with Funkhouser and Dr. Coulter. General chairman of the survey is William E. Leahy, attorney and former director of Selective Service in the District.

HOME TOWNERS MEET. Dances of the recently organized Interstate Society seem to be clicking nicely, have drawn an average attendance of 500 Government workers and students to the Washington Hotel's Hall of Nations Ballroom . . . Tonight's "Pennsylvania Night" and all Pennsys registered at previous dances will be admitted free . . . A special student rate of 73 cents, plus tax, also goes into effect tonight. But to rate this bargain, students must present athletic or student activities cards . . . Vernon Brown's 14-man band gives out the dance rhythm and Joe Dosh (attention, girls!) will do his WINX broadcast from the ballroom.

Ray Heatherton
At the Metronome Room

Four D's head the new Lotus revue. Meaning Delyse and Dana in varnished dances and Dietrich and Diane manipulating neon-lighted marionettes. The Winnie Hoveler Girls prance in fresh numbers and costumery.

THE HAPPY SACRIFICE. Bob Knight of the Lounge Riviera usually dashes to debbie parties like Assault in top form. But he gave up a snazzy deb party today in favor of appearing at the Kaywood Theater's Christmas party for children. Anyone who wants to locate the "Man Behind the Band" today will find him out in Mount Rainier giving away 1000 lollipops to small fry—and loving it.

MORE NEW LOOKS. Marge Champion, dancing at the Mayflower Lounge, wears exquisite ballerina-length evening gowns, as full as hoop skirts . . . Olivia Davis, owner of Merry-Land, is soignee in mink-colored satin with skirt clear down to her ankles and a spray of bronze beads on the bodice . . . Lola Lolik of the Balalaika has an electrifying pair of hand-painted boots. Exotic, yes . . . Mrs. Sarah Israelson, owner of the Brown Derby, wears a silvery green number with a fascinating quilted pattern on the bodice, likes to set it off with an orchid . . . Mrs. Harry Shapiro, hat shop owner, was in Olmstead's wearing a tremendous beret that hung below her shoulder blades.

Judging by publicity handouts the great Ethel Waters now at Club Bengasi, is now spelling her name "Ethyl." As if everyone didn't know she's strictly hightest.

HEADLINE BALLADS. Newspapers are daily song inspirations to Don Mackin, the Rainbow Room's new raconteur. Every headline means a new verse for his topical songs. The one he did on Gen. Benny Meyers' love life was such a smash that he's still singing it.

HOUSING—IT'S NOT WONDERFUL. Piano whiz Joe Masters, whose ticklish dance music at the Fiesta rates any approved list, is also an unselfish papa. When a baby daughter recently arrived at the Masters' three-room apartment, Joe did the generous thing by her. He moved out his grand piano to make way for the bassinet and play pen . . . Lack of an apartment is slowing up the romance of Tony Gaudio, ace drum man with Bob Simpson's band at the Old New Orleans. Tony would like to get married this very minute but you can't set up housekeeping in the park.

Carl Brisson, now at the Statler, is so typically the Great Dane (no remarks, please) that the Nordic Civic League of San Francisco chose him to pose for a 53-foot statue of Leif Ericson.

YOUR FAVORITE PEOPLE. Jack Schafer, the irrepressible and unpredictable "Jiver" of Casino Royal, always looks as though fresh from $5 worth of barbershop attentions . . . Dona Mason of the King Cole Room recently sang over WOL with a 65-piece Army orchestra . . . Georgia and Jerry, it's agreed, the most popular folks who've ever appeared in the Anchor Room. Besides being smart performers, they honestly enjoy doing every number the customers suggest.

INDOOR SCENERY. The white silhouette of a silver fox looks approvingly over doings at the Silver Fox. With its three floor levels, dusty rose walls and flower prints in lighted shadow boxes, this is one of the most alluring spots you'll ever see . . . The cocktail lounge of the Good Earth is a miniature Shangri-La. The tiny bar, the oriental embroideries, the red leather seats so kind to the human anatomy, the thriving plants, the smile of Manager Jimmy Lee—it's all perfect . . . A portrait of Michel, very dashing and true to life, hangs over the bandstand at Michel's, is the keynote of the place . . . Numbers of tarpon and other big fish that didn't get away decorate the walls of the Neptune room. Huge murals of tropical fish are back of the bar and in the entrance lobby. And the waitresses are always carrying around handsome seafood platters . . . Rare Chinese dolls are always on display at Ruby Foo's where the exotic scarlet and white murals are the most spectacular in town . . . A big log fire in an oldtime stone fireplace greets you at the entrance to River Bend. Standing beside the fireplace is an ancient apple butter kettle big enough for a cannibal dinner.

Music Employed as Anasthetic In 15 Baltimore Operations

Baltimore, Dec. 18 (AP).—Patients undergoing operations at the South Baltimore General Hospital are being anesthetized by the use of soft music, Dr. Sylvan M. Shane, attending anesthesiologist, reported.

Dr. Shane said that within the last week the method has been used in 15 operations, varying from appendectomies to tooth extractions. He said he studied the process at a recent anesthesiological seminar in New York, and then tested its effectiveness on himself by having an associate stick him with pins.

The patient first breathes a mixture of equal parts of nitrous oxide (laughing gas) and oxygen, Dr. Shane explained. This creates a sensation of numbness, but the patient is still conscious, and can converse rationally. He doesn't go out until attendants fasten earphones on his head and turn on a soothing record.

The dreamy melody continues while the surgeon works. The patient awakes within 30 seconds after the music is turned off.

Dr. Shane is currently using "Poem," by Chausson, and says it is 100 per cent effective in inducing a deep sleep. Earlier he used "Clair de Lune" with fairly satisfactory results.

Stirring marches don't work and neither do spirituals and other forms of religious music. And boogie-woogie is out.

Police Limit Speed Of 'Unsafe' Ambulance

Columbus, Ohio, (AP).—Police Chief Lester W. Merica issued orders tonight that the department's ambulance is not to be driven faster than 25 miles an hour under any circumstances

"It's not in a safe condition to make a fast run," the chief said.

The ambulance has been in the garage for repairs several times recently.

3 Envoys Nominations Confirmed by Senate

The Senate approved last night the nominations of three new envoys:

Hubert S. Bursley, Ambassador to Honduras; Avra M. Warren, Minister to Finland; Robert M. Scotten of Michigan, Minister to New Zealand.

Reds Find More Uranium

Berlin, Dec. 18 (AP).—The American-licensed newspaper Der Abend said today the Russians had made a rich new discovery of uranium in Saxony, where they have been operating several mines for many months with thousands of German workers.

Private Op Tone Is a Lady Killer

By Richard L. Coe

"I LOVE TROUBLE," at the Warner, is one of those mystery films with hordes of characters and complications which seem to fill the bill for people who enjoy detective stories.

Apart from the fact that if there's one sure way to put Coe to sleep it is to prop him up with a mystery novel, we strongly suspect that this isn't much good of its kind. There's a good deal of running around in snappy cars, furtive lurking about in shady places and what seems to pass for a breezy manner on the part of a private detective.

The thing we invariably object to about these stories of the exciting lives of private detectives is the people involved. They're always a dull, unpleasant lot and we wouldn't have 'em on toast. Granted it would only lead to anarchy to let crews like this run around without police supervision, but then, to be sure, private detectives never do call in the police. They're always snarled up in a murder rap before the coppers arrive to untangle the mess.

This time we find Franchot Tone uncovering the past life of a client's wife. This leads to those glittering, sordid night clubs the movies love so dearly, a poor aging vaudevillian who knows too much, several mysterious characters with foreign accents (which any respectable private dick ought to be able to spot at 90 paces), a luxurious house, bumps on the head and all the usual flubdub.

Tone's further accomplishments also include an ability to attract female emotional response, a gift that surely must be described as Tone's own secret. Janet Blair, Janis Carter and Adele Jergens appear to be flattered by his attentions. However, it is good to see Glenda Farrell back on the screen as his blondined secretary.

There probably is a good deal more to be said about "I Love Trouble," but for the life of us we can't think what it would be. To recount the plot is far beyond our already exhausted powers and to remark on the ease with which movie detectives solve the parking problem (there's always space in just the right spot) would be cavalier treatment of a remarkably handy device. (Think of all the backing and filling one would have to watch Private Eye Tone doing in car-cluttered Washington.)

To detective novel fans, the story will be familiar as Roy Huggins' book, "The Double Take."

"I LOVE TROUBLE." Columbia release produced by S. Sylvan Simon. Screen play by Roy Huggins from his novel, "The Double Take." Directed by Simon. Music by George Duning. At the Warner.

A SHEPHERD COLLIE is being given away by the Columbia in honor of its Christmas film, "Thunder in the Valley," which is a Technicolored version of "Bob, Son of Battle." (Several years ago there was a British version titled "To the Victor," but let's not get too confused.) The dog, from Schmid's Emporium of Pets, 941 I st., will be given for the most original letter of 25 words or less telling why the writer would like to own the dog. Entries should be addressed to Contest Editor, Loew's Columbia Theater, and be postmarked no later than midnight, December 27. The 10 next best entries will rate a pair of guest tickets to the film.

THOSE SATURDAY MORNING showings of the Children's Film Library at the Warner neighborhood house are being postponed until after the holidays, but several youngsters' shows are planned for this weekend. The Apex on Saturday morning will be Laurel and Hardy in "Bullfighters" and the Naylor, at the same time, will be unreeling Roy Rogers in "On the Old Spanish Trail." Both houses will have a program of cartoons as well. (The day's afternoon-evening picture at both houses will be "Duel in the Sun," so you see why the extra morning performances have been added.) At the Senator, at 3 Saturday afternoon, George's Radio and Television Co. is sponsoring a children's party with Santa Claus and ice cream in the lobby and Jimmy Stewart in "Magic Town" on the screen.

TONIGHT: American University's Hurst Hall will house a talk with incidental dance demonstration by Sophia Delza, "The Changing Patterns of Dance." Miss Delza will cover highlights of dance content as expressed from the primitive to the modern . . . Over in Fairfax, under sponsorship of the Fairfax Rotary Club, the Barter Theater will play "The Barrets of Wimpole Street" on the High School stage at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow night, the same production will be played at the Washington-Lee High School. For further information on the Saturday performance only, call Glebe 1773.

NEW DUO: Valli, the star David O. Selznick imported from Italy, and Frank Sinatra, join forces in the Lasky-MacEwen film version of "The Miracle of the Bells," from Russell Janney's novel. Valli plays the actress in the story and Sinatra, the role of Father Paul

'Wyoming's' a Rare Western; A Lady Doubles as Daughter

By Leo Brady

Probably someday somebody will make a decent picture—possibly even a tragic one—about the proud rancher who browbeats the homesteaders, but "Wyoming" at the Capitol isn't it. "Sea of Grass" wasn't either; in addition the "Farmer and the Cowman" is practically the only unmemorable song in "Oklahoma," so maybe the idea's jinxed.

All "Wyoming" pot-boils down to, in any case, is a run-of-the-range Western, with a couple of startling side attractions. To begin with, William Elliott, who plays the rancher, looks to me like a man haunted. Early in the picture, his wife (Vera Balston) dies in childbirth. The child thereupon grows up and turns out to be Vera Ralston. This unsettles Elliott so much that though he carries on a grudging love affair with Virginia Grey in subsequent reels, he never gets around to marrying her, and he confines his speaking voice to a guarded monotone. Obviously a victim of shock, although his shooting hand is steady enough.

The other amazing element here is the presence in the cast of Marie Ouspenskaya, who watches an Indian arrow miss her face by inches with all the troubled interior artistry she gathered at the feet of Boleslavsky. It's strange enough to see the venerable old lady hobnobbing with horses, but when she goes into a comedy sequence with George Hayes, Chekhov probably rolls over and moans.

Albert Dekker is the villain—or one of them—and he imparts a good, honest sleaziness that takes your mind off the standard events going on around him. Dekker and Elliott rough each other up in a rather satisfying brawl—and of course the rancher desists from his selfish course in the end.

Old Saturday afternoon fans will enjoy seeing Tom London, a man who has been playing minor rustlers for years, and less rowdy reminiscencers will discern Grant Withers in a beard. John Carroll and Vera Ralston sit on a rock and perform what must be the most ridiculous and vacuous love scene ever written.

Anyway, when ther's finally a picture called "Hawaii," it'll have to be different.

On the Capitol stage, a young lady named Nancy Donovan provides more entertainment than anybody else—until, that is, she gets all tied up in an endless Chauncey Olcott.

Jan Latin is liable to unbalance you with his balancing, and the Stroud Twins rattle off their material listlessly—or did at the first show, showing life only when it came to insulting their former boss. Corday and Triano dance.

Mr. Kaufman's overture, incidentally, is very pleasant to listen to.

"WYOMING." Republic release produced and directed by Joe Kane. Screen play by Lawrence Hazard and Gerald Geraghty. Music by Nathan G. Scott and Ernest Gold. At the Capitol.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Harried Pedestrian Objects to "Green For Danger"

When an irate citizen goes to court with a traffic ticket—and beats it—there's usually a story in the incident.

Sidney L. Hechinger of the Westchester Apartments got a ticket for "walking on a red light" at 12th st. and New York ave. nw.

He went to court well armed with facts and figures. He told Judge John P. McMahon that the yellow light at the intersection is only 3½ seconds long—time enough to walk little more than 10 feet at a normal gait, or less than 20 feet at something approaching a dog-trot.

But New York ave. is 99 feet wide at that point. And it's 36 feet to the relative safety of the trees adjoining the car tracks.

Inasmuch as a pedestrian never knows when the yellow light will appear, he can only trust to the green and try his luck.

But the yellow light should remain on longer, District Liner Hechinger contended. And safety zones or islands should be established to provide refuge for those who have been caught by the changing lights.

"After all," says Mr. Hechinger, "'Green For Danger' is the name of a movie—not a slogan for pedestrians."

The court charge was dismissed, but the fight for improved safety conditions goes forward. And a vindicated pedestrian is apt to be a determined campaigner.

ADD NAMES

Rules were made to be broken, so I'm going to break one by printing an anonymous letter. It says:

"Sonny Roberts, age 10, was in Washington recently, taking treatments at a local hospital. Before he left, he asked me to send in an unusual name for your collection. It's 'Graball, Ala.'

"It seems that there used to be a lot of gambling there, and the winners used to 'grab all.'

"I promised Sonny that if you used the item I'd clip it out and mail it to him. Will you?"

Ordinarily, I wouldn't. But I have a weakness for items which are accompanied, as yours was, by so many streetcar tokens for Children's Hospital.

Mrs. Jerome Elswit of 3395 S. Stafford st., Arlington, Va., has long been intrigued by the name "Chin Lee, Ariz."

She says that her curiosity led her to look it up, and she found that its population was 71 and its location some 40 miles from the nearest rail connection.

And she wonders whether any District Liner has actually been there.

SUGGESTION

"This is the time of year," writes J. Meredith Stein of 1303 Seaton lane, Falls Church, Va., "when Christmas shoppers lose purses and wallets.

"Usually, the loss represents savings earmarked for Yuletide gifts. Often it means a real hardship to the loser.

"The other day, for example, a little boy who had 'saved hard' lost a $5 bill in an Arlington dime store. We saw a woman stoop, pick it up, and scurry out the door.

"The poor kid chased after her, but in vain. You can imagine what the loss meant to him.

"So how about suggesting that finders show some Christmas spirit and turn in such property to the manager of the store?"

ADD SIGNS

WTOP's Factfinder, who does a bit of traveling when he's not on the air, recalls some wonderful signs for our collection.

He says that this sign is posted on a bridge in Toledo:

"Do Not Walk Across This Bridge While In Motion."

MUSH
ROOMS

Mr. and Mrs. R. Deane Shure found an interesting sign while exploring the bay country on a recent motor trip. (Mr. Shure is minister of music at the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church.

After driving into a likely looking beach area, the Shures discovered they were on restricted property. So they hunted up an exit gate, only to find that, over it, was a sign proclaiming:

"Positively No Passing Out."

District Liner Shure adds: "Since neither of us had been drinking, we felt there was no danger of our passing out—so we drove right through."

John A. Smith of 830 Jefferson st. nw. says that a Georgia ave. drug store displays on its front door the legend:

"Cosmetic Soda."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Mrs. F. E. Coburn of Riverdale, Md., forwards a clipping from a recent issue of omniscient Time Magazine. It says:

"In China some 900 years ago, there lived a thin-faced little man with a mandarin beard named Su Tungpo."

Apparently Time's researchers are still working on the identity of the beard's owner.

NEW LOOK

Long skirts—short look.

Andy F. Kisacky.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Robert E. Sherwood read the Moscow dispatch which described "The Best Years of Our Lives" as typical American imperialistic warmongering. "This is the same picture which was called Communistic by a witness before the Thomas committee," said Sherwood yesterday. "It proves one thing—that it is possible to please everybody."

Westchester will have a new magazine, County Life, patterned after the New Yorker. It will be published by George Koether, who was with Look.

During his hectic New York visit Lou Clayton agreed to play three games of klaub yasch at $250 a game. He won them all, and his opponent suggested: "One more. Make it an even thousand." Clayton told him: "Why even? I learned how to count odd also. Give me the $750."

Charles Laughton had a breakfast appointment yesterday with Saul Colin and Irwin Piscator, of the New School's Drama Workshop. He was busy, but would accompany them for a few minutes to the President Theater where they were rehearsing Robert Penn Warren's "All the King's Horses."

Laughton mounted the stage and showed the students how he thought the roles should be played. Then he performed for them all the roles in Bertold Brecht's "Galileo," and followed it with a recitation of the Prologue from "Henry V." . . . Laughton, engrossed, then took a cab to the New School, where he repeated these performances. His appointments were forgotten while for six hours he acted, acted and acted.

Vina Barnden, who makes her New York debut at Times Hall next Friday, was sent to England by her townspeople in Adelaide, Australia, who raised $5000 for her education by holding fund-raising parties. In her debut here the pianist will play the "Tobruk Sonata," by Miriam Hyde, who wrote it while her husband was in the siege of Tobruk.

Howard Lindsay took his wife, Dorothy Stickney, to the theater this week, and she left her gloves in her seat. Miss Stickney always forgets things in the theater. Lindsay, therefore, is having a form letter printed, to be mailed on the eve of her going to a theater. It reads: "Manager, ——Theater, N. Y. C. Dear Sir: My wife will be present in your theater tonight. She will sit in Row ——, Seat ——. She will leave her ——. Sincerely yours, Howard Lindsay."

Radar Secrets Leaked

By Drew Pearson

The Army is keeping a strict hush-hush silence about an amazing leak of one of the most important of all war patents—radar—and how it was allowed to get to foreign governments before the war.

Drew Pearson

The inside story of what happened goes back to 1936 when the Signal Corps had just developed radar—destined to become one of the most important weapons of the entire war.

Suddenly, in the fall of 1936, William D. Hershberger, a civilian in the Signal Corps who had been working on radar, resigned to take a job with Ohio State University. A few months later, however, he turned up on the staff of the Radio Corporation of America.

And following this, on January 11, 1938, RCA filed at the United States Patent Office for Patent No. 2,401,717, the basic patent on radar. The application listed as joint inventors I. Wolf, a laboratory man for RCA, and William D. Hershberger, the man who had worked on radar with the Signal Corps.

The Army moved in the Patent Office to prevent the patent from becoming public. This it succeeded in doing, and the patent was not issued to RCA until June 4, 1946—after the war.

Could Not Stop Patents Abroad

However, the Army could not stop action in foreign countries. And RCA proceeded to take out patents in Australia and New Zealand, which, in turn, published them for all the world to see.

Simultaneously, RCA applied for patents in Germany and Japan. And though they were never granted, there was nothing to prevent the Germans and Japanese government from getting the secret. In fact, it was well known that the German and Japanese military worked closely with their patent offices in order to pick up foreign inventions.

Ignorance No Excuse

There was no excuse at that time for RCA filing the radar patent because of ignorance, since it had been working with the Signal Corps, and knew the vital importance the Army attached to it. At that time the Signal Corps considered radar the most important of all secret United States weapons.

After the war, the Army consulted with the United States Patent Office and the Justice Department regarding a suit against RCA. It had refrained from such a suit prior to the war because the publicity would have focused world attention on the importance which the Army attached to the invention.

Whether it had anything to do with the cooling off, it also happened that Gen. Harry Ingles retired as Chief of the Signal Corps on March 31, 1947 and is now holding an important job with the company which leaked the radar patent—the Radio Corporation of America.

The Justice Department still has the matter under advisement, but it looks as if nothing was going to happen.

Unfreezing the Movies

Movie magnates and publishing houses have hatched a new plan which may make Uncle Sam even more of a banker than he is today.

At present, Europeans buy foreign-language editions of Time, the Readers Digest, plus translations of American books. And they are flocking to theaters to see Hollywood movies.

But because they have little to export to this country in return for United States food and goods, they do not have the dollars to pay the movie producers and the magazine publishers. Result: Millions of dollars in foreign currencies are accumulating in the capitals of Europe to the credit of these American business firms. Some day they may be converted into dollars, but nobody knows when.

Movie Czar Eric Johnston now proposes that employes of the United States Information Service abroad be paid in the francs accumulating to the account of the publishers and the movie companies. In return, the United States Treasury would pay off the home office of these publishers and pictures companies in good green United States dollars.

Michigan Democrats are meeting next week to urge former Senator Prentiss Brown to run against Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican, next year. Ferguson is the man who helped fizzle the Howard Hughes investigation. The Democrats believe they can "take him."

Senator McGrath, new chairman of the Democratic National Committee, amazed Democrats at a New York Democratic dinner by praising Jim Farley as much as he did Franklin Roosevelt. Some wonder if McGrath wants Farley to run for Vice President.

Companionship

Companionship means more to me . . . Than many other things . . . Because of all the pleasure and . . . The happiness it brings . . . It means that someone else is there . . . To hear what I would say . . . And in a dozen different ways . . . To pass the time of day . . . To give me courage and advice . . . And lend a helping hand . . . And talk in simple terms about . . . The things we understand . . . Companionship is friendship in . . . The truest sense of all . . . And it designs the fondest dreams . . . Our memories recall . . . It is the bridge that spans the stream . . . Where icy waters flow . . . And it unites us heart and soul . . . With someone nice to know.
